LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Col. F. B. Thomas' Candidacy.

Editor, Barre Times: Colonel Fred B. Thomas of Montpelier, as candidate for state's attorney, is the only veteran of the World war whose name is before the Republican voters of Washington county for nomination to a county office. Without casting any reflections upon any other candidate, his friends feel confident that the voters of the county will want to support him and thus recognize these veterans by nominating one of their number on the county ticket. They contend that since there are nine county officers to elect it is fair and reasonable that at least one should be an ex-service man, and in Colonel Thomas they have a worthy candidate. Arthur Ellis.

There are said to be 117,371 women in Vermont eligible to vote. That makes enough to send the state Democratic if the new voters were to align themselves with that party, which is a contingency not at all expected.

Those lessons in citizenship are now greatly needed since the women were admitted to the right of voting. At the same time there are a good many men now exercising the right of suffrage who ought to be put through the same course of instruction. The women have no monopoly on the ignorance regarding civic matters.

Ponzi threatens to expose a certain well known "philanthropist" of Boston who backed out of the scheme and caused the collapse of the house of cards. The "philanthropist" must be the collective man who surrendered many millions of dollars to Ponzi, enabling him to live in a mansion, drive a splendid limousine, dress in the height of fashion and give every evidence of luxurious ease. They were the real philanthropists.

HARDING AS A PLACATER

Decision of Senator Hiram Johnson of California to go on a speaking tour in behalf of the candidacy of Senator Harding closes up another gap caused by the rancor of the Republican national convention and will go far toward restoring allegiance of some Republicans who were more or less alienated when their favorite candidate, Senator Johnson, was lost in the shuffle at Chicago last June. One noteworthy feature of Harding's candidacy to date has been the ability he has displayed, together with his advisers, in smoothing over the ruffled feelings and patting the pride of this or that person who felt himself aggrieved by some action taken inside the party. In this respect Harding shows some resemblance to the man McKinley, who was held up as an example of the Harding type of man. McKinley had a wonderful faculty of salving the wounds of fellow-party men. Senator Harding is following along a similar course and is undoubtedly solidifying the strength of the Republican party preparatory to the election in November.

RANDOLPH

Mrs. Douglas Barclay and children at Barre are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Manchester.
