FRÉW & CAMPBELL, PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

NATURDAY, FEB. 17, 1877.

Col. C. H. Gird died at the residence of John C. Reeves, his son-in-law, in this city, on Saturday last, and was buried on Monday at Franklin. This will be sad news to the many friends of the jovial old Colonel. His age was about 70.—Wedding Herald.

Col. Glat was well known in Wheeling, as indeed, he was all through this region. He was once a merchant in Wellsburg—afterwards removed to Baltimore, but for many years has been connected with a dry goods house in Philadelphia.

THE Kansas members must have been asleep to allow such a bill as the substitute removal bill to pass.—Parkerbury Journal.

How does the Journal know that Mr. Ferguson really wants the Capital relocated at Charleston? That gentleman is a metropolitan in his ideas, and not especially attracted to any locality. He can command business as a lawyer in any part of the State, and may prefer Clarksville to Charleston as a place to live.

could not now properly determine what in the interest of the State, would be the best point to locate at, and the good sense of the people would not now ask for the permanent, absolute location of the Capital.

Mr. Newlon said he hoped the Senate would adopt the amendment proposed by the Finance Committee. He said that this idea of the people of the State of West Virginia being clamorous, at this time, for the removal of the capital from Wheeling to some other point had only originated in the minds of those gentlemen who feel a deep interest in the subject; that the people of the State were in favor of letting the matter rest for the present. He said that as far as he had ascertained from the people, he found that they have almost uniformly expressed the opinion that the question should not be taken up at this time. He said he thought it was proper that the people should be first consulted upon the subject; that the matter should not be agitated now while the State is in such financial distress, but should be put off until the financial affairs of the State are in a better condition, and until the people can bear the burdens of expense in building a new Capital.

A vote was then taken and the amendment was carried, and all the amendments proposed by the Finance Committee.

Mr. Newlon moved to insert Parkersburg, Grafton and White Sulphur Springs, but the motion did not prevail.

Mr. Newlon then moved to insert Buckhannon, in the county of Upshur, but the motion was lost.

Mr. Caldwell moved to insert Fairmont, but the motion was lost.

Mr. Jones offered a substitute for the bill to submit the question to the vote of the people without naming any place, but the substitute was rejected.

The bill was then ordered to its third reading by a vote of yeas, 14; noes, 8.

The Committee on Finance, through its chairman, reported House Bills Nos. 85, 86 and 116, to pass.

On motion of Mr. Johnson, the Senate adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.
