Mr. Bryan's address dealt almost entirely with the financial question. It was more argumentative and less eloquent than his historical Chicago speech, which won for him a presidential nomination...

No Woman's Letter Published Except by Request.

Mrs. Pinkham's Tender Relations With the Suffering of Her Sex—Women Who Cannot Hide Their Happiness.

There is a class of women who, from their own experience, sympathize with their suffering sisters, and in order that such suffering may be lessened, not only put aside false modesty and in heartfelt gratitude publish to the world whatever they know.

Mrs. W. L. Elliott, Liscomb, Iowa, is one of those women, and has requested us to publish the facts in her case, otherwise it would not be done.

I doctored nearly all the time for two years. I spent several hundred dollars without receiving much benefit. Last June I wrote to you and described all my aches and pains.

SOLDIERS' BUDGET.

A Soldier of Napoleon.

Most of us nowadays, when thinking of the Napoleonic war, consider them as part of the remote past, and it is difficult to realize that there may be people still living who took part in the battles of Marengo, Jena and Waterloo.

His name was Henry Mueller, and he was born in Germany in 1794, and when the French armies invaded Prussia Mueller was fifteen years old.

After Napoleon had been captured by the British and sent to the lonely island of St. Helena, and the great armies of Europe had been disbanded, Mueller took ship and came to the United States.

At a gathering of old soldiers in Washington General Sikes told the following story: "It was, I should think, very early in the winter of 1861-62 that having some business with General McClellan, I walked up one forenoon to his headquarters in the Arlington house...

Then a female on the other side began to cough. "Oh, dear, dear, that horrid cough! It always brings on my cough!" she moaned. I continued to breathe heavily. Then a gentleman with spectacles, who looked as if he knew lots about finances, took up the cudgils. "We will let him turn out your 'station,'" he said.

At the Teachers' college recently a practical demonstration in the science of cutting up meat was given. Some of the cheaper cuts were shown to be quite as nutritious as the more expensive ones.

Uncle Duff, hearing the noise, began to pray; Aunt Saluda joined him fervently; Sam listened stupidly and in suffocating terror.

Does It Pay?

Does it pay—all this burden and worry. After the learning is over with pat. All the planning and nervous wild action. The restlessness following gain—Does it pay?

Then each day. And every day. And every day. And every day.

Odd Fences.

The present age seems to be one in which people vie with each other to devise curious and interesting contrivances by gathering views of freaks in fence building, in which nothing should be so commonplace as a "worm" fence.

SMITH'S RHEUMATIC CURE.

Cause of Wrinkles.

If a young man with a full bunch of wrinkles in his forehead presents himself at your door and exhibits a card describing himself as "face manipulator of her grace the Lady William Berensford," do not dismiss him with harsh words.

"The principal cause of wrinkles," says this man, who, though badly wrinkled himself, knows all about the causes of wrinkles, is a faulty way of sleeping.

"Almond Eyes and Butterfly that Sips the Morning Dew" knows more about complexions than the sweet young man's whole family. Probably you do not know who Almond Eyes, etc., is and may not, therefore, feel full faith in her infallibility.

This matter of a soft pillow may seem like a joke, but when you find the little lines between your eyes and at their corners persistently refusing to be rubbed out you may listen to the voice of this latter day prophet.

There was another lady in the far east who had wrinkles on her forehead, and she chose one of the old-fashioned Korfydan. She attributed the glory of her complexion, which brought her the name of "Down Among the Palm Trees," to her use of a skin pillow filled with perfumed water.

It is a very effective way of sleeping to rest the head upon the pillow, but not supported by the hand and arm, and always to the firm, hard pillow. This posture has the effect of drawing the skin of the forehead between the relation of complexion and sleep.

Deprived of the down, the bellies that sag over the eyes are a small head rest about the size and the hardness of a watermelon. They are likely to complain of the rigidity of the discipline, but they thank their preceptors before they are through with life.

There is another rule in that same category that makes young cheeks blanch at first—a girl is permitted to eat candy between meals. They can have all the chocolate and creams they want for dessert at dinner, but at no other time.

"I should adore you forever," said the beautiful Mme. Farrow. "Then, madame," replied the oculist, "wear spectacles when you read. I venture to say that by the time you have finished your morning newspaper that little wrinkle upon your brow is a deep furrow."

A little trouble with the eyes is the cause of Ellen Terry's furrow, which is considered becoming to her. As a rule, though, the way of sleeping is responsible for ugliness or beauty.

THE man who says the right thing at the right time is the man who says nothing at all when in doubt.

FACT AND FANCY.

To the Bicyclist Bending Forward.

Oh, youth, who, bending forward, rides apace, With melancholy stamped upon your face, Pursuing pleasure with a frenzied eye, Yet mocked by her, however fast you fly, Are you aware how horrible you look? No gay inventor for a picture-book Was ever a more painful sight than thou, Lord of the bent back and the anxious brow.

What's a Wilderess Without Game? "Jibba and the rest of the boys didn't want to swear off poker entirely, but they'd been playing a good deal lately, and to get a rest they went into camp last week, twenty miles back in the woods from Bogville, so they wouldn't see a card for a month."

ALL RECOMMEND IT.—Ask your physician, your druggist and your friends about Shiloh's Cure for consumption. They will recommend it. For sale by W. E. Terrill & Co., Montpelier, Vt.

Arbiter: "Well, what's the trouble? Complainant: "We had a game of poker. I paid a dollar apiece for the chips. When we came to settle up, all he would allow me was fifty-three cents apiece." Defendant: "Yes; but you don't say that we had changed to a silver basis." Arbiter: "Oh, you changed to a silver basis, eh? That's all right then. Fifty-three cents was all the chips were worth."

THE ILLS OF WOMEN.—Constipation causes more than half the ills of women. Karl's Clover Root Tea is a pleasant cure for constipation. For sale by W. E. Terrill & Co., Montpelier, Vt.

She Got Even. Mrs. Mann: "Here's a pie your mother brought in to-day. I suppose you will have a piece?" Mr. Mann: "Will I? Well, I guess! Ah, that's the stuff! If you could only make pies like mother, Hetty!" Mrs. Mann: "Yes, as I was going to say, your mother brought this in to-day. She saw it at the baker's as she passed by, and went in and bought it. She'll be real glad you like it."

From One Point of View. The country has charms to the man who lives in the city when he is accompanied along the street on one side by a friend with whom he is desirous to converse and upon the other side by a dray-load of iron. But, on the contrary, the city seems a perfect heaven to the man in the country for rest and quiet, who is awakened at peep of day by a grand concert of cocks, cows, calfs, neighing horses and the early risen farmer 'cussin' his boys for not being 'sprier, confound ye."

A NATURAL BEAUTIFIER.—Karl's Clover Root Tea purifies the blood and gives a clear and beautiful complexion. For sale by W. E. Terrill & Co., Montpelier, Vt.

A SAD, SAD FACT.—Thousands of people at summer resorts owe bills at home. THERE IS NO rhyme for silver; and as for that matter, there is no reason in its advocates.

THE currency question: You haven't a quarter about you that you are not going to use? KARL'S CLOVER ROOT TEA is a sure cure for headache and nervous diseases. Nothing relieves so quickly. For sale by W. E. Terrill & Co., Montpelier, Vt.

IF you ever noticed it, it is only the present time when it is very hard to exert one's self. At other times one does not mind the most violent exertion. How strangely do life's prizes go. Awarded by the things they know. And some by talking to the Washington Star.

A FACT WORTH KNOWING.—Consumption, la grippe, pneumonia, and all throat and lung diseases are cured by Shiloh's Cure. For sale by W. E. Terrill & Co., Montpelier, Vt.
