HON. JOSEPH DEVLIN SUNDAY.

Will Speak in the Opera House in the Evening—Other Speakers Will Be Present.

HON. JOSEPH DEVLIN.

An important meeting will be held in the opera house at 8 o'clock p. m. Sunday under the auspices of the local branch of the United Irish League. Hon. Joseph Devlin, a member of parliament and one of the best known and most aggressive of the Irish leaders, will deliver the principal address. Mr. Devlin was in Bellows Falls last fall and made a splendid impression. Other speakers will be John Purroy Mitchell of New York city, Rev. Father Carnody of Ludlow and Rev. Father Cahill of Springfield. Musical selections will be given by a quartet from St. Charles' choir and vocal solos will be given by Miss Margaret Pierce and Dr. F. H. O'Connor. The public generally is cordially invited to be present.

HON. JOSEPH DEVLIN, M.P.

Joseph Devlin, M. P., with one exception the newest recruit of the Irish Parliamentary party, is at the same time one of the youngest as well as the ablest members of that body. Mr. Devlin is still in his 30th year but he has had an experience in the rough and stormy sea of Irish politics which does not often come to men who are double his age.

Indeed he has taken to the subject as naturally as a duck takes to water, for since boyhood he has been one of the principal figures in the contest where the strife was keenest.

He was not 15 years old, when in 1886, the great struggle over the first Home Rule bill of Gladstone took place. He had not been long out of school, but long enough to have imbibed that spirit of national aggressiveness which was such a characteristic of the Parnell movement.

Young Devlin was from the outset a leader among his youthful companions in Belfast. They trusted his judgment absolutely. They knew his integrity and earnestness and they were inspired by the example of one uncompromising nationalist spirit which he always displayed.

When Thomas Sexton, the brilliant and eloquent Irish orator essayed to win the seat in Belfast for the national cause in 1885 young Devlin at once became one of his most enthusiastic adherents. With all the energy and spirit of boyhood he threw himself into the struggle, marshalled the national forces both in the revision courts and on the hustings.

His example became contagious; Sexton was triumphantly elected. From that day forth there was no rest for Devlin in the national fight. Wherever the struggle was keenest, there he was to be found.

Of a modest and retiring disposition, with a flow of natural eloquence rarely equalled even in the land of oratory, he combines at the same time an amount of common sense and hard-headed capacity not often found in one individual.

Of yeomanly stature, his face denotes the intellectual power which he unquestionably possesses. Whether in an argumentative sense calmly and dispassionately arguing his subject, or pouring forth a torrent of invective, should the occasion demand, he can at all times meet his audience with his power as a speaker and his evident sincerity in the cause which he has at heart.

Mr. Devlin has been for years at the head of an extensive business in Belfast and outside of the ordinary or rather extraordinary work which he has done, on the Irish platform mainly in his own province he has been reluctant to take a prominent place in the ranks of the Irish leaders. He declined on several occasions to accept an election to parliament for an Irish seat in order that he may be able to devote his time to his private business.

A year ago, however, he was by unanimous vote of the national directory of the United Irish League chosen to come to America with Mr. Redmond, M. P., brother of the present Irish leader. His colleague took advantage of Mr. Devlin's absence from Ireland and had him elected to fill the vacancy in the representation of North Kilkenny. He had never visited the constituency up to the time of his election but he was, nevertheless, the unanimous choice of those of the constituency who knew his sterling worth even though they had never seen him.

Mr. Devlin spent six months last year in the United States in the work of organizing branches of the United Irish League, returning to Ireland last June. He then attended to his parliamentary duties until the close of the last session of parliament when he was again called for by John Redmond during the progress of the national convention of the U. I. L. A.

It was desired that Mr. Devlin should continue the work of organizing in the United States and he immediately responded to the summons of his leader and has since been engaged in the work of establishing branches all over the country.

As a platform speaker Mr. Devlin well sustains the reputation of the Irish party for eloquence and indeed it is rarely that a more cogent and logical speaker on the Irish question has been heard on platforms in the United States.

SCHOOL NOTES.

(MISS MAY FARROW, EDITOR.)

The work of the grades in music this month is devoted to the songs appropriate for Decoration day. The program bid fair to be very good this year.

Mr. Upercraft, a missionary from China, spoke to the students of the high school Thursday afternoon. His talk was chiefly about the customs and language of the people of western China. He showed how the characters of their language were formed from pictures of objects in real life. His address was very entertaining and instructive and gave a keen insight into Chinese life.

Jerry Morin, '04, has been elected marshal for commencement.

Rev. Mr. Baker of Townshend visited in the high school Tuesday.

Miss May V. Harte is to supply in the seventh grade for the rest of the term in place of Miss Marjorie Baker, who is unable to continue her work on account of sickness.

The program for rhetorical last Friday was:

The Belfry of Bruges, Louise Hay
Wolsey's Speech from Henry VIII, May Farrow
Sheridan's Ride, Walter Parsons
America Unconquerable, Henry Holmes
A Timely Visit, Helen Ryder
Napoleon's Proclamation to the Army of Italy, Edward Howard

Miss Bertha Wiggin has been elected editor for the school news for the month of June.

The fifth grade taught by Miss Hunter and the seventh grade taught by Mrs. Pingree have each collected over 80 specimens of flowers. There is much rivalry among the different classes as to who will have the largest collection.

The Bellows Falls high school has joined the Green Mountain Athletic association. They will not compete this season, however, but expect to have a good team next year.

The B. F. B. C. team played against the town team last Saturday and was defeated by a score of 8 to 4.

The many friends of Miss Margaret Savage met at her home on Cherry Hill Tuesday evening to give her a surprise party. Pleasant games were enjoyed and light refreshments in the shape of ice cream, cake and bonbons were served. All spent a most enjoyable evening.

The subjects of the senior essays are as follows:

Women of Today and Yesterday, Madeline Babbitt

Beauty Spots of America.

Mary Brosnahan
John Brosnahan
Edith Damon
May Farrow
Charles Frost
Walter Hadley
May Hennessey
Jay Livermore
Charles McAnuliffe
Francis McGreen
Esther Meacham
Alice Sanford
John Shea
Katherine Tully
Bertha Wiggin

What Has the White Man to Expect from the Negro of the Future,

Influence of Religious Questions upon English History, Home Life of Rome, Commodore John Barry—Father of Our Navy, Forget It, Higher Education of Women,

These essays have been read before the teachers of the high school and yesterday the strain of anxious waiting was over. We are pleased to say that the honors fall to Miss Madeline Babbitt and Miss Katherine Tully, and honorable mention for Miss Edith Damon.

Women's Club Notes.

Mrs. Minerva D. Tobey will be unable to come to Bellows Falls for classes in scientific deep breathing as was planned.

Letter to C. W. Butterfield.

BELLOWS FALLS
Dear Sir: Here's what "wears longer" means. D. T. McGown, Cooperstown, N. Y., built a house in '85 and painted Devco. The paint lasted 10 years. A year or two later, a neighbor built a house and painted it lead and oil. The neighbor's house was repainted twice in the same time. This looks as if the neighbor's house was painted three times in eight or nine years, and McGown's once in ten years. We are not quite sure—we tell the tale as it comes to us. It is enough to say that Devco Lead and Zinc lasts twice as long as lead and oil alone. The reason is: white lead is soft and chalks off; zinc is hard; and, when thoroughly ground into the lead, prevents its chalking and makes it more durable. Yours truly, F. W. Devco & Co., New York.

P. S. Howard Hardware Company sell our paint.
