The following item clipped from a Boston paper of March 17 will be of interest to Brattleboro readers.

"Much interest centered in a quiet wedding in the cathedral parish house at 5:30 Monday afternoon, when Henry D. Marsh, councilman, a well-known society man and eldest son of Daniel J. Marsh, treasurer of the Five O'Clock Club, took a Catholic bride in Miss Anna Frances Lillis of this city, daughter of Mrs. A. F. Lillis of Brattleboro.

Upon their return they will live with Mr. Marsh's father, and in May will go to housekeeping. Until yesterday few knew that the couple were engaged, and the announcement caused sensation in society in which Marsh has moved for years.

Mr. Newell said he had one case there which was the most peculiar he had ever had. Lewis Bates of Bethel came into the room and said he was deaf and had a leg drawn up by the cords, so that he could not use it very well.

Newell stated to a reporter that he had been most successful with sciatic rheumatism and heart trouble while he had treated over 1000 cases for deafness he said he had not cared or helped over 50 at the most.

He said that he does not know that he can help a person when looking at them, and does not claim to cure every one. He said that probably not one-half he had treated had been helped.

Save 50 to $100 worth of clothes a year by using less soap. The mission band of the Universalist church met yesterday afternoon at the church and listened to an interesting paper on home and foreign missions read by Mrs. Beaman of the Methodist church.
