SHORTAGE OF GOODS AND SPECULATION

Given as the Prime Cause of Present High Prices in the United States.

New York, April 30.—Bankers, educators and economists of the United States and Europe discussed the facts and causes of inflation and high prices and their remedies, at the semi-annual meeting of the Academy of Political Science, which opened here to-day.

Dr. M. A. Anderson, jr., of the National Bank of Commerce in New York, speaking at the forenoon session, declared that the shortage of goods and the attendant speculation is the prime cause of present high prices in this country.

"When our enormous export balance disappears and when our domestic markets are called upon to absorb three or four hundred million dollars' worth of goods per month, which they have not been absorbing, we shall see lower prices," he declared.

"In 1919 we produced less by at least 10 per cent in physical units than in 1917," he declared. "Coupled with this decreased production, due to the prolonged strain on our industrial system, came a great increase in our export balance of trade and a great increase in domestic consumption, as our people relaxed from war-time economy and swung to the other extreme. The net result is greater shortages of goods than at the end of the war."
