

MORE OF THE HOBOES.

A Gang of them Break into and Rob a House North of Town.

THE POLICE HAVE A LIVELY CHASE

But the Men Escape over the River, with the Aid of Some Fellows in a Fishing Camp—Two Men Arrested who are Suspected to be Members of the Gang—They Laid in a Supply of Utensils.

Shortly before noon yesterday intelligence was received at police headquarters that a party of fifteen or twenty members of Kelly's army who had somehow been lost in the shuffle were camped north of the city. The statement was also made that the men had broken into and robbed George Englehardt's house the night before. All they stole—and all Englehardt had—was a lot of cooking utensils, pots, kettles and pans.

Sheriff Fraunheim and seven or eight police went up in the city patrol wagon. They found, however, that the men had been rowed to the Ohio side of the river by some men at a fishing camp north of town, and this put a stop to the pursuit.

The hoboos have been camped north of town three or four days. They have found a precarious living by begging and stealing.

Last evening two men, one of whom gave his name as Louis Drane, and the other took drink to give his name, were run in by Lieutenant Lukins. They are believed to be two of the hoboos stragglers.

Yesterday's Washington, Pa., Observer has an article on the hoboos, from which the following is taken:

The main body of Kelly's army of hoboos, followers of the Coxy chimera, slept Tuesday night in Claysville, and will in all probabilities reach Washington Wednesday afternoon or evening. The army numbers about one hundred men and being without means of subsistence will likely pursue their beggar tactics if not warned away by the police.

The trouble anticipated by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad officials, when the army reached West Alexander Monday night, was more anticipation than anything else, for the hoboos made no attempt to capture a train at that place, although several of them tried to board freight trains going to Pittsburgh, but the trainmen had no trouble in getting them off. The men reached West Alexander about midnight and slept on the ground west of town until morning. They then made a canvass of neighboring houses and begged a partial breakfast. They took up the march from West Alexander eastward along the National road and the Baltimore & Ohio tracks about 9 o'clock, but it was a very disorganized march. Many of them lingered behind until the march was a line of stragglers several miles long. They took every opportunity to beg something to eat from farm houses along the way, and it was after 2 o'clock when the advance reached Claysville. Most of them stopped there, being too tired to make more of a march than the six miles between West Alexander and Claysville, but a few pushed on and reached Taylors-town by evening.

Permission was obtained for the men to sleep in the base ball grounds at Claysville, and there they made their beds as best they could, rolling up their coats for pillows, some stretched out on boards, but all seeming to find comfort in the rest, though the fare was hard. A few more fortunate sought haystacks and haystacks, and poultry raisers and owners of spring houses were particularly vigilant and mindful of their locks.

AT THE ASSEMBLY.

Interesting Notes from the Big Prohibition Gathering.

Yesterday morning Rev. Messrs. Bickley, of Wheeling, Pickard, of Buffalo, and Allert, of the quartette, took a trip into the coal mine under the guidance of Carl Fuller, of the campground. They were very much pleased with this visit.

Many preachers of the Wheeling district are on the grounds trying to reach an agreement with the camp ground association by which they can take part in the coming camp meeting, which will commence August 8.

Mrs. Virginia Sison, of Wheeling, ex-president of the West Virginia W. C. T. U., arrived yesterday.

Dr. Long, of Bellaire, and family are visiting his wife's family on the camp grounds.

Rev. W. G. Holt, of Ohio, is at the assembly this season the first time for four years.

To-day the usual physical culture and school of methods will be held in the morning, and at 2:30 p. m. Rev. Ward Pickard will give a lecture entitled "Good for Nothing." In the evening another and the last stereopticon lecture will be given.

Arrangements have been made for a train to leave the camp ground for Wheeling at the close of the "Deceitful Skule" on Friday evening. This entertainment promises to be the "card" of the assembly this year.

The stereopticon lecture on the camp fires of Napoleon last evening was a very interesting and instructive exhibition.

Mrs. Pugh was the first speaker yesterday morning and referred to the fact that in the missionary field the great want to-day is not men but money—for thousands offered themselves to go last year and could not be sent for want of funds.

And what was true in the missionary field was also true of every reform to-day and especially true in the work of the temperance cause. She made an appeal to every one to think of this subject in the light of the teachings of God's word.

Mrs. Scott, returned missionary from India, contrasted the giving of the heathen prompted by fear, to the giving of the Christian people from the love of God and humanity. The picture was very disparaging to the display of Christian liberality.

Mrs. Morrow, of Fairmont, spoke on the grace of giving and the benefits to be derived, and claimed the greatest good resulted from systematic plans faithfully carried out. Among the other speakers were Mrs. Sison and Mrs. Hamilton, of Wheeling; Mrs. Buel and Mrs. Johnson, of Parkersburg; Mrs. J. P. McClerklin, and several gentlemen.

A change has been made in the programme for Saturday by which W. W. Gibbs, of Virginia, will speak at 2:30 and John G. Woolery, of Chicago, at 7:30 p. m. This change has been made at the request of many who desire to hear him and cannot get here in the afternoon. A train will leave the camp ground at 9:30 for Wheeling.

In the afternoon Rev. Ward B. Pickard spoke about the "unbaked cakes." The ancient way of baking cakes was on a hot stone and when one side was browned the cake was turned and baked on the other. He applied this idea to many people, both in the church and temperance movement. They contained all the elements for good works, but not having been exposed to the fire on both sides they were of no great force for good.

Some more paint was put on the Faxton fountain yesterday, much to the satisfaction of the public, as a fear had begun to grow that the figures were to be left as they were, which would have been something awful.

The number for July of the Butcher's and Packer's Magazine, of St. Louis, is at hand. It contains a full, official account of the National butcher's convention here, and is a credit in all respects to Mr. Schofield, its enterprising editor.

In the police court yesterday morning W. H. Vicoburner, arrested by Officer Tothrio for disorderly conduct, paid a fine of $5 and costs. A similar charge was against John Coleman, arrested by Moran, was withdrawn by the complainant, who paid the costs.

Yesterday the Eighteenth street mission Sunday school of the First Presbyterian church had an enjoyable picnic at Wheeling Park. The teachers and officers of the school paid for the transportation and the eatables, and a large number of children enjoyed the day thoroughly, returning late last evening, tired but happy.

Saved Her Life.

Yesterday afternoon a young lady came down the Island approach to the ferry on her bicycle, and when about fifty feet from the float she lost control of the wheel, which diverged to the lower side of the float and went at a 2:20 clip into La Belle Riviere. The young lady would surely have drowned but for the prompt assistance rendered by Pilot Casper Calles, who pulled her out.

A WHEEL ORDINANCE.

Council May Be Called Upon to Pass Upon One Shortly.

THE RIGHTS OF THE BICYCLISTS

Are Those of the Ordinary Road Vehicle, and the Wheel Has no Legal Right on the Sidewalks—A Bell Ordinance Considered Necessary in the Face of the Many Accidents Lately.

Wheeling cyclists enjoy privileges that do not fall to the lot of their brethren in other urban communities—namely among them is the riding of wheels on the sidewalks, and the total absence of ordinances relating to carrying of bells and lanterns on wheels. The number of accidents in which wheelmen have lately figured suggests the advisability of having a city ordinance framed and passed by the city council, providing certain restrictions as to cycling on the city's thoroughfares.

This city is one of only three or four where bicycles are allowed to be ridden on the sidewalks, and no wheelman, who remembers the hard fight made not so very long ago in the courts of the land, the result of which was that Secretary of the Treasury John Sherman decided that cycles are vehicles, entitled to all the rights of a vehicle on the street or road, and to nothing more, will for a moment claim that a vested rights absurd, should counsel decide to put wheels and wheelmen into the streets and off the sidewalks.

Then another bit of legislation regarding cyclists, that is championed by pedestrians as well as wheelmen, is a provision that all wheels be provided with bells for the purpose of attracting the attention of pedestrians on street crossings. Such a provision would undoubtedly lessen the number of collisions between cyclist and cyclist and between cyclist and pedestrian, that have been so numerous lately.

The city council committee on ordinances has a resolution on this general subject introduced not long ago by Mr. Hamilton, and probably an ordinance will materialize soon.

An INTELLIGENCER reporter saw a number of local wheelmen yesterday and they were in favor of having the use of the wheel restricted to the streets, recognizing that in the latter they have all the rights of other vehicles. Those spoken to were also in favor of an ordinance requiring the use of bells.
