America's Greatest Magazine

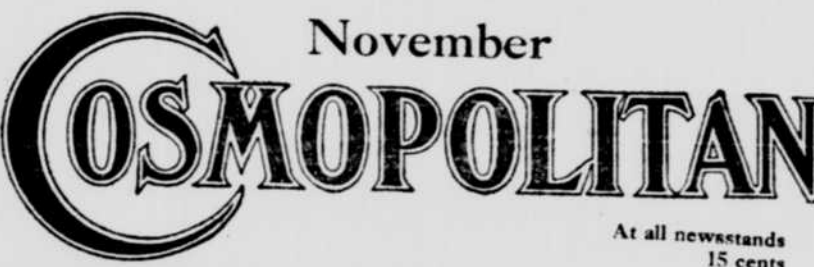

Robert W. Chambers and David Graham Phillips rank as the two greatest authors America has produced in the last decade. Their best work is in COSMOPOLITAN.

Robert W. Chambers has written a novel, "Blue-Bird Weather." It is a compelling story. You simply cannot lay it down unfinished. Incidentally all of Chambers' serial work will appear exclusively in Cosmopolitan.

David Graham Phillips has written "The Price She Paid." It is a woman's struggle for and against love. She married for money and then — ? The story is attracting the attention of every lover of romance.

Charles Dana Gibson illustrates "Blue-Bird Weather." His matchless drawings are famous the world over. Among pen and ink artists he is supreme.

Howard Chandler Christy illustrates "The Price She Paid," and his superb drawings add strong pictorial emphasis to the charm of the story.

These are the greatest American writers of fiction. Their best is the best.
