The Intelligencer's hydrophobia relief fund movement is not at all in the comatose state that it had appeared to have fallen into on Sunday and Monday, where there was a disappointing let-up in the stream of personal contributions that had been in evidence.

Yesterday two handsome subscriptions were made to the fund, one of $25 being by the Reymann Brewing Company, and the other of the same amount by the Wheeling Builders' Exchange. This sends the fund up to within $4 of the $500 mark, and with the receipts of the "Musical Wheeling" entertainment given last night at the Grand Opera House, will make it possible to send at least one and possibly two more of the suspects to New York for treatment at the Pasteur Institute.

The Intelligencer is thankful for the contributions that have been made by a generous public, but there should be a steady stream of subscriptions until enough money is carried to send every one of the hydrophobia suspects to the Pasteur Institute, for if one or two should be unable to take the treatment through inability to raise the money, it might eventuate in those who did not take the treatment being attacked by the dread hydrophobia, which would be a tragedy to the city.

The Intelligencer and the people of Wheeling take this occasion to extend thanks to Manager Feinler, of the Grand Opera House, who so generously donated the use of his place of amusement for last night's entertainment; to the many capable and distinguished artists who sail under the title, "Musical Wheeling;" to Manager John McClure, manager, and Ernest Baer, treasurer, of the Wheeling Amateur Orchestra, under the auspices of which last night's concert was carried to so successful a conclusion, and to all others who contributed to its success. All can feel that they have assisted in a humane work that may have saved one or more unfortunate from a terrible doom.

"FOR SWEET CHARITY."

Last Night's Concert at the Grand Opera House Success.

Last night at the Grand Opera House the hydrophobia relief fund got another boost, as a result of the concert given under the auspices of the Wheeling Amateur Orchestra.

There were not as many present as should have been, for such a galaxy of artistic entertainers should have packed the house. The best musical and literary talent in Wheeling were gathered together for the humane purpose of assisting in the effort to raise enough to send all the hydrophobia "suspects" to the Pasteur Institute, at New York, for treatment, but the Grand had many vacant seats last night. It was impossible to ascertain the proceeds, owing to there being a number of tickets on yet, but the amount made will be ascertained today.

The programme was carried out just as published in the Intelligencer, and it drew forth appreciative applause at the conclusion of every number. No encores were allowed. The selections chosen by the performers were happily chosen, and the concert was one of the most delightful ever given in the city. It seemed as though everything possible had been done for the success of the entertainment. The use of the Grand was generously donated by Manager Feinler, and he and his staff did all in their power for the affair, and they placed all the arrangements and appointments of the theatre in the hands of the Wheeling Amateur Orchestra.

Milligan, Wilkin & Company kindly furnished a piano and carriages for the ladies making part were donated by Burns & Charley, Feinler, and by his staff. The orchestra, under the leadership of Mrs. Nellie Sweeney Palmer, Mrs. Nellie Warren Holloway, Mrs. Flora Williams, Opera House orchestra, R. C. Darrah, H. W. Hughes, Boy Choral Club, W. B. Day, Charles Zulauf, H. C. Sweeney, F. W. Nesbitt, and last but not least, the "Whyte" and sparring partner, Jason C. Stamp.

The novel innovation of a boxing contest was only equalled by the speech of Councilman Harry McLure, the referee, in introducing the principals. It was a "beaut," and should have been on the programme, though it was probably overlooked because the audience was not aware beforehand of so much latent humor being at the command of Harry's tongue. Those who were present at the Grand last night had an intellectual feast, and accomplished a noble and humanitarian end. Furthering the relief fund were all those connected with the entertainment, and to whom thanks of the citizens at large are due.

The Wheeling Amateur Orchestra, which magnanimously undertook the trouble incident to a raising for the relief fund, is composed of nine young gentlemen who are linked together for the pleasure they derive from music. They seek no pecuniary gain, using their talent for charitable entertainments solely.

The orchestra was organized about a year ago. At present the ensemble is as follows: Prof. A. Parber, director; first violin; Robert Luke, fute; Fred Huseman, drums; Dr. John McClure, cornet; Eugene Baer, clarinet; Clarence Owen, second violin; Joseph Pollock, viola; Robert Yahring, double bass, and Joseph Kraus, trombone.

ORDINANCE COMMITTEE.

Of the City Council Meets and Decides to Recommend the City Engineer Ordinance—No Afternoon and Evening Market in the Second Ward.

The council committee on ordinances had a long and important meeting last night. The ordinance relating to the duties of the city engineer was the chief item of business. It came back to the committee after being acted upon by the board of public works, and three of the amendments tacked on by that body were rejected by the committee last night.

City Solicitor Nesbitt presented the ordinance, and as it now stands, provides: That the city engineer shall be elected by the board of public works, after its regular statutory election by council, and said election by the engineer to be approved by council. His bond shall be $5,000, and his salary $2,500 per annum. His duties are numerous. He must locate the lines and grades of all streets, sidewalks, alleys, or other public ways; determine the size or construction of all sewers, water works, drainage canals, bridges, culverts, etc., and prepare plans for the same; and furnish estimates and specifications of said work, when required by the board of public works, board of gas trustees or city council. He shall have general supervision of all contract or other work, and shall annually report condition of all bridges in the city. He shall furnish all information in his power to the city solicitor concerning any matter that may come under his jurisdiction, and assist the city solicitor in litigation to which the city is a party, when it is considered necessary by the engineer.

The city engineer must make a complete survey of the entire city, which shall constitute and be the official survey of the city. In making the survey he must report his progress every month to the committee on streets, alleys and grades, until the survey is completed. He must keep in his office certified copies of all field notes, maps or profiles relating to all city surveys. As soon as the official survey shall have been extended over any portion of the city, it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to erect any building, or any street or public highway embraced within the limits of such survey, without application to the city engineer. Persons violating this are subject to fine. He shall also charge, for the benefit of the city, fees for making surveys for owners of property ordering the work, or against whom the work is properly chargeable. He shall employ all assistants necessary, subject to authorization and approval of the board of public works. He shall devote all his personal time and attention to the requirements of his office. The ordinance shall take effect on May 1, 1897, and it was recommended to council for its approval.

The ordinance regulating the hours of opening and closing the Second ward market house was submitted by City Solicitor Nesbitt. It provides that market shall be held in the upper market house on Wednesdays and Saturdays of each week, commencing at 5 a. m., and ending at 10 a. m., from April 1 to October 1; and commencing at 6 a. m., and ending at 10 a. m., from October 1 until April 1.

There was little discussion on the ordinance, it being the consensus of opinion of the committee that market in the evening at the Second ward market house would be injurious to butchers, who would be unable to attend both markets at once. The ordinance was recommended to council, thus killing a market on evening market at the Second ward market house.

The petition of the Wheeling Stockyard Company, for permission to erect a stockyard at Sixteenth and Main streets, was laid over until the city solicitor could frame a new ordinance regulating the stockyard, upon which Col. Robert White addressed the committee in behalf of the petitioners. He argued that the city had no right to legislate against business, and could not define a certain locality for a certain business, referring to a recent decision of the supreme court to substantiate his argument.

Clark O'Brien read the resolution from the first branch of council asking that an ordinance be drafted, putting a tax upon all doctors, specialists or merchants doing business in the city who are not bona fide residents of Wheeling. This resolution was aimed at traveling specialists, and itinerant vendors, but the latter class is already regulated by the ordinance which makes outsiders pay a license for selling goods in the city. The annual license ordinance came up before the committee, and the license ordinance was amended so as to include specialists, thus putting a tax on foreign eye doctors, etc., doing business in Wheeling in future.
