ARREST 8 FOR TRAIN BLAST!

FINISH FIGHT ORDERED IN RAIL STRIKE

Suspects in Mine Train Violence Trailed by Dogs in W. Virginia

BY CHARLES E. KEINER, JR.

Seventh Ave., July 15 — A badly damaged train carrying mineral bosses and labor leaders exploded near the town of Nikolsburg, W. Va., yesterday, killing five persons and wounding at least 20 others.

The train was carrying more than 300 miners to the Neural Mine, where a strike has been in progress for 18 months.

Sheriff W. N. Martin, who investigated the scene, said that the explosion was caused by a dynamite charge planted by the miners to prevent the train from reaching the mine.

He added that the explosion was the result of a dispute between the mine owners and the miners over wages and working conditions.

The sheriff said that the explosion was the first of its kind in the town of Nikolsburg, and that it was likely to have occurred during the night.

He added that the train was carrying more than 300 miners to the Neural Mine, where a strike has been in progress for 18 months.

The sheriff said that the explosion was the result of a dispute between the mine owners and the miners over wages and working conditions.

He added that the explosion was the first of its kind in the town of Nikolsburg, and that it was likely to have occurred during the night.

The sheriff said that the explosion was the result of a dispute between the mine owners and the miners over wages and working conditions.

He added that the explosion was the first of its kind in the town of Nikolsburg, and that it was likely to have occurred during the night.