COUER DE LEON

Company of Uniform Rank Getting in Shape to Figure

AT INDIANAPOLIS ENCAMPMENT

NEXT WEEK—A DRILL WAS HELD ON THE SOUTH SIDE LAST NIGHT AND THE BOYS SHOWED REMARKABLE PROFICIENCY—A WHEELING COMPANY MAY FIGURE IN THE PRIZE CONTEST AT THE ENCAMPMENT NEXT WEEK.

Last night at the corner of Twenty-third and Market streets, South Side, Couer de Leon company No. 1, of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, had one of the last drills that will be possible before this company and the others of the First battalion, First regiment, leave for Indianapolis next Sunday morning. Although it is not yet assured, it is probable that a Wheeling company, composed of picked men from the three Wheeling companies, Couer de Leon, Bernard Shanley and James T. McGee, will figure in one of the big drill contests at the encampment. It is believed Wheeling could furnish as well drilled a company as almost any city in the country.

Newby Oval, in Indianapolis, where the contests will occur, is the bicycle race course over which the recent races of the national meet of the L. A. W. were recently run. It has many advantages over any place where the drills have been held before during the biennial encampments. The space inside the race track is perfectly level and is just large enough for the manoeuvres, and not large enough that spectators cannot see every movement from any part of the seating arrangement. The track is a quarter of a mile around and it is flanked on all sides by the grand stand, pavilions and "bleachers," making a continuous bank of seats entirely around it. The seating capacity is 16,000.

The prizes offered for these drills are the largest ever hung up for a like occasion, and have attracted all the crack companies from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The prize in the open contest for companies is $1,500, the second is $1,000 and the third is $1,000, while there are a half dozen smaller prizes. There are also proportionately large purses offered to be competed for by companies who have never won a prize at these tournaments. Large prizes are also offered for battalion and cavalry drills, and, in addition, a number of special prizes and purses are offered by business houses and individuals. There will be four days of the drills. A nominal admission fee will be charged to see them, except to members of the Uniform Rank in uniform.

It is possible that the gathering of the Knights of Pythias in Indianapolis will be turned into a big jollification on account of the close of the war with Spain. The Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, prides itself on being a reserve army of the United States. It is strictly military and has on its membership rolls the best drilled men in the land. When the war with Spain became inevitable whole brigades and regiments tendered their services to the government of many states, offering themselves as organizations to fight the battle of their country. As is well known the call came for the National Guard and the offer of the Uniform Rank could not be accepted. But a great many members of the rank were also members of the National Guard, and these are now enlisted as United States volunteers, while those who were not fortunate enough to get mustered in are watching their progress as soldiers with deep interest. While the Uniform Rank as a body are the members as individuals are ready and have ever been ready to respond to a call to arms, they are equally as ready to hear that the terms of peace have been agreed to and if such news comes while they are in camp or shortly before the encampment begins, surely "there will be a hot time in the old town."

There will be a lively contest during the meeting of the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias over the selection of the place for the next convention. The supreme lodge has the settling of this question, inasmuch as the Uniform Rank, the Rathbone Sisters and the Knights of Khorassan elect to meet at the same place and time as the supreme lodge. There is some talk, however, of holding the supreme lodge convention at a different time and place and if this plan is adopted it will probably result in making the Uniform Rank encampment an independent affair.

If this change is made it will not make the fight for the encampment any less interesting. It will only change the seat of the war from the convention of the supreme lodge to the supreme assembly of the Uniform Rank. Louisville, Dallas, Denver, Omaha and Boston are candidates. Louisville will probably come with the largest following. It is nearest and has the support of all the south, east of the Mississippi. A committee, representing the Knights of Pythias and the commercial bodies of Louisville has been formed to formally extend an invitation for the 1900 encampment to come to the Falls City, and besides it is said that several thousand people from Louisville and Kentucky will be at Indianapolis to help the boom along.

Omaha, Dallas and Denver will all make the fight on at least one common plea, that the encampment has never been held west of Kansas City. Dallas has arranged to send a crack battalion to compete in the big battalion prize drills. Denver will offer as the greatest inducement the fine climate and the beautiful trip, besides a promise of good treatment from the railroads. Omaha was a candidate for the encampment of 1892 but was defeated by Kansas City. She has waited now eight years and will argue that it is rightly her turn. Boston has not been formally announced as a candidate yet, but it is believed, now that a low railroad rate has been made to Indianapolis, that the fever will take possession of the "bean-eaters" and that they will send a big boom party. The first four mentioned cities have formed organizations to work for the next encampment and some lively times may be expected when they begin the work.

CAUT. BLONDELL HERE.

Capt. L. D. Blondell, the champion long-distance ocean swimmer and noted life-saver, arrived in the city last night, from Iowa, where he has been filling several aquatic engagements. He will look over the adjacent water courses and if suitable will endeavor to arrange to give a series of his swimming exhibitions here at an early date. Blondell holds the world's records and will be remembered a few years ago giving an excursion at Chippewa Lake, when a large crowd from Wheeling witnessed his performance. The captain has a record of saving thirty-two lives. He swam three and one-half miles on the lower Ohio river, and sixteen and one-half in old ocean.
