CHESSES COMES EASY TO HIM
Youthful Prodigy Declares There is Nothing Wonderful About His Mastership of Game.
Chess is the easiest game in the world to me. During the long dull days of the war my father used to play all the time with his friends. At first I did not understand what the chessmen were for, and wondered why father would sit for hours and gaze at the board with its funny-looking pieces. One day when I did not want to go out and play I watched him play his game. I became interested. I bothered my father so with questions that he chased me out of the game as soon as he was through with his friend. I waited eagerly for him to get through. He played a practice game with me, and I understood every move after that. The next game we played, I beat my father, who is a very good chess player.
There is nothing wonderful about my way of playing the game. My secretary, Mr. Azenberg, says that it comes from reincarnation. A baby is born with good brains, and they explain it that way. They say that his ancestors or some spirits have given this power to him because so much ability in one person must have taken a long time to develop. When I play chess I can plan my moves six or seven moves ahead, and most players can only go three moves ahead of the game. I can't help it at all. I was born that way. I like to play with poor players. At West Point, where I beat 19 games and drew one, there were only nine good players; the others had no business trying to play me at all.
I have played lots of fine players in chess. During the war I beat the German governor at Warsaw, and he was an old man and a fine player. Then I drew a game with Rubenstein, the Russian champion, and also drew with Griffin in a blindfolded game in England. I have not played Lasker yet, but one of the 21 I beat in Paris says he drew a game with Lasker, and another said he beat Capablanca. In America, my hardest game so far has been with Colonel Flebeiger, sixty-two years old, at West Point.—Samuel Rzeszewski in Leslie's.

SEE SUICIDE NATIONAL PERIL
Influenza Japanese Newspapers Exalt Christian Idea as to the Sacredness of Life.
Suicide, which has always been prevalent in Japan, is, according to the Japanese press, even more rife than ever since the financial crisis in the Land of the Rising Sun, says the Literary Digest in a recent issue. The Osaka Mainichi, which sees peril to the nation in the prevalence of self-slaughter, acknowledges the excellences of the Christian view that suicide, instead of being merely an apology for failure, is a crime. Many suicides in Japan are due to the fact that the Japanese have "less attachment to life than foreigners," and also to the traditions of feudal times when they belittled life.
The Osaka Mainichi says further: "Death—much more suicide—means evasion of responsibility . . . and the notion that those who commit suicide have the keenest sense of responsibility is wrong. Suicide is the embodiment of egotism and irresponsibility. One of the strong points of the Christian people is their conviction that to kill one's self is as criminal as to kill others."

Remarkable Photographic Feat.
Conspicuous among a number of remarkable scenes in a three-reel motion-picture film recently taken of an Ohio steel mill in operation, is one that actually shows the boiling of molten metal in an open-hearth furnace heated to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit. The photographic feat of successfully registering this action in detail on the film is particularly interesting, because the subject is one that a human eye can not gaze upon unprotected, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Furthermore, the extreme heat of the furnace cast some doubt on the safety of the camera, with its charge of celluloid ribbon, and while the exposure was made, two men stood ready to hurl the operator to a cooler place if anything happened.

Potato Flour Mixed With Wheat.
A fifty-fifty mixture of wheat flour from the United States and potato flour of domestic make has been ordered by the Netherlands government for its people with the hope of keeping down the price of bread. Unless something is done to keep down the price of imported wheat it will soon be out of the reach of the populace, says the Chicago Journal. Potato starch was used a great deal during the war for the purpose of piecing out the wheat flour supply, and it was not generally acceptable to the people, but potato flour will not be open to the same criticism, and it is anticipated will prove more palatable.

No Respecter of Persons.
Law enforcement is no respecter of persons, as a young woman stenographer in the office of Charles J. Orblison, federal prohibition director, can testify.
This young woman ordered some wine of pepsin from her druggist. The druggist considered the order and her record on previous orders. "Young woman," he said, "I cannot sell you any wine or pepsin. You are using too much. We are under strict orders from the prohibition director to watch carefully our sales on wine of pepsin."—Indianapolis News.

POLICE RECOVER THOUSANDS IN LOOT
F. W. Tuna of Brookline Had Concealed Great Quantities of Plunder About the City.
BOSTON, Sept. 12.—Thousands of dollars worth of jewelry, clothing, sporting goods and articles of every conceivable description, alleged to have been stolen from apartments and basement storerooms in Brookline, Cambridge and several other sections of Greater Boston, have been recovered by the Brookline police.
The recovery of the property, the storage of which taxes the capacity of one of the detention rooms at the Brookline police station, is the result of the arrest Sunday, Sept. 4, of Frederick W. Tuna, alias Charles William Warner, alias Fred Leonard, by patrolman Kieran F. McManus of the Brookline police.
Tuna is now in the Dedham jail, where he was committed in default of $5,000, following his arraignment in the Brookline municipal court on a charge of breaking and entering the apartment of Dr. Joseph E. Fallon, 493 Boylston street, Sept. 4. His case comes up on a continuance at the Brookline court a week from today.
The police came into possession of part of the property Saturday, but yesterday they had a windfall, the search of several of Tuna's alleged caches being successful far beyond the most sanguine expectations. The police have lines on several other places of concealment which they expect will yield big returns.
The storage places of stolen valuables are being opened up so rapidly that Lieut. George K. Stitt and special officers John Donovan and Allen Wilson are kept busy making the recoveries.
In addition to the large amount of property now in possession of the Brookline police, and the several avenues which they think will lead to the recovery of more valuables, they have two dozen pawn tickets which they will not get to work on until today. These tickets, it is confidently expected, will greatly increase the value of property already recovered.

A BIRTHDAY BEQUESTED.
Robert Louis Stevenson's Letter to Miss Ide Recalled.
The recent death in Vermont of Henry C. Ide, former chief justice of Samoa, calls to mind a charming letter written to him by Robert Louis Stevenson, in which the writer bequeathed a birthday to his daughter Annie. The letter reads thus:
Dear Mr. Ide: Vailima, June 19, 1891.
Herewith please find the DOCUMENT which I trust will prove sufficient in law. It seems to me very attractive in its eclecticism: Scots, English and Roman law phrases are all indifferently introduced, an quotation from the works of Haynes Bailey can hardly fail to attract the indulgence of the bench.
Yours very truly,
ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.
