HOW IT LOOKS

The holder of a matured Endowment Policy in the Equitable Society sends the following graphic illustration of his feelings: "Twenty years ago when I was induced by a persistent agent to take out my Endowment Policy, the premium looked very large and appeared to me like this:—

$49.79

While the Endowment, looked at through the wrong end of the telescope of twenty years, appeared like this:—

$1,000.00

Now, my policy has matured, and coming just when I need money, the result of my policy looks like this:—

$1,568.02

While, looking back at the annual premiums I have paid, and realizing that they are amounts that would have been saved in no other way, this is the appearance they have:—

$49.79."

A Visit to an Osteopath.

A WATCHMAN reporter dropped into the osteopathic sanitarium of Dr. E. E. Beeman at 64 State street the other day for a treatment. It was his first, and he, like the public in general who have not informed themselves in regard to the science of osteopathy, awaited his turn with a curious mixture of doubt and curiosity; but as he glanced about the cozy apartments of the doctor and observed several others in waiting who were either reading or pleasantly engaged in conversation, he became impressed that this sanitarium was indeed an ideal home to a doctor's workshop. The doctor, after a little time, made his appearance and greeted the reporter kindly. The reporter told the doctor that he was a doubter of the science as he never believed in cure-alls. The doctor laughed and his reply demonstrated to his visitor that he has been sitting in judgment upon a matter about which he was ignorant. The doctor stated that the reporter's mistaken idea in regard to the science of osteopathy was a most common one with those who had taken no pains to inform themselves and who knowing nothing about the merits of the science were most prone, though often honestly, to condemn it and its followers. He said that the osteopath does not claim to be a cure-all but that osteopathy is based upon an accurate knowledge of the anatomical structure and physiological function of the body or organs, and is placed within the body certain vital forces, vitalized fluids, processes and activities which, in unanimous accord with one another, maintain the normal condition of the body mechanism and any interference with these fluids and forces breaks the harmonious working of the human machine. Osteopathic manipulations aim to restore these to their normal condition, so that the body may regain its normal condition.

Dr. Beeman in his treatment of the writer, demonstrated beyond a doubt that he was as familiar with the bones, muscles and organs of the human body and their relation one to the other as the jeweller with the mechanism of a watch. The increase in the practice of Dr. Beeman is a testimonial to the benefits derived from his treatments, for during the month of July which is not yet gone twenty-three new patients have been treated, and what was before a large list. The doctor takes some recreation but it is because he is obliged to in order to keep himself in proper physical condition to carry on his work, but during office hours his sanitarium is one of the busiest spots in this section and oftentimes his hours of recreation are encroached upon by calls to attend outside patients.

Washington County Bar.

A meeting of the Washington County Bar Association was held on Saturday in the county clerk's office to take proper notice of the recent death of one of its members, Columbus F. Clough of Waterbury. Eleven attorneys were present. State Attorney Hoar presided, and in the absence of W. E. Smilie, T. R. Gordon of this city was chosen secretary pro tem. A committee comprised of F. L. Laird and E. H. Deavitt was chosen to select and procure an appropriate floral offering for the funeral of the deceased, at two o'clock on Sunday afternoon at the Congregational church in Waterbury.

Hon. W. P. Dillingham, Judge Hiram Carleton and T. J. Deavitt were selected as a committee to prepare and present resolutions on the distressing taking off of his brother attorney, at a future meeting of the association, which will probably be held some time during the September term of county court. G. H. Dale, of Waterbury, a partner of the deceased, was selected to prepare a sketch of the life of Mr. Clough which will be read at the meeting also mentioned.

Mrs. John Brown, alias Maude Van Dyke and Mrs. Mamie Cota of Barre, were arrested Monday evening by Deputy Sheriff French as a sequel to the cow at Mrs. Cota's house on Sunday. The former woman was arrested in this city and lodged in jail. They were both taken to Barre this morning where a hearing in the affair was held in city court.

By agreement, the preliminary hearing in the case of Charlie Terrio of this city, who was recently arrested on the charge of stealing a Shetland pony, which was to have been sold in Barre Saturday afternoon, was waived and the boy was released from custody on his own recognizance to await the action of the grand jury in September.

X Ray parties are the latest novelty. So great is the popular interest in the new electrical machine recently purchased by Dr. H. B. Boardman, that he is giving exhibitions of its working of the same almost every evening. Only a small number can be comfortably accommodated at once, but the doctor will in time, give all his friends the opportunity to see this wonderful invention, by inviting them in groups of six.

Thomas Buck, for the past forty years an engineer on the Central Vermont and for several years on the mail train, met with a painful accident on Friday in St. Albans. While at work in the engine house, he fell breaking his hip and fingers of one hand. It is feared that his injuries will end his services as an engineer owing to the slowness with which men of his advanced age recover from such accidents.

Oscar Lindsey was arrested in Barre Saturday evening charged with a breach of the peace as was also Ralph Aja, a Spaniard. The hearing in the case is continued until Thursday in Barre city court. It is said that Oscar went to the house where Aja resides and insisted that his wife, who has been staying there, should return to this city with him. An altercation ensued which developed in a fight and the arrests were the result.

The aldermanic committee on the Charles-street bridge on Tuesday awarded the contract for the building of the bridge to the Groton Bridge Manufacturing Company of Groton, N. Y. H. R. Briggs representing the company, is in the city. The bridge is an arch bridge of 300 feet span with an eighteen foot highway and a five foot walk. The committee would not give out today the contract price nor the time set for putting the bridge in place as the final papers in the deal had not been signed.

City Attorney Carleton on Monday served papers in an ejectment suit against the Montpelier and Wells River Railroad Company which are returnable at the September term of Washington county court. The suit is brought pursuant to instructions from the city council and is to gain possession of the city which the city had from T. J. and Michael Kelleher upon which is now located a car shed belonging to the railroad company.

O. H. Stewart, of "Stewart's" fame at Berlin pond, broke his leg Friday evening. Mr. Stewart was riding in an express wagon. One of the lines fell to the ground and in reaching for it he lost his balance, falling in such a way as to break both bones in one leg just above the ankle. This accident is peculiarly unfortunate for Mr. Stewart just at this time, as his cottages and barns are crowded with summer boarders, making his personal attention to his business almost a necessity.

Dr. O. L. Watson brought to this office a remarkable and rare species of worm. It is fully four inches long, as large as a man's finger, and is evidently gifted with hind sight, as, to all appearances, it has an eye at the end opposite its head. No one to whom the doctor has shown this creature has been able to name it. The doctor has placed it among Professor Perkins' collection in the cabinet at the State House or put it in the hands of the liquor agency as a warning to those inclined to an excess in the use of intoxicating liquor, even to the point when they are sometimes "seeing things."

Dr. Minor G. Baldwin, solo organist at the World's Fair, Chicago, and the Trans-Mississippi exposition at Omaha, gave a recital in Bethany church Sunday evening. He was the guest of Secretary F. H. Merrill and was induced by him to remain in Montpelier over Sunday. His recital was thoroughly enjoyed by a large congregation. His ability as an organist is well known and he is "master of his instrument" is trite and insipid. His playing is as wonderful as it is enjoyable, and he is evidently entitled to the high rank among the world's great organists. There is a prospect that an evening with Dr. Baldwin may be enjoyed in Montpelier in the near future.

W. A. Shaw, observer at the Northfield station furnished the following meteorological summary for the month of August, covering a period of twelve years; mean temperature 63°; warmest month, in 1897, with an average of 69°; coldest month, in 1894, with an average of 57°; highest temperature, 91°, August 10, 1893; lowest temperature, 35°, August 27, 1894; average precipitation, 3.34 inches, greatest monthly precipitation, 6.38 inches, in 1890; least monthly precipitation, 1.59 inches, in 1889; greatest amount of precipitation in any consecutive 24 hours, 2.11 inches, August 2 and 3, 1897; average number of clear days, 7; partly cloudy days, 14; cloudy days, 10; highest velocity of wind 48 miles an hour, from the west, August 10, 1892.

"Heenan" Bowers, who was arrested Saturday evening for intoxication by Officer Brown, pleaded guilty on Monday in city court to a third offense. Sentence was deferred. He disclosed upon Elnathan Anderson, truck driver, who has another case of pocket peddling pending against him. Andrews was arrested and lodged in jail. His house was searched by Officer Brown and bottles with a little liquor in them were found in city court on Monday he pleaded not guilty but the evidence was overwhelming and he was convicted of selling and keeping. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail and a $200 fine with costs of $26.90 for both offenses.

Rev. Dr. J. W. Hamilton of Cincinnati, corresponding secretary of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society spoke at Trinity church Sunday evening in the interests of the society he represents. Dr. Hamilton was defeated for bishop by Chaplain McCabe at the general conference in 1897. He stands an excellent chance for election to that office in the general conference which meets at Chicago in 1900. He is a magnetic, forceful orator, his style is ingenious and vigorous, and his deep, resonant voice can be heard by great congregations. Dr. Hamilton was in Europe during the most exciting period of the Spanish-American war, and his description of the conflict and the heroism of our soldiers, brave act, and the destruction of the Spanish fleet was particularly thrilling. A pleasing feature of the service Sunday evening was the solo by Mrs. George E. Mills.

Horrible Accident.

Shortly before three o'clock Tuesday afternoon a half dozen children were playing on the Long street ledge opposite the gas house on Berlin street, among them two girls aged eight and three years and a boy six years old, belonging to John Hill, who works for the Colton Manufacturing Company.

Without an instant warning several tons of rock slid down, burying the three Hill children. The oldest girl and the boy were crushed and their bodies were horribly mangled. The youngest girl had one arm out and she was otherwise so terribly injured that her recovery is not expected.

The bodies were quickly scolded and in an incredibly short time a half hundred men were lifting the huge rocks from the ill fated children. The sight that met their gaze made the strongest nerves quiver. The body of the dead girl was literally crushed to a jelly, and the limbs of the boy were hanging in shreds.

The bodies were tenderly carried into a hospital where several physicians were soon on the scene. The grief of the stricken parents was pitiful to witness.

Pocket Pedder Pardoned.

Thomas Manning of Brattleboro, who was sentenced February 8 to over 500 days in the house of correction at Rutland for pocket peddling, has been pardoned by Governor Smith.

The pardon is based on the ground that the sentence was excessive. A curious case which few people were aware of, developed in the course of the case when Governor Smith called the petitioner's attention to the fact that a new law passed by the Legislature established a board of pardons consisting of the chief judge of the supreme court, the lieutenant governor and the boards of directors of the State's prison and house of correction. Chief Judge Taft refused to organize the board on the ground that the act was clearly unconstitutional, because the constitution vests the entire power of pardon with the Governor; he may take advice from whomsoever he pleases, but even an advisory board could not be forced upon him by legislative authority. The Governor on looking up the records, concluded that the chief judge was right and so went ahead with the case and granted the pardon.

The Spanish Guns.

The DAILY JOURNAL of Friday published the joint resolution of the Legislature requesting the State's delegation in Congress to procure for Vermont two or more cannon captured at the naval battle in Manila Bay, as trophies of our victory.

The resolution directed that these cannon be placed in the Capitol grounds, and the State auditor was directed to pass the bills of expense incurred in carrying out the purpose of the resolution.

The existence of this resolution, the propriety—imperative in the highest degree—of setting up the trophies on the grounds of the State House, territory over which the city has no jurisdiction and could not enter for this or any similar purpose, every public consideration, seemed to require that the State should take up and complete the work so considerably and happily begun by ex-Mayor Guernsey, and which for good and sufficient reasons he had passed into the hands of the city to carry on to its completion.

Montpelier would be glad and proud to take the guns and incur the expense of transportation to this city and properly mounting them. But for the reasons given, and others that will readily suggest themselves, her people are convinced that the right thing to do is to pursue the course recently suggested in this paper, procure the transfer of the guns to the State—which will be purely a formal matter—and place with the Governor the business of transferring them to Vermont, their mounting on the State House grounds.

Montpelier has no proper place for the trophies. One of the terraces in front of the Capitol is the one presently fitting and appropriate place to mount the guns. Make the kennel of the war dogs there, where every visitor to Montpelier on entering her gates will see them, and where they will be coming in an endless procession through all future time—to cherish them and recall the glories of that famous victory.

Behind them in the portico the Captains will be the memorials of the Hero of the battle, the contribution of his brother Vermonters, and Vermont's legendary Hero, Old Ethan Allen, with uplifted arm will pronounce his benediction on the arrangement—"In the name of the Great Jehovah and Continental Congress."

Accordingly Mayor Senter has written Gov. Smith, turning the whole matter over to the State, and this action the people will all approve.

Death of Mrs. Dennis Lane.

Orestes E., widow of the late Dennis Lane, founder of the Lane Manufacturing Company, passed away Sunday night about midnight, from the effects of a shock received last Thursday. Since that time she had conscious moments, and recognized members of her family, but no hope was entertained of her recovery.

Deceased was born in Plainfield seventy-four years ago. Her maiden name was Freeman. She was married to Mr. Lane at Montpelier July 28, 1844, and since that time this city had been her home. Since the death of Mr. Lane in 1888 she had lived very quietly at home, but her heart was almost prompted to kindly deeds. While Mrs. Lane leaves a very large circle of friends to mourn her death, perhaps, outside her own home circle, none will miss her more or longer revere her memory than those in humble circumstances whose necessities and sufferings she had so often relieved. During her long life she had been doing, almost daily, deeds of charity and mercy that while they were unrecorded here, were noticed by the All Seeing One.

Her kindly deeds were done with a request that nothing be said about them. In Mrs. Lane's death the poor and needy have lost a true friend, her children mourn a devoted mother, and the community is made the poorer by her departure.

She is survived by four children, all of whom were with her during her last days. They are Mrs. O. G. Barron, wife of Col. Barron of Fabayus, Albert, and Mrs. T. S. Brophy of Montpelier, and Dr. George L. Lane of Boston.

Her funeral will be held from her late home at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Rev. J. Edward Wright officiating, and the burial will be in Green Mount cemetery.
