A comedy and vaudeville company of unusual merit has been engaged to appear at Brookside park next week. It is known as the Orpheum Comedy company, consisting of clever comedians, dainty dancers and singers headed by the charming little sourette, Vina Mascotte. The company recently played at Berber park, Bellows Falls, and Manager Holton writes in highest praise of them. They are now playing at Brattleboro, Vermont. The local papers spoke of the company last week as being the finest comedy and vaudeville combination that has played there since 1900.

Mrs. Hattie Cary Webster, who has been summing here with her father, Dr. Webster, left Tuesday evening, called by the illness of her husband, with typhoid fever, of her husband, W. H. Cary, now the manager of the Constantin Sugar company, the second largest one of the island. He had been known to be ill for a week and a letter from the president of the company stated that it was typhoid fever, that he was at a private hospital near the city, but that he ought to be able to get north as soon as possible. Dr. Webster also confirmed this by cable with the doctor of the hospital, and Mrs. Cary started as soon as possible, leaving her baby here. Mr. Cary's condition is described as not immediately dangerous, and Mrs. Cary, who sailed from New York Wednesday morning, ought to reach there by Monday. Mr. Cary went to Cuba as auditor for the company and it was this spring that he was promoted to be general manager.

Michael Kelley has told his story to Village Attorney Bacon about the James J. Griffin affair and it leaves it as much a mystery as ever. He says he went over on the island about 9 o'clock this evening of June 25th and there saw Griffin with a man who could not identify him, but he could not identify, sitting on the grass drinking on the east side of Grant's granite shop; that they offered him a drink, which he took, and it was such horrible stuff that it made him sick and he turned round and proceeded to vomit, and when he finished this interesting procedure the three had vanished. James Boyce has been interviewed by Bacon without being told of Kelley's story, or that the latter had told any. He admits that he was there with Griffin on the evening named and says the man whom, curiously enough, he could not identify, was Dumay Manning. He says that Kelley came along, but instead of their giving him a drink it was his own liquor that he swallowed, and then began to throw up, and that then he and Manning started home, leaving Kelley there. They parted with Griffin at the railroad crossing and he started down the track while they proceeded on toward their homes, and this was the last that they ever saw of him. Griffin was not drunk, he says.

An athletic event of unusual interest will take place Tuesday evening at Grange hall, when W. B. Mettrey will hold an "Athletic Carnival." The program announced is one of unusual strength and variety, opening with two sparring bouts by two pairs of local sparrers and a collar and elbow wrestling contest; the intermissions will be filled in with an exhibition of clut singing by a local adept at the art, wing dancing and bacon juggling. The closing event of this unusual program is 15 rounds of scientific sparring by "Kid" Bean of Montreal, featherweight champion of Canada, and Eddie Quinn, winner of 20 events. This last event should prove one of the most interesting contests ever seen in this part of the country as both men are most evenly matched.

It is not often that an opportunity is afforded our people like that which presents itself on Thursday next, viz. the Lawn Tea and Organ Recital of the Baptist church. The cool grounds, the generous bill of fare, consisting of salads and various other delicacies, and last, but not least, the excellent concert in the church in a program of which is appended will certainly appeal to a very great number who desire to feed both body and mind at a very little expense. Mr. Samuel Dunn of Montreal is the possessor of a fine bass voice which he uses with great effect. He has recently filled the position of bass soloist at St. George's (English) church in Montreal and is spending a well-earned vacation in Brattleboro. Miss Maude Young is well known to us as a rising young soprano singer and her many friends will give her a hearty welcome. It is hoped to speak of Prof. Cramer's work on the organ; he will, without doubt, be at his best and his friends know what that promises. Program: Pilgrim's Chorus, Tannhauser Wagner Song. Miss Maude Young. Prelude and Fugue in E flat major. J. S. Bach Song. Mr. Samuel Dunn. (a) Spring Song (Lieder ohne Worte). Mendelssohn. (b) "Simple Aven". Thome Song. Miss Young. Gavotte, Moderne. The hearing of Flaherty and Carroll, the alleged postoffice burglars scouted at Springfield, as stated Tuesday, is to be held at Rutland Monday. E. J. Fenton & Co. are to start a Harry Sale of men's and boys' clothing, hats, caps, etc., at their store in Ulsey building tomorrow (Saturday) morning. This firm have made it a rule not to carry goods from one season to another and adhere to it by having a sale where cost and value take no part in price marking. They have much to say in another column.

A position to the selectmen has started asking for lights at the Hinsdale bridges. There is serious need of them, for not only the heavy patrons but hobo's gather there in large numbers, night and day. Last week was held up, and a year ago one shot and slightly wounded, which the public did not know of at the time or until long after in the former case, and some day there will be a serious crime. Of course the real duty of lighting belongs to Hinsdale; but if she won't do it in whole or part, this town ought to.

The dedicatory concert at it was from the new band stand on the Common Wednesday evening drew the largest crowd of the season estimated all the way from 1500 to 1800. Many brought camp chairs and family groups about the ground were plenty. Besides the general excellence of the concert, the earnest and intelligent playing of Bruce Ernest Mark has been a pleasing feature. The stand, designed by Photographer A. D. Wyatt, is a handsome little structure, its base and top shingled and painted grass green and its posts, balustrade and cornice colonial style and painted white. It is lighted with 12 incandescent lights and is built so that it can be entered only through a door which is kept locked. The building is the work of Holden & Martin, who completed it Monday through a little painting remained to be done by W. A. Morse. The cost $210 and $170 of it was raised by subscription.

Lawyer Jas. F. Hooker has been in Bellows Falls and Waipole investigating the injury of Herbert Boyd there a week ago. He was reported in these columns last week. Boyd was one of the men working for R. C. Reed, a contractor for the International Paper Co. in hauling logs ashore there from the driver. It was done by a "donkey engine" on boat in the river and Boyd was at the top of a pile of logs, and as the boat was being swung over and so badly injured in the spine that he had to be brought home on a bed and a comrade, Nelson, had a log broken. They claim that the loss in charge did not give the signal to the engineer to stop when the log touched the point and it was to be dropped. The man claims that he did and the engineer that he answered it, so that the negligence was that of the men themselves. Suit has not yet been brought and an effort is in progress to compromise the case.
