INTERNATIONAL RACING CIRCUIT

For Next Year, Which Will Bring all the World's Champions Here for Iwo Racing Tournaments, One in the Spring and Another in the Fall. The Wheeling Athletic Wheelmen Will Make the Application.

Since the late bicycle racing tournament held under the auspices of the Wheeling Athletic Wheelmen in this city there has been a movement on foot, which if consumated will give to Wheeling two bicycle racing tournaments next year; that is admission to the International Bicycle Racing Circuit. The racing men and visiting cyclers generally who attended the late tournament were greatly surprised at tournament were greatly surprised at the large crowds which attended the races. In fact they compared favorably in size with most any of the others except possibly Springfield and Hartford. It was then stated on good authority that Wheeling could get into the international circuit if application were made. There will be a meeting of the W. A. W. Company next Tuesday evening, at which the movement will probably be inaugurated, committees appointed, and formal application made for admission to the circuit to Chairman H. E. Raymond, of the L. A. W. racing board, under whose management the circuit is conducted. conducted.

In the event that this movement is carried to a successful conclusion there would be two tournaments next season, spring and fall, and at both all the great racing men, including Zimmerman, Sanger, Johnson, Windle, Tyler, Taylor and others, would appear. The international circuit has come to the and its trial last season, by done stay, and its trial last season has dem-onstrated its popularity. Once a city is admitted to the circuit, it is given the responsibility that will attract the leading lights of the cycling arena, con-sequently good racing is sure to result. Already there has been much interest taken in the matter here, and numerous offers made to take stock in the club that will have charge, the W. A. W.

AT THE THEATRES.

A Very Bad "Uncle Tom's Cabin" last

Nothing great is expected of an "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company, but one as bad as that seen at the Opera House last night is an imposition on the public. The pack of bloodhounds was made up of one Wheeling mastiff pup, its first appearance on any stage, and it refused to act and made frantic efforts to get into the "dog box" in the orchestra. The house scenery had to be faked up and the alleged actors only the play and the played actors. to suit the play, and the alleged actors and actresses did not know their lines. The colored jubiles singers consisted of a Wheeling quartette—the best feature of the show. The company bought a donkey and cart here, and carries a pony. The audience last night was small.

Powell, the Magician.

Powell, the Magician.

The clever and, to the ordinary eye, inexplicable feats performed by this wonderful man, make him incomparable, save with the magicians of old. Of the many feats performee there are none more mystifying or fascinating than the wonderful illusion, "fearian; or, From the Earth to the Sun." presented for the first time in America by Powell. Two pretty ladies are used in this illusion, one a brunette, the other a blonde, both of different size and each dressed differently. One is placed in a large cannon, situated at the extreme front of the stage, the other stands at the extreme upper corner of the stage in a scenic star placed someten or twelve feet in the air from the floor of the stage. At a given signal, and without any apparent preparation, the cannon is fired, and in a second, and before the report has fairly died away, the two ladies have changed places, the one that was placed in the cannon appearing in the star, and the one that was in midair, reappearing immediately from the cannon. How this is done is Powell's air, reappearing immediately from the cannon. How this is done is Powell's own secret, but this great sensational own secret, novelty is in itself alone worth the price of admission to see. Powell's appearance here at Opera House is December 10 and 11. Don't miss seeing him.

"After the Ball." Following is the story of R. E. Gra-ham's new comedy, to be seen at the Opera House Monday night: A young man is just leaving his flat that has been immediately rented to a new tenman is just leaving his flat that has been immediately rented to a new tenant. The young man goes to a ball. In the meantime the new tonant moves in with his daughter. The former tenant leaves the ball with his brains stolen by the enemy he has put in his mouth, and, fed by instinct that has temporarily taken the place of reason, seeks his familiar quarters. He reaches them in time to come upon the young-lady, who is preparing to retire. Her father discovers him, and forces him to promise marriage to the daughter. He is, however, already engaged, and his fiance resides in the adjoining flat. Under the assumed name he manages to visit each household and conduct his double wooing without detection till his wedding day with each approaches. He is driven to despair almost for further expedient, till a quarrel with his prospective father-in-law precipitates matters, and, after the usual apparently inextricable complication of events usual in French farces, the tangle is smoothed out in the last act. The main reliance in French farces, the tangle is smoothed out in the last act. The main reliance of the play is in incident, and the com-plications are funny in an uproarious

"The Burglar."

This play, founded on Mrs. Hodgson Burnett's "Editha's Bürglar," comes to the Opera House, Tuesday evening. The cale of seats opens at C. A. House's this morning. The Cleveland Leader

Last evening a large audience greeted the first production of "The Burglar" in this city. The company are very strong in their parts and some exceedingly interesting situations were brought out. The company do not advertise a child wonder but they have one. The little miss, who took the part of the child of the burglar, was fully equal to that difficult part in spite of the fact that she is not yet five years old.

"Our Married Men."

Clark and Williams in their funny comedy, "Our Married Men," will be the attraction at the Grand next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The piece, though a farce comedy, undoubtedly lacks the roughness that characterizes so many plays of the same characterizes so many plays of the same characterizes. early lacks the roughness that characterizes so many plays of the same character, and moves off with a pleasing ease. Clark and williams are low comedians of undoubted ability, who never fail to keep the audience in a roar of laughter. Reep the audience in a roar of integrition.
Their songs, dances and finnity sayings are of high class and will no doubt be accorded the reception they marit.

As the hearing proceeded Pallas became so insolent in his bearing that the president ordered that he be removed from the room. Later he was brought back to hear the address of the prosecutor, who demanded in the name of an outraged society that the prisoner be shot.

Pallas thereupon jumped up and shouted that he agreed with the prosemoralizing literature and evil companions.

To this opinion Pallas dissented by shaking his head.

The president declared that nothing remained but the consideration of what sentence would be imposed.

Pallas was then removed from the court, twisting his fair moustache as he walked out, and wearing an air of ostentatious nouchalence.

It is expected that he will be sentenced to-morrow.

A surgical operation was performed to-day upon Martines Campos, who was severely injured by the explosion of one of the dynamite bombs thrown at him on Sunday last by Pallas, the anarchist. The general is feverish and suffering considerably, but it is not besuffering considerably, but it is not be-lieved that he is in danger of death.
