CRAYON PORTRAITS!

The subscriber is now prepared to receive orders for Crayon Portraits, from photo, or from life, similar in execution to specimens on exhibition. These Crayons are of a high order of merit, and require in the execution a degree of talent and skill equal with that required in fine oil painting. In the cities they are justly ranked with the best fine art work in oils, are equally permanent, and by very many are preferred for portraits to oil painting. It is rare that work of a really high character is offered outside the large cities, and any desiring such work will do well to improve the opportunity while it is open.

Excellent for Christmas! A skillfully drawn portrait of this kind makes one of the best possible mementos for the Christmas holidays. Parties intending to order for that time and purpose should order early, as already a large part of the interesting time is engaged.

BETTER THAN A COSTLY MONUMENT.

Many erect a costly monument for keeping fresh the memory of dear ones passed away, but which, while far more expensive, is less successful in the attainment of the end sought than one of these life-like portraits. They excite universal admiration, and it is a common remark that it is a wonder such likenesses can be produced simply by a crayon. The above cut is a par excellence of a hastily-made one in ink drawing by J. F. Gilman. It makes no pretension to finish whatever.

The prices for these likenesses are very moderate, being from $25 for life size for adults and $15 for children, down to $5 for smaller sizes. No picture will be allowed to be accepted until perfectly satisfactory.

On receipt of address and twenty-five cents, a photograph taken from one of these Crayons will be sent, showing in some measure the quality of the work.

THE RESULT OF FORTY YEARS' EXPERIENCE

Compulsory education is not enough, because studies in the home atmosphere of vice will only give impetus and sharpen these intellects to rise to giant wickedness. They are not to be trusted, and the result is a generation of degenerates. The malaria of crime can only be checked and cured by a change of locality. The state and even national governments are powerless to check these degenerates, and the only remedy is a change of locality. A return which dooms reproductions of vicious life. Patriotism and fatherhood are so nearly allied in our way of thinking and feeling that we do not think of the government as being guardian to this degenerate form of life. We have an example of its beneficence at Carlsbad, in its care and culture of the childhood of savages. We wonder that we had not thought of it long ago. It lay like a jewel in the bosom of Christianity from the beginning. Now this is what we need for the wastes of our great cities. Let the hand of the government be laid upon the slums and there will be no more places in our great cities where virtue and charity dare not make pilgrimages unless guarded by the police. The streets, the alleys, and the tenements, and neglected children are rescued by the government as its own, and the parents have to be held in check by their government. These are educated at government expense. When an intelligent American asked in wonder how the government of Sweden could afford to do so, he was answered that the government could afford far less afford not to do so. The form of our government, with its suffrage almost universal, must not permit ignorance and crime to exist, or they will, like blind Samson, pull down the pillars where our institutions rest.—Frederic Jeron.

Picking up the Cable.

The laying of telegraphic cables is now so common that the description of the machinery used for picking up a broken one will be read with interest. It consists of a rope about an inch and a quarter in diameter, made from the twisted strands of the strongest hemp with interwoven wires of fine steel. The grapnel at the end is merely a solid shaft of iron some two feet long, and weighing about one hundred pounds,

DOMINION.

When from the rose daylight in her hair he shone, she smiled, and he was glad to see her face.

That smile! Further, I discovered, that smile was not a smile of pleasure.

It was a smile of pain, a smile of sorrow, a smile of grief, a smile of despair.
