REVENGE IS SWEET.

Yesterday afternoon the Wheelings defeated the team of Pittsburgh professional ball tossers, commanded by the well-known one-armed pitcher, George England.

The Wheelings went into the game determined to wipe out the disgrace of Saturday's ten inning defeat, and they succeeded in doing it most admirably.

The work of the Nailers, both in the field and outfield, was very fine. Of the three errors, one that of Taylor, was on a most difficult chance and it was not surprising that his recovery was incomplete and the throw to first was low.

Both McGinniss and Curtis did clean work in the outfield, and a glance at the score showing four put-outs for McGinniss, tells the story of the good things he accomplished in right garden.

For the visitors, the feature was the double catch of a fly in short center field by Hart and Yeagle, and the return of the ball to first, making a double play. This occurred in the seventh inning.

Mr. Herrington's two little children have made quite a hit with the grand stand patrons. They are in the cushion business and are hustlers in their line.

It is likely Colonel Dominick Morris will be re-appointed custodian of the peace at the ball park for this season.

50 Years of Cures.

Inter-state team will take place this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Baker will probably pitch for the home team, while Woodward will be in the points for the visitors.

O'Brien, the first baseman, is expected to arrive this afternoon. His appearance will strengthen the team, though McSteen put up an entirely satisfactory game at the initial bag yesterday.

It is questionable if Whaley would put up as satisfactory a game at short as Bill Taylor is putting up just now. And he's a stronger hitter, too.
