CITY COUNCIL.

An Extended Session of the City Legislature Last Night.

THE CITY ENGINEER ORDINANCE

Placing Mr. White Under a Salary of $4,500, Passes Both Branches, and is a Law—The Wheeling & Elm Grove Railway Company Asks for the Use of Streets for Electric Car Lines—Second Ward Market Ordinance Falls of Passage.

The capitol clock was just tolling the hour of 8 o'clock last night, when both branches of the city council had secured quorums, and midnight when the session was over. There was a goodly attendance of spectators on hand at an early hour. They were men who had their eye on liquor licenses for the coming year.

In the second branch, President Chew occupied the throne, and the following members answered to their names: Ahl, Arndt, Beckett, Berry, Bradbury, Bucey, Connelly, Fair, Gartley, Hahne, Higgins, Hoe, Kindelberger, Meehan, Kinke, McAdams, Miller, Nesbitt, Travis, Megrall, Watson, Meyer, Weisgerber and Mr. President. The absentees were: Bronstrop, Kaiser, McDonald, Paul.

On motion of Mr. Bucey, seconded by Mr. Hahne, the reading of the minutes of the last meeting was dispensed with, in order to receive the report of the committee on petitions and licenses.

Clerk Watkins read his monthly report, which showed: Appropriations, $12,285; expenditures, $3,248 97; balance, $9,036 98.

City Collector Hall reported having paid to City Receiver Forgy the following amounts: 50-cent levy, $16,021 35; 10-cent levy, $2,797 41.

Clerk Watkins then took up the report of the committee on petitions and remonstrances, and read the names of those who had been recommended for licenses. The names of the fortunate ones have been previously printed in the Intelligencer. The committee's report was adopted without discussion.

A resolution that the bonds be approved in a lump, and authorizing the mayor to ask the acknowledgements any time before May 1, was introduced by Mr. Weisgerber, and also adopted. This method considerably facilitated the approvals of license, which heretofore has been a lengthy and arduous undertaking. Credit of the new scheme is due to President Chew.

Following this resolution, a grand rush of the spectators was made for the corridors and the second branch thus being cleared, Officer McGulgan then barred the door.

The committee on accounts submitted its report, which audited $115 72; adopted.

To Assist the Solicitor.

The committee on claims submitted a report with bills, amounting to $5, and recommended the assistance of other attorneys to the city solicitor in some damage suits against the city. Some of the members of the council thought that a stated sum should be paid the assisting attorneys. Other members showed that it was unprofessional for lawyers to state their fees before a suit. The report of the committee was adopted by a vote of 18 to 6.

The committee on cemeteries submitted a bill for $14 75. Messrs. Hoe and Bucey of the committee, did not remember ever seeing such a bill before, and the report was accordingly referred back to the committee.

The committee on fire department submitted bills amounting to $23 98; and recommending the appointments made by Fire Chief Kilevas, since his last report. The committee's report was adopted without a dissenting voice.

The committee on health submitted bills totalling $145 15, and recommending payment of same. The report was adopted.

Bills auditing $148 28 for the police department, and $329 88 for city prison were submitted in the report of the committee on police and city prison; adopted.

The committee on real estate had a string of items aggregating $421 89; ordered paid.

The committee on ordinances had an extensive report. The annual license ordinance was submitted and "Charley" Watkins read it twice. Like the veteran that he is, without tiring. He got his second wind before he gave the license ordinance its second reading, and ever and anon gave his voice a lullaby upon and fall that acted as a lullaby upon his dozing listeners. The ordinance provided a tax on peddlers, clairvoyants, merchandise brokers, bowling alleys, pool sellers, and others "too numerous to mention." The only amendment was offered by Mr. Berry, who wanted the West Virginia Fair Association to pay $50 per week for the privilege of selling goods at the fair. The ordinance called for a tax of 45 per day.

Messrs. Weisgerber and Hahne opposed the amendment, because the pools were only sold for a few days. The amendment carried by a standing vote of 14 to 8.

The ordinance granting the board of gas trustees $1,500 for the month of April, in addition to the amount previously appropriated, was adopted unanimously.

Another long document came up in the ordinance, defining the duties and salary of the city engineer. Its second reading ran smoothly until section 15 was reached, which provides for the employment of assistants by the city engineer. Mr. Miller thought the clause too indefinite; it might mean that he could employ any number of assistants, whose salaries would have to be paid by the city.

The Engineer Ordinance. Mr. Hahne moved to amend by inserting that the assistants should not receive over $500 per annum.

President Chew, who had previously called Mr. Higgins to the chair, favored leaving the clause as it was. It provides that the appointments may be made by the city engineer, but the salaries have to be appropriated by council. The amendment was lost.

The clause fixing the city engineer's salary at $2,500 per annum, brought forth an amendment from Mr. Hahne, who moved to substitute $1,500. He thought the $1,500 salary for the board of works in employing many idle men on the streets. This amendment found the grave of its predecessor. There being no further objections, the ordinance was adopted by a unanimous vote. The ordinance now stands as previously outlined in the Intelligencer.

It was after 11 o'clock when the ordinance regulating the hours of the Second ward market was read. After its second reading, a motion to lay it on the table was defeated, the South Siders getting 13 to 10 in favor of the motion. The ordinance against "city third and thirty-seventh streets" wanted 10 to 10, but the two-thirds vote required.

The first branch sent in an amendment to the license ordinance, reducing the tax on small priced shows. The second branch concurred.

A general laugh was created by the petition of the residents of Alley C, from Seventh to Tenth streets. They wanted to sewer pipe along the alley within the specified limits. Referred to board of public works. The same fate followed the petition for a sewer on Thirty-second street. South Chapline street residents between Third and Third and Thirty-seventh streets wanted a new sewer; the board of public works got another item of business. The petition of Forty-fifth street residents for a new sewer went the same road.

Mr. Higgins offered a resolution that a joint committee of three from each
