LOCAL BREVITIES

Matters of Minor Moment in and About the City.

Yesterday was the eighth anniversary of the birth of the Evening News.

Curb stones have been delivered on South Penn street between Virginia and Zane, and the street will be paved soon.

The colored people of Wheeling and neighboring towns united in a great celebration of Emancipation Day yesterday.

The case of McGannon vs. the city of Wheeling was still on trial in Judge Hervey's court yesterday, and may be completed to-day. Judge Paul's court was not in session yesterday.

In Clerk Robertson's Office. Yesterday in Clerk Robertson's office, the following transfer of real estate was recorded:

Deed, made September 22, 1893; by Thomas and Mary Gabriel to Francis McGill; consideration $250; transfers to lots 9, 10 and 11 in Division A of Henderson's sub-division.

SKINNER UNDER ARREST. Officers from West Union, Doddridge county, came to Wheeling yesterday afternoon, and last night effected the arrest of C. A. Skinner, who has been employed lately at one of the iron works.

Until recently, he was a detective. He is alleged to have stolen a watch from a West Union man, and will be taken to that place this morning. He spent the night in the county jail. Skinner says that he brought the watch to Wheeling to have it repaired, but on becoming hard up for money he pawned it.

A HOTEL ROBBERY. Yesterday, in Squire Rogers' court, the case of E. L. Miller vs. G. B. Buckhannon, who runs a restaurant on the South Side, came up. Miller claimed that someone had entered his wife's room in her absence and taken $75 worth of jewelry. Buckhannon entered an off-set of $48.89 for board, whereupon the justice gave a verdict against Buckhannon for the balance, $26.11.

MR. ASHBAUGH, the Fur Man, is here to-day, Windsor Hotel. See him about that new Seal Jacket.

A ROUGH RIDER

En Route to his Home in Jackson County to Recuperate

WAS IN SERGEANT FISH'S TROOP

AND WITNESSED THE NEW YORKER'S DEATH—LEE SINNETT, A WEST VIRGINIA BOY, WHO HAS SPENT TEN YEARS IN NEW MEXICO, TO SPEND A MONTH ON HIS NATIVE HEATH—MRS. FISH'S KINDNESS TO THE BOYS WHO WERE WITH HER SON.

A West Virginia boy, one of Roosevelt's Rough Riders, was a guest of the McLure last night, Lee Sinnett, of Murraysville, Jackson county, but for the past ten years a resident of Raton, New Mexico. Trooper Sinnett enlisted at Santa Fe in Troop G, of "Teddy's Terrors," the troop to which Hamilton Fish, Jr., belonged.

Mr. Sinnett has received his discharge and is now on his way to his old home on a month's visit, in hopes of recuperating his health. He will return to New Mexico afterwards. He is attired in the Cuban campaign uniform, and his walk tells of the rheumatism from which he suffers. His face is a picture of health, though at times it wears a fatigued air. Mr. Sinnett is a young man and worked at boiler-making in New Mexico.

He is an ardent admirer of Col. Roosevelt, who, Mr. Sinnett says, was not a bit "stuck up," but slept in the trenches with his men and in other ways betrayed an unassuming bearing. Mr. Sinnett was but a few feet away from "Ham" Fish, when the New Yorker received a fatal Spanish bullet, and he says that Mrs. Fish visited Troop G nearly every day while they were at Montauk Point, and the day before they were mustered out she gave the boys of the troop $100 to purchase trinkets in remembrance of her son. In fact, Mrs. Fish displayed a motherly interest in all the boys.

Sleeping in trencher and under tents which failed to keep off the incessant rains gave the Murraysville boy rheumatism and a touch of malaria. He would prefer a battle every day to the exposures of a Cuban climate. Thirty per cent of his troop suffered from sickness. All the hardships, however, were forgotten, according to Trooper Sinnett, when the Rough Riders reached New York, where they were wined and dined to a finish. After the first few shots at El Caney, Sinnett says his case of rattles left him, and he settled down to accept what was to come. He was one of a squad which stood in the creek for two and one-half hours. Sinnett is warm in his praises of the colored regiments, but claims the Seventy-first New York ran, through being rattled or having rattled officers. The din of cannonading and musketry has affected Mr. Sinnett's hearing, and last night at the McLure his questioners had often to yell their queries in his ear.

ABOUT PEOPLE

Strangers in the City and Wheeling People Abroad.

County Assessor Ad. Israel and Assistant Postmaster "Alfy" Davis returned yesterday from Greene county (Pa.) where they spent several days practicing their wiles with the elusive bass. Israel spent two days trying to catch one bass, which he says possessed the quality of deviltry to a degree that was heart-breaking, but would not deign to do business with the choice minnows with which the Wheeling angler designed to effect his union.

Hazlett Fresse, engineer at the county building, and Ben Hamilton, of the city engineer's office, have returned from the vicinity of Keyser, where they spent several days on a fishing and hunting trip along the South Branch of the Potomac. The first night out they slept in a farm house at the summit of a mountain. Next morning they had the unusual experience of finding a bank of clouds below them in the valley. They had excellent success with both rod and gun—at least so they say.

A. M. Crow, of Littleton, registered at the Howell yesterday.

F. V. Faulkner was a Mannington citizen in the city last night.

Collector of Internal Revenue A. B. White, of Parkersburg, is a McLure guest.

John M. Gregg, of Morgantown, and J. H. Pringle, of Sistersville, are registers at the Stamm.

N. D. Helmick, U. N. Arnett, Jr., and F. G. Best, were Fairmont registers yesterday at the Windsor.

Sergeant Charles Dobbins, of Company D, Second West Virginia Volunteers, is home on a visit.

Bates McLain leaves Monday for the University of Pennsylvania, to take a three year's course in dentistry.

President C. R. Hubbard of the Wheeling Steel & Iron Company, left last night for the South Branch of the Potomac, where he will spend a short vacation.

Clay Dean is a happy father, Mrs. Dean having presented him with a fine boy baby yesterday. Mr. Dean is receiving the congratulations of his friends.

Yesterday morning a party of Baltimore & Ohio officials were in Wheeling and Benwood Junction a few hours. It was a regular inspection trip, and was not of especial significance. The officials declined to talk of the reorganization and consolidation rumors that are going the rounds. In the party were General Manager W. M. Greene, Chief Engineer Manning, General Superintendent Thomas Fitzgerald and Superintendent R. M. Sheets. The party proceeded to Pittsburgh at noon.

THE Beabout Club will give their opening dance to-night. A good time is assured to all.

STORE will be closed Monday next, September 25—HOLIDAY. KRAFT, FRANK & CO.

MR. ASHBAUGH, the Fur Man, is here to-day, with all the new styles, Windsor Hotel.

We want to show you a kind of Clothing that you won't find in another store in Wheeling. Better, perhaps, than some of you have any idea is made up—ready to wear. It's the kind you would credit to the custom tailors—the kind you'd think would cost twice as much as it will—the kind the most particular dresser will find satisfactory—full of fashion's whims—full of quality—full of bestness till there's no room for fault finding. They've been made for us by some of the best manufacturers in the country. There positively can be nothing better than the garments we're showing, and all this fineness in our grades of Suits and Overcoats at $8 to $20.

We are not talking to your purses, but to your good judgment. We're not talking a saving in money, but an increase in the quality and satisfaction that money will not buy. We win patronage by deserving it.

Our Boys' Clothing Department is now at its best. Nothing that is stylish is lacking. Mothers will do an injustice to the boys if they buy before seeing what we have to offer.
