MYSTERIOUS RAIDS MADE

Six Houses in Separated Parts of Liverpool Set on Fire

INMATES IN SOME CASES MALTREATED

Occupants of Every House Have Relatives in Royal Irish Constabulary

Liverpool, May 16.—Six houses in widely separated parts of this city were raided and set on fire by parties unknown last night. The occupants of every house thus visited have relatives serving in the Royal Irish constabulary. The inmates were in some cases gagged and bound, the furniture was drenched with kerosene and set on fire and in some instances the helpless people were left to the mercy of the flames by the raiders, who fled in automobiles.

The raids were in all ways similar to those made in suburban districts of London and in this city Saturday night. The police declared yesterday that the raids on Saturday night were apparently well organized, and that in most cases the men engaged in them were disguised.

One house that was raided was occupied by Mrs. Jennings, a widow, and her daughter. The latter opened the door when there was a knock, and she was seized by the throat by the intruder. She struggled and fled to her mother and then fainting. The women were too terrified to raise an alarm.

In another house were three sisters, who were overawed by a dozen men, who displayed revolvers and threatened to shoot them if they stirred. The men then ignited the furniture and fled. A neighbor saw the flames, and upon going to the house found the women's clothing in flames from fires that had been set in the bedding. Firemen arrived in time to save the building. Two men who tried to seize the fleeing raiders were stabbed, but were not seriously injured.

In another house a man 70 years of age was attacked and beaten with a poker. He was then gagged and bound, and clothing and bedding was piled on the floor and ignited. The man's aged wife collapsed, but in, while bound, managed to struggle to a police station and give an alarm.

A retired sailor named Wilson grappled with a raider when his home was entered, and in spite of his 77 years, threw the intruder to the floor and held him until another raider placed a revolver at the old man's head and threatened to kill him. Wilson thereupon abandoned the struggle, but his terrier attacked the raiders and prevented them from setting fire to the house. When the raiders ran the dog chased them out was shot dead.

A sailor named Brailford, who lost a leg in the famous naval raid on Zeebrugge, refused to throw up his hands when men broke into his house, but threw a small sewing machine at the intruders, who fled firing several shots as they left the house. None of the raiders has been arrested.

Bound to Stay.

The other night a young man was visiting his best girl, and he stayed on and on until she became very sleepy indeed. Also she had to work the next day and thought it time to give him a hint that it was time for him to go home. "Don't you think you had better phone for a taxi to go home in? It's so late now, and there have been several robberies out in this part of the town after midnight."

The young man was visibly pleased at her suggestions, "O, yes, please do," he returned. "I'm not afraid, but the taxi will take me home so much faster than I can walk that I can stay at least an hour longer."—Indianapolis News.

AURORA STARTS A COMMOTION

Telephone and Telegraph Service Seriously Hampered

Western Union Reports Wires Badly Tied Up

States Saturday night and Sunday. Cables between England and the United States were affected early this morning and transmission was badly delayed.

The disturbance is believed to have caused a fire which destroyed a telephone exchange at Karlstad, a Swedish town about 100 miles west of Stockholm.

New York, May 16.—Electrical disturbances caused by the Aurora borealis appeared at 2 o'clock this morning, seriously hampering telephone and telegraph services.

The Western Union Telegraph company reported that, with a few exceptions, its wires all were tied up.

Dubuque Has Shortest Railroad in U. S., and It Pays.

To have the shortest railway in the United States, and that paying dividends, is unusual, but Dubuque has both. It is three city blocks in length and is double track.

The road extends from the valley business section to the top of a 500-foot plateau, the residential section, and two cars operated by cable-electricity are used as mediums of transportation. The road is as old as the city itself, being in operation since 1850, although improvements have been made from time to time.

The earnings of the road are not the result of increases made in the fares, for they have, since the start of the year in 1917, remained stationary. When the cost of everything, including rail rates was increased the little road plugged along at the same rates. Citizens patronized the road more and more, rather than climb the 500 steps to reach the heights.

Only two men are required to operate the line, one at the plateau or in the valley. The operator in his capacity acts as motorman, conductor and baggage smasher.—Minneapolis Journal.
