

The wire foot bridge over the Niagara, below the Falls, is completed, and carriages have been driven over by Mr. Elliott, the chief engineer, though the bridge is but 8 feet wide, and for 500 feet without railing! It is 226 feet above the rushing water, and 762 feet long.

HOLDEN'S DOLLAR MAGAZINE.—The August No. of this monthly is received. Although the cheapest of all the Magazines, we find it to be filled with valuable and entertaining matter, and abundantly illustrated with engravings. Its critical essays, and sketches of literary men, add much to the character of the work, and we think, together with its other popular features, make it one of the most acceptable periodicals in its kind. Published by Charles W. Holden, New York, $1.00 a year.

THE BUFFALO CONVENTION. This Convention was temporarily organized at 12 o'clock, on Wednesday last, Nathaniel Sawyer, of Ohio, Chairman pro tem., Mr. Welles of Illinois, and Mr. Phillips of Connecticut, Secretaries. Barnburner Delegates were present from Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Indiana, and several other States, as well as from New York. It seems to have been, indeed, almost exclusively a Convention of Barnburners and Libertists, the number of recreant Whigs being comparatively small.

The Convention was permanently organized, on the afternoon of the same day, Hon. Charles Francis Adams, of Massachusetts, President, with Vice Presidents from the several states represented. Messrs. Giddings, of Ohio, and Butler, of New York, addressed the Convention. The nominations were made on Thursday, as follows:

For President,
Martin Van Buren, of New York.

For Vice President,
Charles F. Adams, of Massachusetts.

Mr. Van Buren was nominated on the first ballot, by the following vote, which probably gives a fair index of the relative strength of the three parties, in the Convention:

Van Buren (Loco) 244.
Hale (Libertist) 181.
Scattering (Whig) 41.

The platform of the Convention was adopted in three Resolutions, as follows:

First, That it is the duty of the General Government to abolish slavery wherever it possesses the constitutional power.

Second, That in the several States, slavery is under the sole control of the States.

Third, That Slavery in the territories should be prevented by the action of Congress.

CONGRESS.

Friday, Aug. 4.
SENATE.—On motion of Mr. Atherton, of New Hampshire, the Civil and Diplomatic Appropriation bill was taken up. The bill was engrossed for a third reading. A debate arose, which continued several hours, on an amendment paying $14,000 left in the hands of the Government for the Creek Indians. The amendment was adopted. A debate ensued on an amendment paying $250,000 to the British as a gratuity to the Chinese. Mr. Dix, of New York, offered an amendment of aid to build a revenue cutter. Without making further progress, at 5 1-2 o'clock, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The House remained in session last night till 12 o'clock, considering the Slavery Delegation bill. The bill was taken up for the subject of this morning. Mr. Daniel, of North Carolina, advocated the Southern side of the Slavery question. Mr. Bots of Virginia, said he would take another position in regard to the general politics of the day, and define his position. He would now confine himself to the subject before the House, and offered an amendment to the bill, so as to have ten thousand rank in the United States Army, to be sent to Mr. Dix, who had complained of the Committee of Ways and Means for assuming the direction of the Military Committee.

Monday, Aug. 5.
SENATE.—Mr. Hennessey, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported a bill establishing consular relations with Mexico. The bill was passed, 29 yeas, and 21 nays. Mr. Hennessey also reported a bill to sell out their entire possessions on the Pacific, was discussed on Friday, in secret session.

HOUSE.—Engaged on the Army bill. After some amendments, the bill was ordered to be enrolled.

Monday, Aug. 5.
SENATE.—Mr. Johnson, of Maryland, introduced a resolution calling on the President for information with regard to the project of a revolution in Northern Mexico. Adopted.—The Oregon bill was taken up, and a debate ensued on the Wilmot Proviso.

Monday, Aug. 5.
SENATE.—The President's last two messages were taken up for reference, and Mr. Venable made a set speech, eulogizing North Carolina and her delegation, assailing the Whig party, and opposing Gen. Taylor. Mr. Stephens, of Georgia, followed, justifying his course in moving to lay aside the territorial compromise, and said the bill would prove injurious.

Tuesday, Aug. 6.
SENATE.—Mr. Webster took his seat in the Senate to-day.—The bill relating to Granting lands for constructing a railroad from Mobile to the mouth of the Ohio, was taken up.

HOUSE.—The bill from the Senate, carrying into effect the treaty of China and the Ottoman Porte, giving judicial power to Ministers and Consuls, was passed. The Senate bill for carrying into effect the treaty with England and France, for delivering fugitives from justice, was also passed.—Joint resolutions were reported to pay the National Intelligencer and the Union $412 per column, for publishing the daily proceedings of Congress. Mr. Ashmun spoke in favor of the resolution.

Wednesday, Aug. 7.
SENATE.—The editor of the Washington Union is in great distress of mind because the London Times has found out, and is inclined to look upon Gen. Taylor as the fittest and best man to be President of the United States, and most likely to be raised to that exalted post by the voices of the people. The Union should not expect an English Tory to remain for ever in ignorance of a fact so apparent and so universally admitted, nor be so distinguished by the mention of it.

TOURNADO.
The following circumstantial account of the destructive tornado which visited the neighborhood of Ripley, Mo., is from a correspondent of the Bangor Whig. This hurricane, the most remarkable that is known ever to have occurred in the same quarter of the country, happened on the 27th of July, between four and five o'clock in the afternoon.

It was first perceived in Ripley, where it was seen of small size, at first gradually acquiring strength, and then traversing the air in the form of a mighty whirlwind, shaped like a tunnel, and accompanied with some hail.

It first struck the house and barn of Joseph Jordan, levelled the barn completely with the ground, carried off the roof of the house, and laid the body of the house a few feet and left it down party way into the cellar. The family in the house were unhurt.

It next struck the house and barn of Samuel Jordan, destroying them entirely. Nothing but part of the lower floor is left in its former place—not a stick or a splinter is standing—yet the family miraculously escaped uninjured. As it passed through the fields before reaching these houses, I saw one place where it had ploughed the ground to the depth of eight inches, one rod in length and ten feet in breadth, scouring the soil and stones entirely off to that depth. At another place, a stone weighing some six hundred pounds, one third embedded in the earth, was thrown from its place a number of feet. As it passed through Mr. Stone's house, it tore up the roof, carrying some of them ten and twenty rods—some were left clinging to the earth by a small portion of the roots, the trunks of others were twisted nearly off. An eye witness says that when it struck the buildings of Mr. Stone, so quick was its execution, that the appearance was more like a large body of smoke than any thing he could think of. Powder could hardly have been more sudden in its operation. After clearing away a lot of the scattered filled with sticks, boards, broken timber, and rubbish, which fell in many places at great distances from the buildings. Many who saw it at different stages of its course, described it as sending forth frequent flashes of lightning, and it was generally accompanied by a great noise resembling continued thunder.

It next struck the buildings of John Lane, completely demolishing his barn, and unroofing his house. A school-house near by was in some danger from its proximity, but being broken in pieces. The children, eleven in number, ran out of the school-house before the wind reached it, to the house of Mr. Crawford. After nearly all of them had entered Mr. Crawford's house, that was also levelled with the ground. One little boy, about five years of age, who did not reach the house, was blown into a tree, and there blown down, and he remained in the tree, and his family were absent. Richard Lane lost his barn.

Passing from Ripley into Dexter, the barn of James Lane was blown down. Next the buildings of Samuel Abbot, consisting of a new house, not finished, and his old house and barn were destroyed. A portion of the old house, into which the family ran, was left standing, but of no value. No one was injured. Not a stick of his fence for the distance of forty rods remained in its former place, but the fragments might be seen strewn over the neighboring fields, 10, 20, 30, and forty rods distant. Some pieces of his buildings have been found four or five miles from the place where they stood. Of nine hives of bees not a trace can be found of four. Where it stopped, or where it first commenced, is not known to us, but we hear of no damage to buildings west of Ripley. It is said to have been seen, however, at Ripley, and Kingsbury, whence it rose into the air, and did not touch the ground again until it reached Ripley.

NEW YORK, AUG. 14, 2 1-2 P. M.
CONGRESS.—After sitting all night, at 9 o'clock, Sunday morning, the Senate passed the Oregon Bill, with the Wilmot Proviso, and without the extension of the Missouri Compromise. The Southern Counties are expected to rise every instant. The Western and Northern are less excited. The Nation newspaper is suppressed. A fleet is off Cork.

Numerous arrests are being made in Edinburgh for Treason. Inflammatory meetings are continually taking place.

France is quiet. No change to note. The Denmark armistice is not confirmed. No fighting has occurred.

WOOL.—Since our last report there has not been much done in this article. The recent heavy sales of domestic wools, at very low prices, have discouraged manufacturers, and they now buy very sparingly. The waley sales we have to report are 20,000 lbs. fleeces new delivery; and 80 bales Buenos Ayres washed, on terms not transpired.—N. Y. Express, August 11.

Let there be a grand rally,

A bud I saw, of loveliest hue,
Expanding, soon to be a flower;
It gladdened me to see it grow,
It charmed,—yet charmed but for an hour.
For soon, alas! the spoiler's hand
In bloom reluctantly destroyed;
It fell before his stern command,
And left a dreary void.

anon, the self same stem did bear
A blossom, opening as before,
As sweet as was the first, and fair
As ever Eden's garden bore.
But soon, 'twixt two, though longer left,
Was doomed to have its sister's fate.
The tree, twice bled, and twice bereft,
Was bare and desolate.

These buds, thus prematurely torn
From off the parent tree or vine,
Dear Sister! weeping, and factorial
Are emblematical of this.
Yet happier thou; for now, above,
They breathe a pure, a heavenly air;
There raise their songs of praise and love,
And shine supremely fair. G. C. L.

Teas from 12 1-2 to respectable prices,
And all other articles in proportion.—In fact many articles I have heretofore sold I now give away. This declaration will be denied by many competitors, but painful as it may seem, gentlemen, you must face the music. I therefore pledge myself to sell goods as cheap as any establishment this side of Mexico—the "Queen City" of the West is not excepted. I challenge them, one and all, to a comparison of prices. Some People love to roam, but they seek no farther after looking at goods and obtaining prices of their agent.
