WHEELING, OCTOBER 31, 1898.

REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL TICKETS.

First District, BLACKBURN B. DOVENER, of Ohio County. Second District, ALSTON G. DAYTON, of Barbour County. Third District, WILLIAM S. EDWARDS, of Kanawha County. Fourth District, R. H. FREDER, of Ritchie County.

OHIO COUNTY REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For State Senator, NELSON E. WHITAKER, of Ohio County. For House of Delegates, H. F. BEHRENS, B. W. CONNELLY, HARRY W. McLAUGHLIN, RALPH McCOY, County Superintendent of Free Schools, GEORGE S. BIGGS.

CONGRESSMAN DOVENER'S APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments will be filed by Representative B. B. Dovener on the dates mentioned: At Wheeling, Saturday, November 5, at 7:30 p. m. At West Liberty, Saturday, November 5, at 1:30 p. m. At New Cumberland, Friday, November 5, at 7:30 p. m. At Alty (Stringtown), Tyler county, November 2, at 1:30 p. m.

Close of the Local Campaign.

The campaign will be brought to a close this week, and on next Tuesday the election will occur. In this city the Republicans will hold several meetings, the two most important of which will be held in the Opera House on Friday and Saturday nights, and they give promise of being big ones.

The party is fortunate in having secured for Friday night's Opera House meeting, besides Congressman Alston G. Dayton, of the Second district, one of the most distinguished diplomats in America, a journalist of international reputation, and a member of the President's cabinet, in the person of Charles Emory Smith, who also enjoys the distinction of being one of the best platform speakers in the country.

Mr. Smith is not only a popular speaker, but is one of our best authorities on economic subjects. Those who fall to hear him will be deprived of hearing a discussion of the issues of the day by one whose attainments entitle him to be classed among the eminent leaders of thought in the country on political questions, and a Republican leader whose high character and great ability have won him a place among the best of our statesmen.

The Opera House should be crowded by voters Friday night. Congressman Dayton, who is making such a splendid campaign in his own district, and whose eloquent voice for Republicanism has been heard before in Wheeling, will be one of the speakers of the evening. Mr. Dayton has a way of holding the attention of his hearers from start to finish, and those who attend will hear the great questions of the day discussed by one of the most forceful, aggressive and logical champions of Republicanism in the state.

On Saturday night Captain Dovener will wind up his campaign tour at the Opera House, together with other speakers, and this will probably be the last meeting of consequence that will be held in the city before the election of the following Tuesday. The captain has been making a splendid campaign throughout the district, and has met with encouragement that warrants that he will be in good enough form to close it with a speech which will be a fitting climax to the many excellent ones he has delivered in the past few weeks, and which have aroused the voters in every county.

Let the Republicans of Wheeling resolve to make these meetings the best of the campaign, and turn out to give a rousing greeting to the distinguished Pennsylvania, Mr. Smith, to Mr. Dayton, and to the representative of this district in Congress, who has rendered so good an account of himself in his public services, the result of which means so much of material benefit to the great commercial and industrial interests of the Ohio valley, in which Wheeling and Ohio county have no small share.

Mr. Blair Should Tell It All.

Mr. Blair went down to Benwood Saturday night and tried to convince the busy mill workers that times are worse than they were under the Democratic administration, that the present conditions are not an improvement over those they enjoyed during four years of Clevelandism, and during the agitation of Bryanism. Mr. Blair may flatter himself that he made a deep impression on these men who have learned the lesson of experience. That experience has been too recent for it to be forgotten so soon and was the reverse of what Mr. Blair thought it was.

Another thing which Mr. Blair did was to attack Captain Dovener's vote on the Pacific railroad bill. This is a matter which has not been made a prominent issue in the campaign, and perhaps few voters are familiar with the question. Mr. Blair took especial pains not to give the history of the matter, or to contrast the action of the Republican administration with that of the last Democratic administration. Had he made a comparison of the two methods of handling the Pacific matter his hearers would have seen it in a much clearer light. The debt against the Pacific railroad had existed for a great many years, a mortgage being held by the government. The status of the matter now is that a much better arrangement was made for security, and the government will not lose the amount of indebtedness, but on the contrary, receive it all.

To undertake here to contrast the policies of the Republican and the Democratic administrations regarding the sale of the Pacific railroads would require a review of a great deal of history, which was thoroughly discussed when the matter was before the public. The financial interest of the government in the Union Pacific ended just a year ago to-morrow (on November 1, 1897), when the main line was sold to the trustees of the reorganization committee under a decree of the United States court for the district of Nebraska.

The bid by the committee which was accepted covered the entire indebtedness to the United States. The amount due was $38,443,221. During the Democratic administration an attempt was made to sell the Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific lines, and the government agreed with the reorganization committee that the whole debt on both lines, amounting to $70,000,000, should be settled by a sale that would realize to the government only $42,000,000. This agreement was not sustained by President McKinley and the department of justice, and, through the management of the President and the attorney general, this same reorganization committee was compelled to bid a sum which covered the entire amount of the government debt, which was, as stated above, $38,443,221.

This was on the main line, and on the Kansas Pacific line the demands of President McKinley's administration resulted in the realization by the government of the total amount of its claim, $6,502,000, when the reorganization committee had previously declared that it would not bid more than $2,500,000. This presents a contrast strikingly favorable to the present Republican administration's business way of treating these matters and that of the Democratic administration, which would have resulted in loss to the government—a contrast which Mr. Blair did not dare refer to.

The bill which Mr. Blair doubtless refers to in his criticism of Captain Dovener is the amendment to the general deficiency bill, fixing a basis of settlement with the Central and Western Pacific railways, adopted July 6, last. This amendment appointed the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of the interior and the attorney general a commission to settle the indebtedness of the government growing out of the issue of bonds to aid in the construction of the roads, provided the settlements are submitted to the President for his approval. This course met the approval of every fair-minded person except the populist element that would have a policy pursued which would compel the government to enter on the policy of the ownership of railroads. Congress acted more wisely than that. It created this commission of cabinet officers to make an agreement on a BASIS OF FULL PAYMENT OF THE INDEBTEDNESS, with interest at 3 per cent, the whole to be paid within ten years, in semi-annual payments. A default of a single payment makes the entire amount due. All this is to be done in the full public knowledge.

The Intelligence has taken much space to explain this situation, because Mr. Blair, presuming upon the lack of knowledge of the situation by many of his hearers, is using Captain Dovener's attitude on the question against him. Captain Dovener stood by the wiser and better policy pursued by the present administration, as against that of the Cleveland administration. The present situation is eminently satisfactory to all save the populist element that wants government ownership of railroads.

Another Comparative Statement.

The biennial report of the management of the state penitentiary will show that there has been greater economy and better business management by the present administration, under Superintendent Hawk and the board of directors, than under their predecessors. The Intelligence this morning publishes elsewhere a comparative statement of the past seventeen months, ending with September 30, the end of the fiscal year, in which the new administration has had control, and of the seventeen preceding months, before the retirement of the Democratic management.

The statement explains itself, and in view of the Democratic claims concerning the Republican "extravagance" in running our state institutions, and the criticisms of the management of the state prison, it will be read with interest. It tells a story of greater economy, of a lesser deficit monthly, of a saving to the state, of the payment of Democratic bills left over, and of a great many other things favorable to the present administration.

The statement carries with it its own comment. Like all other comparative reports of the new and the old administrations in the management of state affairs, it gives the falsehood to the manipulated figures promulgated by Democratic organs, and their misrepresentations of the records.

The death of Colonel George E. Waring, of yellow fever, at his home in New York, will be generally regretted throughout the country. Colonel Waring was a victim of a dread disease contracted while performing a public service to which he had been called by the President, and for this reason his death is the more tragic. He had gone to Havana at the request of the President to devise means for the improvement of the sanitary conditions of that city in view of the coming occupation of the Cuban capital by American troops. He worked faithfully and was to make an important report to the authorities, which would have been of great value, but his very faithfulness had exposed him to the conditions, the removal of which was to be his mission, and his plans and suggestions may never be known. Few other men were so fitted as he for this service. It was in line with his life-work, and the public has sustained a great loss in the untimely death of a man of such distinguished ability.

The Register hasn't yet included in its showing of how the Democratic state administration left a big deficiency for the Republican legislature to pay, the statement of how under the Democratic regime paper was purchased by carload lots at four cents per pound and charged to the state at twenty cents, and how lead pencils worth a cent apiece were charged to the state at a dollar a dozen. One may also look in vain for the Chilton shortage, and a few other things, besides this public printing scandal.

Matters are expected to reach a crisis this week in the negotiations for a peace treaty. The American stand on the Philippine question will be taken and the Spanish will have to face the inevitable. This is the gravest phase of the entire peace settlement. It is not beyond the bounds of possibility that a withdrawal of the Spanish commissioners may be the result. This might mean a renewal of hostilities—but if such should be the case, what has Spain to renew the fight on? It is not likely that there will be a renewal of active war.

Ex-President Harrison's letter to the Republicans of Indiana on the duty of standing by the national administration, published in this morning's dispatches, applies to the Republicans of every state. West Virginia Republicans will find in it something worth considering.

Governor Atkinson and Captain Dovener spoke at Benwood Saturday night to enthusiastic hearers who knew that all they said regarding comparative conditions of now and two years ago was true.

It doesn't look so warlike between England and France. The latter has taken a backward step which indicates a peaceful settlement.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Experience frequently has some slow pupils. Love is the flavoring extract in the ice cream of life. Some men are so busy that they have no time to enjoy prosperity.

Ignorance hurts less than the knowledge of things we don't know. The poor are always with us—and some wealthy people are pretty close.

When Satan needs a good man in his business he always picks out a loafer. The evil that men do oftentimes lives after they have been defeated for office.

Women, as a rule, are better than men and some of them seem to regret the fact. A man's idea of chivalry is to protect a woman against every man except himself.

You can't judge books by the covers—especially after the shortage has been discovered. Some men have such a hatred for greed that it worries them if others make more money than they do.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Every man knows he can always get a woman's sympathy if he can only get up a good hard-luck story. A girl may think pate de foie gras sounds nicer, but she can catch a lot more men with raspberry turn-over.

When the average woman tries to get sarcastic, she reminds you of a bay mare trying to kick the eye out of a mosquito. It doesn't take a man very long after he gets married to get over being proud of the way his dog will do what he tells him.

The average parson's beliefs in the hereafter are based on the idea that people are divided into good and bad, with no middling.—New York Press.

Shall We Keep the Philippines?

Public opinion is divided as to the wisdom of keeping the Philippines. Wise statesmen are found on both sides of the question. Public opinion, however, is all one way in regard to the wisdom of everybody keeping their health. For this purpose Hoetter's Stomach Bitters is wisely used. THE LINES DRAWN.

In the Fourth District Fight—Some Warm Work Done—Free's Election is Predicted by 2,000 Majority. Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 30.—It is now "just before the battle." As the lines are now drawn and the forces displayed, so will the final assault be made on the eighth of November. But few changes of votes from now on may be expected in the Fourth congressional district.

Freer and Neal have each, thus far, made gallant fights. Huntington has been the rallying point—the headquarters for both parties during the campaign. Chairman Campbell for the Republicans and Mr. Scanlon for the Democrats, never made more determined efforts in their lines. They are both shrewd politicians, while they march under the banner of men who are unsurpassed for political cunning. They are each surrounded by lieutenants who know, likewise, all the highways and byways—(especially the latter)—in the political world.

The headquarters of both parties are rapidly becoming places of constant and energetic work. All night long the work goes on at Democratic headquarters, while the Republicans are also sleepless.

Both are claiming the victory. The Neal forces say they will swallow up the majority against them, but where they expect to get the votes with which to do it they cannot or will not say.

That the counties in the lower end of the district, principally agricultural ones, will give Freer a magnificent vote the Republicans have no doubt.

Neal men here claim that he will get a large vote in the extreme upper end of the district. But the reasons upon which they found these assertions have been proven to be incorrect and it is evident that if Mr. Neal is elected he must depend upon the territory west of the Kanawha river for his votes. Here he will fall. Lincoln, Putnam and the portion of Mason in this territory will give phenomenally large Republican votes. Cabell and Wayne will each roll up magnificent votes for Judge Freer.

Both candidates have fired their guns in this city. Freer on Thursday and Neal on Friday night. Freer's speech was a masterpiece of oratory, dignified, argumentative and convincing. Neal dealt extensively in personalities, a thing which is not much of a vote getting nature in this section.

Republicans claim to be in possession of knowledge that a gigantic scheme is being incubated to be hatched by the Democrats on the eve of election, but the former have the material ready to change it into a genuine boomerang.

Conservative men insist that Judge Freer will be elected by 2,000 majority.

Hon. J. W. Stuck's Good Work. Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 30.—During the past week Hon. J. W. Stuck, of Doddridge county, addressed a series of Republican meetings in Putnam county and judging from the large number of the crowds who came to hear this eloquent speaker and the great interest and enthusiasm manifested by the people, Putnam county will give a splendid account of herself on November 3.
