

COL. ALECK CAMPBELL,

An Old-Time, Rock-Ribbed Democrat From 'Way Back,

ROASTS HIS FOOLISH PARTY.

Doesn't Expect to See it in Power Again—Gone to Rack and Ruin. An Organization Led by a "Lot of Fools and Idiots"—The Louisiana Revolt.

Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette.

Colonel Alexander Campbell, of Bethany, W. Va., who was appointed United States commissioner to the Melbourne (Australia) exposition by President Cleveland during his first term, and later, after his return to this country in 1880, was appointed World's Fair commissioner to New Zealand and Australia, has just returned from Washington. When the World's Fair opened, he, because of his knowledge of wools, was appointed to inspect and report on the merits of the various varieties of wool there exhibited. He was for years one of the largest planters of Louisiana, and is one of the best known politicians of that and his present state. For many years he was one of the best known men doing business on the river between this city and New Orleans. At the latter place he is as well known as any of the gentlemen who bolted the Democratic party the other day, and there he is considered an expert on almost every question pertaining to the southern planter's life and methods of conducting their business. He is the eldest son of the late Rev. Alexander Campbell, founder of the Christian church, a great friend of Congressman Wilson, of West Virginia, and has many friends of influence in this city. He is an interesting talker, very emphatic and plain spoken, and not in the least afraid to express his opinions.

In talking over the political outlook with the Commercial Gazette's representative, his face bore at one and the same time evidences of sorrow, regret and disgust at the present condition of affairs in the ranks of the Democracy in general, and the "solid south" in particular. Said he: "I have been a Democrat all my life, and I love the principles of the original Democratic party as I do my own life. For the last thirty years I have devoted all my time, energy and means to further the interests of Democracy, both in this state and in Louisiana, and I will live and die true and loyal adherent to the principles I have always believed in, but, as the Democratic party is now run, I would leave in a minute and join the Republicans at once if there was anything in its principles I could tie to. I am opposed to the principles of the Republican party, but I am disgusted with the Democrats of to-day. What a lot of fools and idiots the majority of the great Democratic leaders have made of themselves during the present administration. The party is going to rack and ruin, if it has not already done so, and nothing can save it unless there should come an avalanche of prosperity that will sweep aside the awful blunders that have already disgraced the present administration.

"One of the worst blunders," continued the colonel, "that the Democrats have made this term is in not annexing the Sandwich Islands, which should have been done by all means. I have been there several times and am thoroughly familiar with their wonderful resources and their advantages in every direction. This was the chance of the present administration, and will prove a great thing for the Republicans when they come into power again, for, undoubtedly, the very first thing they will do will be to annex them to this country.

PRESIDENT'S IGNORANCE.
"Nothing but the President's ignorance of the country ever made him oppose this proposition. He is a wonderful man, but has not had the time to educate himself in regard to those matters. He had to carry on his law studies and his business interests, and these have been so confining that it could hardly be expected that he should gain a knowledge of all the world and the things which would prove to its best advantage. What he has learned and accomplished is truly wonderful, but he needs more knowledge, and then he will be the most wonderful man of the time. Why, he had never been to Washington when he was elected President the first time. It was a grave mistake and one that the Republicans will make a great deal of capital out of when they are elected again. It was a shame that these islands were not made a part of this country, as they naturally belong to it, and are necessary as a naval station in case of trouble with any foreign power. No one who has not been there can form any idea of their wonderful value, which would recompense this government for their acquisition at an early period.

"No," and the colonel heaved a sigh. "I am afraid I will never see the old party in power again. I have worked for it, fought for it, bled for it, and suffered for it, but I fear it is doomed to die, because of the errors enacted, just when the greatest victory is perched upon its brow, and I may not live to see it in power again."

After thus predicting the early demise of the Democratic party, Colonel Campbell spoke entertainingly of his travels in foreign lands while on business for this government. He told of the great wool growing interests of Australia, and the wonderful mines there in operation; then passed to the great sugar plantations of Hawaii, and from those to the products of England, and then back to his country and the recent bolt of the Democrats in his old state of Louisiana, and naturally to the sugar growing interests, the bounty and the sugar tariff.

INSIDE HISTORY.
Speaking of the bolters in the sugar district of Louisiana led him to make some disclosures which will cause a great sensation when they become known in New Orleans. "The men who went over to the Republican party," said he, "are among the most aristocratic and influential in the south and are all immensely wealthy. They are above the touch of scandal and will prove the most serious difficulty the Democrats of that state ever had to overcome. They have a tremendous backing and will make things hot when it comes to the polls. In that district there are also several negroes who have always voted the Democratic ticket and these will be forced to come to time by these new Republicans.

hear you say that again? He then drew his chair up to mine and repeated his remark, stating as a reason for it that the sugar planters could not get along without the sugar bounty. This statement, knowing all that I did, and knowing that he knew as much, made me a little hot, and I told him that he knew better, for that the sugar bounty of two cents a pound more than paid the price of producing the sugar, or, in other words, that he got his sugar absolutely free of cost.

CHEAP LABOR IN THE SOUTH.

Then the colonel turned his attention to the labor question as it figures in the cost of producing sugar, and as he spoke of the way in which the negro is treated by their employers down there now he grew quite wrathful. "Why," said he, "they are a hundred times worse off than they were as slaves, simply because they do not have the same amount of care and food they used to have when they had masters, whose advantage it was to look after their well being. That talk of Price's about not being able to make sugar profitably without a bounty is all wrong. The negroes of the south to-day are worse off than the coolies and upon the whole do not receive approximately as much pay for their services. Price said he would be ashamed to tell the people of the north the true story about this wage question, and I don't blame him, for it is a shame and is five hundred times worse than the 'pluck-me' stores of the mining regions of Pennsylvania. They hire negro men down there for from 50 to 60, and in rare instances 75 cents a day. A man who does not know the real facts of the case does not think these wages so bad, but I will open your eyes about it. These negroes do not get this price for every day during the month, and therein lies the outrageousness of the matter. They get pay only for the days upon which they are permitted by the weather to work, and so they lose every wet day, and it takes them frequently fifty days to make twenty-six. This is not all, for they have to pay for their rations for the whole fifty days, just as if they were getting paid for them, and the way they are charged for those is nothing less than downright robbery.

CONDITION OF THE NEGRO.

"When I accused Price of this he said he knew 'it was wrong, but everybody did it.' For instance, there are plantation stores owned by the sugar planters, and they buy flour for, say $5 a barrel, and then sell it to their hands for $8, making just twice what it cost them; or they sell five pounds for twenty-five cents. With bacon it is the same way, and so with all the other necessities of life. The cabins they live in are nothing better than the merest hovels, and not half good enough for a gentleman's bird dog. When the negroes were slaves their owners had to pay a big price for them to begin with, and so they were careful to provide them with such food, shelter and raiment as would make them able to do good work all the time. Now they don't care what they are doing so that they can work when wanted. Thus it is vastly cheaper for the sugar planter to make his crop now than ever before.

"When the war ended and the slaves were declared free one of these bolters, and the man they have put up to beat Price, went over from the Democratic party to the Republicans simply because he said he could hold his negroes in that way and he could not do it in any other. This man is Harry C. Miner, and he is very wealthy and influential and belongs to one of the most aristocratic families in Louisiana. He is the best man the bolters could have selected for their purpose, and will make it hot for Price."

TO INVADE CHINA.

Probable Significance of the Latest Move by the Japanese Army.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 26.—Today's advices from Tokio, stating that a second Japanese army of 30,000 men sailed from Hiroshima yesterday, is regarded in official circles here as the first move in the advance on the Chinese capital, Peking.

It is pointed out that there is no need of Japanese reinforcements in Korea, as, since the battle of Ping Yang, the Japanese have had practical possession of Korea, and their first army of 15,000 needs no additions. It is believed by diplomats that the Japanese have turned their attention from Korea with a view to invading China. The gulf of Pechili, which the dispatches give as the probable destination of the army, is the entrance to the river leading to Peking. It is said, however, that the forts at the entrance to the river are practically impregnable, owing to a stretch of mud flats around them. It is not believed, therefore, that any advance on Peking would be made up the river, but that the 30,000 men would be landed at some gulf port, whence a short overland march would take them to the walls of Peking. This circuit of the forts is the strategic move advised by a United States army officer of high rank who has made a study of Japan's proposed invasion of China.

The Lourenco Situation.

LOURENCO MARQUEZ, DELAGOA BAY, Sept. 26.—The situation of affairs here is growing worse. The outlying detachments of Portuguese troops, which were hastily called in to take part in the defence of the town, were so closely pursued by the natives that they were compelled to abandon their arms and ammunition. The total strength of the Portuguese troops available to defend the town is only 320 officers and men, and the Kafirs threatening to attack it are estimated to number 7,000.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

DIAGNOSING DISEASE BLINDFOLDED.

Remarkable Career in the Oure of the Sick.

Holding an Angry Mob at Bay From the Rear Platform of the Train.

Col. Robert G. Olcott, of London, was the guest of the Chester Club, of Philadelphia, the other evening when the subject for discussion happened to be our great men. And as Col. Olcott's mission to this country was to investigate the history of the different types of great Americans, he was called upon to respond. "I will respond as to the physicians," said the colonel in his English brogue.

"My idea, gentlemen, of a great physician is a physician who is capable, and who does great things, a man of great originality, quick in perception, cool in demeanor, strong in his convictions, forcible in the presentation of his belief and unbiased by sectarian prejudice, whether it be in medicine, religion or politics. The physician I refer to is certainly a wonderful physician as well as a remarkable personality.

"He seems to possess a great intuition, which enables him to diagnose all diseases and describe these diseases without being told anything and without asking any questions better than the patient can tell him. I have seen him in more than twenty cases blindfolded, and in this condition tell every person their diseases in detail without asking a question. Consequently, when he doctors a patient he doctors him for the right disease instead of experimenting with him. I have seen him more than a dozen times while thoroughly blindfolded read a book as readily as if he had the use of his eyes. I don't pretend to say how he does these things, for I don't know, but I do know that he does them.

"He examines thousands of sick people every year, and tells each and every one their trouble without asking a question. Now it seems to me that a man who can read the inside of a sick person as he would an open book without asking any questions is far more capable of treating the patient than the doctor who has to guess at the disease from what the patient may tell him.

"The gentleman I refer to is Dr. R. C. Flower, of Boston, Mass. You have all heard of him many times. He has thousands of patients under his care. These patients are distributed all over your United States and in other countries. Wherever Dr. Flower goes crowds gather to see him of the incurable sick from every part of the world. Inquiry at the following hotels—Riggs House, Washington, D. C.; Exchange Hotel, Richmond, Va.; Kimball House, Atlanta, Ga.; St. James Hotel, Jacksonville, Fla.; Tremont House, Galveston, Tex.; Menger House, San Antonio, Tex.; Richelleu Hotel, Little Rock, Ark.; Guyosa Hotel, Memphis, Tenn.; Galt House, Louisville, Ky.; Beers Hotel, St. Louis, Mo.; Throop Hotel, Topeka, Kan.; Plankinton Hotel, Milwaukee, Wis.; Palmer House, Chicago, Ill.; Cadillac Hotel, Detroit, Mich.; Denison Hotel, Indianapolis, Ind.; Grand Hotel, Cincinnati, O.—and the Continental Hotel in this city have all brought the answer that whenever Dr. R. C. Flower visits their hotel great crowds of the sick and suffering come to see him, and that the people who come to see him are generally the most prominent and wealthy people of the country, representing all the positions, business and professional, of life; and as far as any expressions have been heard, they have been that Dr. R. C. Flower has cured or is curing them, and that he told them their diseases without asking a question.

"The physician who took Antonio Casenero, the Cuban prince, and his wife to see Dr. R. C. Flower in 1883, described to me the first interview between Dr. Flower and the prince's wife: 'You need not tell me anything,' said the doctor as he took the woman's hand in his and looked directly into her eyes for a minute. 'It is my opinion,' said the doctor slowly, 'that you were bitten by a vicious cat some years ago and come very near losing your life from the injury. Shortly after this occurred you received a blow in your left breast. Soon a lump appeared. This in time was pronounced a cancer and you had it cut out. It soon returned with four or five other growths, and are under the arm. You have had at least two, and I believe three operations. Your case is now considered by physicians generally as incurable.' 'You are right in every particular,' said the woman, 'but for God's sake how did you know these things?' 'Never mind how I know them. I see you now have seven or eight growths coming in the breast around the edges where the operations were performed and two under the arm. Your disease has now reached a state where you are in constant suffering. Without delay the doctor filled a hypodermic needle with a mixture of lachesis, permanganate of potash, thymol and refined green tincture of stibogen, and made an injection into each growth. These injections he repeated every third day for three weeks, when every trace of the cancerous growths were gone. He treated the system constitutionally for eight months, from which time Mrs. Casenero has enjoyed perfect health.

"The Minister to the United States from one of the leading South American Republics told my worthy friend on my left that he believed Dr. R. C. Flower, of Boston, was inspired of God to cure the sick when all other efforts failed; that he and his family were patients of Dr. R. C. Flower, and his treatment of their cases was miraculous. I hold in my hand a letter from the late ex-Governor Bishop, of Ohio, in which he says: 'If miracles have ever been performed in modern times then Dr. R. C. Flower, of Boston, performs them daily. I have seen him examine scores of patients without asking a question and tell each one in detail his trouble. I have seen men and women sick unto death with cancers and tumors, after given up by the leading medical skill of this country to die, cured by Dr. R. C. Flower in a short time without the knife, without pain and without blood. I have seen the same wonderful cures of paralysis, rheumatism, heart and nerve troubles.' The governor closes this letter by saying: 'There are several brothers in the Flower family whose lives are full of promise. R. O. Flower, the youngest brother, is the popular editor of the Arena, but there is but one Dr. R. C. Flower, and there will NEVER! NEVER! NEVER!

Be another. He has built up his present great practice, which is without doubt the largest and most extended practice in the world. Of this great practice he is the head, its life, its centre and its source. One of his brothers, Dr. A. H. Flower, is in his employ, and is doing a good work. Other physicians of skill are associated with him. He is the most cheerful man in the sick room I ever knew. The moment you come into his presence you feel that he will cure you. He is the most pleasing gentleman I have ever met, and in my judgment the greatest living physician. 'It was Dr. R. C. Flower, who fourteen years ago cured in this city the President of the Pennsylvania railroad of hopeless paralysis. From that day to this his marvellous cures have started your country at frequent intervals. Such cures as that of Miss Ella Betts, South Norwalk, Conn., from helplessness to perfect use of her limbs; Mrs. A. T. Longly, of Washington, D. C., of malignant fibroid growth of the womb, and all of these cures permanent. His recent cures of such men as John Hopkins, Ellsworth, Me., and Dr. M. F. Brooks, Portland, Me.; of John Straw, of Stowe, Vt.; of Mrs. Jerry Booth, of Vergennes, Vt.; of Mrs. Mcomber, of Balston Spa, N. Y.; of A. E. Sprague, of Columbus, O.; of Mrs. Jhena Deykean, of Sheridan, Ind.; of C. H. Posey, 615 Chestnut street, Evansville, Ind.; the wife of the Hon. William Mix, of Louisville, Ky., is evidence beyond dispute that Dr. R. C. Flower in the treatment and cure of chronic diseases is a master; that most of his cures are men and women given up by other physicians as incurable. Dr. Flower is the head, the examiner and consulting physician of this great practice, while the treatment and details are attended to by his associates.

"Your worthy secretary, who has known Dr. R. C. Flower for many years, has told me many an interesting bit of his history while he was in the practice of the law. For, as some of you know, the doctor was educated for law, practiced several years, lost his voice, went into the practice of medicine, and has never been able to quit it. It was in 1874 (20 years ago) that Dr. R. C. Flower, not a practicing physician then, was called to Mobile to defend a man under arrest charged with arson. After a desperately fought case he succeeded in acquitting his client. On his return north at a little station south of Franklin, Tenn., a mob of infuriated men surrounded the sheriff, who was endeavoring to get a negro on the train. A thousand men, many of them with masks on their faces, cried out:

"HANG HIM! HANG HIM!"

A rope was thrown around his neck, and in another moment he would have been swinging to a limb, when R. C. Flower, moving his hand, cried out from the rear platform: "Gentlemen, hear me before you hang this man. You are southern men, and I am glad as such to represent you. This great crowd is represented by soldiers who a few years ago wore both the gray and the blue. Your records were those of courage, of daring and valor. You were brave men then, and I believe you are brave men to-day. You are southerners, men of chivalry, men easily excited, quick to resent an evil, but gentlemen,

YOU ARE NOT MURDERERS, and I don't believe you want to murder this man in cold blood. You don't want to establish a precedent of mob law, which may some day be visited upon some of you. Let the law, I beg you, take its course. You will feel better as you think it over; better when you go to your beds to-night, and better in the silence of your next night on earth.' At this the leader of the mob cried out as he threw the rope down: 'I reckon you are right, young man. We will let the law take its course, and the sheriff hustled the frightened negro into the car.'

But enough. Col. Olcott only expresses what thousands know, and if Dr. R. C. Flower should ever return to the practice of law he would at an early day carve his name on the highest round of a great reputation.

The great interest the world now has in Dr. Flower is as a physician, as a healer, when all others fail and death approaches.

Those interested in the wonderful career of this marvelous man who send four cents return postage stamps to the Flower Medical Company, No. 559 Columbus avenue, Boston, Mass., will receive a photogravure, biography and a new work entitled "Dr. R. C. Flower in the Sick Room."
