MEDICAL.

"THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE

IS HAPPY, FRUITFUL MARRIAGE."

Every Man Who Would Know the Grand Truths, the Plain Facts, the New Discoveries of Medical Science as Applied to Married Life, Who Would Atone for Past Errors and Avoid Future Pitfalls, Should Secure the Wonderful Little Book Called "Complete Manhood, and How to Attain It."

"Here at last is information from a high medical source that must work wonders with this generation of men."

The book fully describes a method by which to attain full vigor and manly power.

A method by which to end all unnatural drains on the system.

To cure nervousness, lack of self-control, despondency, &c.

To exchange a jaded and worn nature for one of brightness, buoyancy and power.

To cure forever effects of excesses, overwork, worry, &c.

To give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Age no barrier. Failure impossible. Two thousand references.

The book is purely medical and scientific, useless to curiosity seekers, invaluable to men only who need it.

A despairing man, who had applied to us, soon after wrote:

"Well, I tell you that first day is one I'll never forget. I just bubbled with joy. I wanted to hug everybody and tell them my old self had died yesterday, and my new self was born to-day. Why didn't you tell me when I first wrote that I would find it this way?"

And another thus:

"If you dumped a cart load of gold at my feet it would not bring such gladness into my life as your method has done."

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, Buffalo, N. Y., and ask for the little book called "COMPLETE MANHOOD." Refer to this paper, and the company promises to send the book, in sealed envelope, without any marks, and entirely free, until it is well introduced.

"Save My Child!" is the cry of many an agonized mother whose little one writhes in croup or whooping cough. In such cases, Dr. Acker's English Remedy proves a blessing and a godsend. Mrs. M. A. Burke, of 309 E. 105th St., New York, writes: "Dr. Acker's English Remedy cured my baby of bronchitis, and also gave instant relief in a severe case of croup."

MOMENTOUS SECRET

Alleged to be in the Possession of an Englishman.

GUELPHS MAY LOSE THE THRONE

Papers Said to Prove that George IV. Left an Heir, are Deposited in a Bank—But One Man Has the Right to Open the Packet, and He Cannot Live Long.

NEW YORK, May 4.—In a private bank in London there is a sealed packet, placed there in the year 1813. Only one man in all England has the right to open that packet and make public the contents of the documents it contains. He is the Rev. E. S. Keppel. He has hitherto consistently declined to sanction the unsealing of the package. Some day, in the course of nature, Mr. Keppel will die, and the ownership of the package will go to his heir. He is old, and the time can't be distant.

When that time comes many of those in high places in England will tremble. No one knows what those documents prove; but it is not improbable that they prove the existence of another heir to the throne of England than the Prince of Wales. Not only this, but that Queen Victoria herself has no more right to the position she occupies than has the meanest of her subjects. No wonder that Mr. Keppel hesitates to open the package, and that those who know of its existence are fearful of the consequences should the next owner desire to do so.

How comes a collection of documents of such surpassing importance in a private bank and how is it that an ordinary clergyman holds such a momentous matter in his keeping?

To answer these questions it is necessary to go back to the history of the reign of George IV. As is well known, this monarch, who was a rake of the most reckless character, fell violently in love with a beautiful widow named Mrs. Fitzherbert. This lady, unlike the generality of royal favorites, was virtuous, and this fact only served to increase the then Prince of Wales's passion for her. One day Mrs. Fitzherbert received word that the prince had attempted to kill himself from despair at her attitude and her immediate presence was requested at Carlton house. She went, and the prince declared he could not live unless she would consent to become his wife. He put a ring on her finger, but the next day Mrs. Fitzherbert left England.

She remained abroad many months, receiving frequent and urgent requests from the prince to return. At last she consented to return, provided the prince would marry her. That the marriage in secret and at night, took place, there is not a shadow of a doubt. Several intimate friends of the prince and one or two of the bride's relatives were present, and the ceremony was performed by a clergyman of the Church of England, according to some reports, and according to others, by the Abbe Sechamp.

In the press and the house of commons the marriage was denied, but it was admitted afterward that the denial was considered necessary for political purposes, the Prince and the government—of whom, in passing, it may be mentioned that only one or two knew the facts—fearing a popular outbreak, should it be known publicly that the heir to the throne had married Mrs. Fitzherbert, a Roman Catholic.

Next Kin an American.

What, then, is the important question that the papers in Coutt's bank alone can answer? Was there issue from the union? The prince and his wife lived together some time, and after his death, he having become King of England in the meantime, the lady was treated with the greatest respect by King William IV. It was supposed that no children resulted from the marriage, but that there was some additional secret of importance is evident from the fact of the papers having been deposited by Mrs. Fitzherbert in the care of Messrs. Coutts & Company, who have the most aristocratic business in London. The lady was asked the question point blank on one occasion, but—and this is significant—declined to reply "on the score of delicacy." Had there been no issue it seems probable that she would not have hesitated.

The manner in which the package came into the possession of the Rev. Mr. Keppel is easily explained. The Duke of Wellington, the Earl of Albemarle, and Lord Stourton were designated the custodians of the package by Mrs. Fitzherbert. The executors of the two latter gentlemen were a Mr. Langdale and Mr. Keppel. The latter is now the sole survivor.

The constitution of Great Britain forbids the marriage of the heir to the throne with a commoner or a Roman Catholic. Mrs. Fitzherbert was both and should it transpire that there was a child, a very important and intricate constitutional question would be raised.

It was rumored some time ago that a son of the prince and his wife was living in this country at Washington. It was also said that the Jesuits had complete proof of his paternity. It is a curious, mysterious business, and should it turn out that there was a child, it is difficult to tell in what way the question will be settled. The most probable eventuality is that the papers will be destroyed secretly, and the whole trouble disposed of completely if not honestly.

"A Free Press" in Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 4.—The newspapers here were authorized to announce the death of the shah of Persia, but without stating the cause. One newspaper announces that the shah was out for a walk, felt unwell and died suddenly. Some apprehension is felt in official circles here, owing to the fact that the assassin formerly lived in this city, from which place he communicated with Sheikh Jem Aleddin, who is credited with having planned the murder of both the shah and grand vizier of Persia.

A Sad Tragedy.

CANAAN, Conn., May 4.—Edwin Plant, of Clayton, Mass., three miles from here, to-day shot and instantly killed his wife, Ada, and then fired a bullet into the breast of his two-weeks-old child, killing it. Plant fled to the swamp near Karkapot river and was surrounded by a posse. After a lively exchange of shots with his pursuers, Plant killed himself. Plant was married April 16, and the same day his wife gave birth to the infant.

Indians on Warpath.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 4.—A dispatch received at the Indian department here says that the Indians in the Alaska district are preparing to go on the warpath.

Senator Morgan Better.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Senator Morgan, of Alabama, who has been quite ill, has recovered and was well enough to appear in the senate to-day.

FROM REAL LIFE.

A Great Truth and a Warning Brought Out at the Lunch Table.

Two well-known business men were seated at a lunch table recently, consulting the bill of fare. One of them looked fresh and bright, the other was pale and languid. After a while the sickly-looking man threw down the bill and exclaimed:

"It's no use! I have no appetite. I can't eat." His friend looked up anxiously.

"Why, what's the matter?" he asked.

"Well, I don't know," was the reply. "I have a bad cough in the morning, a tickling in the throat and difficulty in breathing. My pulse is quick, my breath is short, and I have a tightness across the chest. I have tired feelings, and seem completely worn out. Now, what do you think is the matter with me?"

"I don't think, but I know that you have the first symptoms of consumption. I am convinced of it, because I was once in the same dangerous condition myself. You must do something at once! If you follow my advice, you will do as I do, and take a pure stimulant regularly. I tried many things, but received no benefit until I took Duffy's pure malt whisky. I have been using it regularly for over a year now, and it has made me feel better and stronger than I ever felt before. I am not so bigoted as to let my health suffer when I know what will restore and preserve it."

The above is not an imaginary conversation. It actually took place, substantially as narrated. It is a statement of the experience of thousands of other people throughout America. Duffy's pure malt whisky will check consumption, will prevent pneumonia, will build up the system, quicken the circulation and give new life. It is nourishing, it is pure. Every grocer and druggist keeps it, but care should be taken to secure only the genuine.

FINANCE AND TRADE

The Features of the Money and Stock Markets.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Money on call easy at 2@2½ per cent; last loan 2½ per cent; closed at 2½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 4½@5½ per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4 88¾@4 89 for demand and $4 87¾@4 88 for sixty days. Posted rates $4 88½@4 89 and $4 89½@4 90. Commercial bills $4 86¾@4 87¼. Bar silver 63c. Silver certificates 63¼@63¾c.

The only appreciable effect of continued engagements of gold for export on to-day's stock market was a contraction of business. The trading was on a limited scale, but so far as it went, was fairly well distributed. In no instance, reducing American Tobacco to full stock, was the 10,000 share mark reached. The influence of the gold engagements, amounting to $2,150,000, was offset by the extreme ease in money, further reported improvement in general trade, more encouraging advices regarding the progress made in planting the crops and a higher market for American securities in London and moderate purchases in this market for that account. Railroad earnings continue mainly favorable. Speculative interest was chiefly confined to the industrials to-day. The market at times reflected realizing sales, but in a general way the current of prices was upward, and the closing was at about the best figures and showing fractional gains in most instances.

Bonds were quiet, but firm on transactions of $912,000.

Governments displayed strength on purchases of $109,000.

State issues figured for $41,000, without important change in prices.

The total sales of stocks to-day were 111,329 shares.

Evening Post's London financial cablegram:

The stock markets were irregular to-day, but firm on the whole.

American railways were steady to firm, but with no business.

The Paris bourse was fairly firm, as also was Berlin.
