The engine house at the quarry of Canton Bros., at Websterville was burned to the ground Tuesday evening and the machinery in the building was quite badly damaged. The engine house contained considerable valuable machinery, which is certain to be almost a complete loss.

Mrs. F. E. When they cured me of soreness through the back and kidneys and other complications due to either weakened or excited kidneys and that cure has remained effective for over five years I am only too pleased to allow my endorsation to be continued. I have repeatedly advised my friends and acquaintances to go to W. E. WILLIAMSTOWN.

Saturday last, the 7th inst., was the ninety-first birthday of our oldest male citizen, Moses Parsons. He is a well preserved man, for his years, retaining remarkably his physical and mental powers. A farmer by occupation earlier in life, always an abstainer from tobacco, and otherwise of temperate habits; an honest man, and worthy citizen he has had the respect of his fellow townsmen through his long life. Years ago he buried his only daughter, the first Mrs. William Z. Pratt, and later his wife died. His only grandchild is Mrs. Frank Jeffords in whose family he has his home. Too few of us understad and sufficiently pity the loneliness of one who, like Mr. Parsons, has outlived so long the companions of earlier years.

Mrs. Arthur Simons, lately married the second time, is now Mrs. Travers, and has gone to California to live. Mr. Travers was a schoolday acquaintance.

Brian C Roberts, rector of the Episcopal church of Barre, was lately here, and administered the rite of baptism to Mrs. James Powers and her children.

Mrs. Chester Martin will likely remain at the home of her late brother, in Wataga, Ill., till warmer weather, and then go to visit her daughter, Mrs. G. E. Maloy, in St. Cloud, Minn.

Mrs. J. K. Lynde last week visited her two sons, who are students in Brigham Academy, Bakersfield.

William N. Grearson, of the Grearson-Beckett Granite Company, was laid off from work last week, by an attack of grip.

Mrs. A. Vassar is visiting friends in northern New York.

Rev. H. E. Howard, who rented the Orville H. Briggs farm, some years ago, has lately buried his wife, in the southern part of the State.

William S. Davenport, son of the late Rice Davenport, is in Europe, to sell machinery of his own invention.

Rev. Frances A. Kimball and sister have moved from "the Gale house" in the center of our village to Mrs. Henry F. Erskine's house near the Congregational parsonage. Their fine neighborliness will be missed in their old "quarters."

Last week Tuesday's weather was favorable for a large vote here, on the referendum, and the result of 158 "No" votes to 115 "Yes" ones, was most gratifying to the anti-local-optionists. The full significance of this victory, can be understood only by those who knew the changed conditions in this township, in the development of the granite industry in the last twelve to fifteen or more years.

After the brave and successful fight here on temperance issues, in late weeks, is it possible now that our town will surrender to an opposite sentiment and vote for the admission of saloons, at our coming March meeting? Some confidently believe it. It is argued that Barre is to have saloons, and that the money that would go there from here, for liquors, should be stopped here, by allowing saloons; an argument that, carried to its logical conclusion, would have saloons in every town of the State. But whatever the "money" that might be thus "stopped" here, could it possibly compensate for the other "losses" our town would sustain, by saloons? In the few weeks intervening, let the temperance workers of our place, double, if possible, all previous efforts for keeping saloons from our midst.

Last week we gave some facts concerning the section to which our townsman, Hamilton Wark, went in 1901, namely, the province of Alberta, Northwestern Territory, Canada. We have other facts that we think will be worth giving here. Although so far north, the climate, for certain reasons, is milder than some might think. In the two Decembers, Mr. Wark has been there, we select from letters, as follows: "Dec. 3, hot as summer. Birds and crows are to be seen. Dec. 29, no snow, warm and nice. Jan. 26, 1902, one of the boys rode twenty-five miles on his bicycle. Feb. 24, Only a little snow and lovely weather March 24, no snow and good roads. Nov. 31, very nice weather. The Warks write, "that it is a very nice country there, with nice people, and lots of fine cattle and horses." But help is scarce. December 1, they quote eggs at 45 cents per dozen, and butter 25 cents per pound. One of the girls bought a two years' old heifer, and paid cash, $35 for it. The water there is fine. They are fifteen miles from the nearest store, and four miles from a post-office.—They write that "poor folks can ill afford to be sick there," and tell of one family paying a doctor $15 for a visit, with no benefit; "and another one must likely be called at an expense of $75 to $100 for a visit." But whatever the "outs," in all probability they are doubtless fewer—and may be far fewer—than our own citizens had, in many cases, who "went West to grow up with the country," sixty years ago, and who have grown wealthy out there. We doubt not that many who are seeking homes in that Northwestern Territory, will find it the making of their competencies, if not their wealth.

Mrs. W. O. Pride is ill.

Mabel V. Ladd, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ladd, is a student at the Burr and Burton Seminary in Manchester, Vt.

Mrs. F. O. Allen visited her mother in Brookfield, last week.

GLACIAL STREAMS.

Switzerland and southern France are now beginning to utilize to a large extent their own great sources of unfailing water power. The mighty snowfields which cover their mountains will never disappear. They send the glaciers down the mountains and the glaciers begin to melt at the lower altitudes some of them forming, waterfalls of great height, while others tumble in torrential streams to the valleys below.

This water from the glaciers is being more and more utilized every year. The water is diverted into pipes and carried hundreds, or even thousands of feet below to turn turbine wheels and generate electricty.

Mr. Nason, our consul at Grenoble, says that the use of electrical power thus generated is being extended in all directions. The electrical plant at Grenoble already gives power to the mills there and to the street car systems

Under a tension of 26,000 volts, the power is transmitted forty miles to factories in Moirans, Voiron and Kives. Genoble will soon be lighted by electricity. Six mills which are making paper, wood pulp, acetylene, aluminum and other commodities are now established in the valley of Romancat, which a few years ago had scarcely any inhabitants. Electrical power has wrought the change.

The amount of steam power utilized by the industries of France is equal to 6,500,000 horse power. The hydraulic engineers of France say that the water in her mountainous districts can produce electrical energy equal to 10,000,000 horse power, unlike coal, will never be exhausted.
