REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.

Sheriff—D. H. TAYLOR. Prosecuting Atty.—FLANK W. NESBITT. Assessor (City)—ADISON ISRAEL. Assessor (County)—ESTER SMITH. County Surveyor—ROBERT HAZLETT. The Debs Movement. Just what the promoters of the Debs movement expect to accomplish in this county is hard to imagine. It is said that already three-fourths of the names required to place his name on the presidential ticket in this county have been secured to a petition that is being circulated. It is claimed that Mr. Debs holds views that are peculiarly attractive to the workman, and many point with pride to his record as a martyr for the cause because of the just punishment inflicted upon him for the course he pursued in the celebrated Pullman strike in defying the legal authorities.

herence to a misstatement when once it appears in its columns. The most profound silence is a better and more eloquent answer to its perversions than columns of correction and argument. Major Norton or no other writer can ever expect to obtain a categorical answer from its stultified columns. In another column of this issue the major pays his parting compliments to the esteemed Morning Perverision.

Croker the Imperialist.

If there is any greater imperialist in the United States than Richard Croker, of New York, we should like to have him pointed out. He rules the Democracy of New York state with an intolerant hand, and incidentally he extended the sway of his imperial power to Kansas City and saved Bryan by forcing the adoption of the free silver plank in the platform of the Democratic national convention. Thus Croker stands close to Bryan, however objectionable that political propinquity may be to the apostle of calamity. Croker formerly ruled in New York city alone but this year he has become an "expansionist" and has incorporated the whole state under his despotism. If New York state goes for Bryan it will be purely and simply Croker's victory, and as with the boss of Tammany Hall the spoils always belong to the victor, therefore, he will be closer than ever to Bryan.

In speaking of this state of affairs and the contingency of Bryan's election, the Democratic New York Staats Zeitung says "he will be before the national administration the representative of the New York Democracy, and as such will have the distribution of the patronage. Of that no doubt is possible, and just so every voter must clearly understand that through every vote cast for Bryan in the state of New York Croker's might will be increased. Many will decide to take this in the bargain, but they should do it wittingly.

Croker's ostentatiously displayed expectation of victory is surely nothing but a pretence, for effect. While it will produce no results in this state, where the man is known, there may be a belief that it will help the Democratic candidates in the west. It may be considered of advantage by the campaign managers, to create the impression in other doubtful states that Bryan has a prospect of securing the electoral votes of New York, but they themselves can hardly believe it. Since William J. Bryan in his letter of acceptance has again openly defended and demanded free coinage, since through various utterances he has demonstrated that in relation to this question he is always the same incorrigible and confused fanatic, there is no further hope for him here. The east is too conservative and thinks too clearly to give a majority to a man who is worse than ignorant as to economic questions and in obedience to his deranged views would use the first opportunity to precipitate a frightful catastrophe."

Bryan's Cabinet.

Mr. Bryan has taken extraordinary pains to deny that he has promised any man a position in the cabinet he would form in case of his election, declaring that he is entirely free and untrammelled to carry out his policies without submitting to dictation from any single individual or class of citizens. While Mr. Bryan may make these statements with perfect truthfulness, still the majority of the people cannot believe that he will be able to act in such an independent manner should he be elected. In the first place he owes much to Towne for withdrawing from the Populist ticket. Towne is a rampant free silverite, and would have the backing of the silver trust and the Populists, and we do not see how he could get out of appointing him secretary of the treasury. He owes much to Altgeld, the anarchist, who was largely instrumental in securing his nomination in 1896, and who is by odds the brainiest man in the cabal of the malcontents sailing under the name of Democracy. He must do something for him, and he could do no less than make his secretary of state.

Then comes Tillman, the southern fire-eater and red-shirt rider, who would in all likelihood be ensconced in the attorney general's office, with Populist Allen, of Nebraska, as secretary of war—for surely the Populist contingent must be handsomely cared for. In West Virginia we have a modest stick of Demo-Populist timber that would be most favorably considered for cabinet furniture, and which would be susceptible of a high polish—Col. John T. McGraw, the eminent "Knight of the Purple Penell." He could be propped up in the postmaster general's chair, or some place "equally as good." Other names could be mentioned, including some of the ice trust Tammanyites, who surely would not allow any fattening at the public crib unless they got some of the usufruct. And it is possible that our spasmic "lib-er-tay" shrieker, Web Davis, might crawl in under the canvass.

These are some of the most prominent people who are howling for Bryan's election, and what a delightful list it is to contemplate, consisting of revolutionists, anarchists, malcontents, free traders and goodness knows what not. Will the American people vote to put in power such a horde of destructionists? Bryan, if elected, could not help himself, as he is bound hand and foot by these discordant political elements.

A Libel on West Virginia.

To a correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, Vice Chairman Stone, of the Democratic national committee, unbecomingly himself as follows about West Virginia: "We shall carry Maryland and West Virginia beyond a doubt, unless the Republicans succeed in colonizing them. But lots of the miners are being hustled into those states under various pretenses, and there is no doubt that the Republicans will attempt some wholesale colonization in West Virginia. Voters will be taken into the state from Pennsylvania, Virginia and the neighborhood of Washington. I have no intention of going down there, but if I were there I would use a shotgun or any other means to stop that sort of work." To say nothing of the unmerited attack on the laboring men of this state, the shotgun threat of Vice Chairman Stone places him on a decidedly low level of political morality. The vice chairman has evidently been stuffed with some of the fireside legends of Col. McGraw, the national committeeman for West Virginia, who has used his colonization ghost stories to frighten the national committee into helping him carry the legislature. There is no colonization in West Virginia for the purposes stated by Mr. Stone. West Virginia has been undergoing a wonderful development since the abrogation of the Wilson-Gorman free trade bill, the heaviest development being in the opening of coal mines. All the men brought into this state are brought here to work. Those who have been here long enough to become qualified voters will vote in spite of Mr. Stone's shotgun threat. Perhaps the vice chairman doesn't realize that West Virginia is not quite far enough south to practice Tillman tactics on.

The only crime upon the ballot we have to fear in this state will be the methods employed in McGraw's home county, where the purple pencil was used by the creatures of this statesman who has a pernicious longing to carry the legislature this year for his own personal aggrandizement.

Business and Labor Interested.

The present campaign is of as vital interest to the business men and the man who works for wages as was the campaign of 1896 when sound money, a dollar worth 100 cents, was the dominant issue. These conditions suggest the propriety of the formation of business men's clubs, and of workmen's clubs, all men who labor and do not want to be paid for their toil in 50 cent dollars. Better still, why not arrange for a monster parade of employer and employe, such as we had in Wheeling a few days before the election four years ago, when the capitalist and the day laborer, the mill owner and workman touched elbows in one of the most remarkable processions ever witnessed in this city.

That parade, undoubtedly, wielded more influence than all the speeches made in the campaign. If the employer takes an interest in these matters he will set the employe to thinking. It is time for a show of hands, and men should not be ashamed of their honest convictions. The enemy of business and industry is perniciously active preaching the same insidious demagogism that the evangelists of free silver and free trade were spreading in 1896. Let us by all means, therefore, have a demonstration of business and labor interests against the elevation to power of a man who would cripple, if not destroy both.

Fulton Smells.

The citizens of Fulton are complaining of the pollution of the creek, giving off obnoxious odors that smell to high heaven. There is no doubt that our neighbors have just cause for complaint, for the noisomeness they complain of is wafted down the creek to the inhabitants of the eastern section of this city. It seems that no authority can be found in Fulton or the county to abate this menace to health, and the only remedy the Intelligencer sees for the salvation of the Fultonites is to annex themselves to Wheeling, then the health authorities of this city would make a short work of the matter. As a matter of fact it would be much better for Fulton were she merged into the city. She already obtains water from us, but in the case of annexation she would enjoy many more privileges and conveniences, better fire protection, the better lighting of her streets and decidedly much better sanitation. Better come in out of the—not wet, but the smells.

Hon. T. R. Carskadon, the Prohibition candidate for governor of West Virginia, sends the Intelligencer a lengthy challenge addressed to Senator Elkins and Hon. A. B. White, for a discussion of questions arising out of the claims of the Prohibition party. The Intelligencer respectfully declines to publish the challenge, however much it would like to accommodate its quondam Republican friend. Nevertheless it gives publicity to the desire on Mr. Carskadon's part to meet Messrs. Elkins and White on the stump. The questions the Prohibition candidate would like to discuss are abstract ones, and bear no relevancy whatever to the more momentous political issues at stake. Such a debate would only be a distraction without any tangible results. Mr. Carskadon knows this himself.

If the people of Colorado think they can silence Governor Roosevelt by the tactics employed by toughs at Victor, on Wednesday, they will find they have run up against the "real thing" in combativeness. In the meantime the Intelligencer wishes to give Mr. Bryan due credit for vigorously and manfully rebuking the methods of the tough in politics. It also acknowledges his graceful action in requesting his political friends to remove his picture from the windows in Nebraska City during Governor Roosevelt's visit to that place.

To stiffen his backbone Bryan lacked the starch trust the other day. Why does he not try his hand on the Round Cotton Bale, the Silver and the Ice trusts in which his near and dear political friends are interested?

The West Virginia Democracy has virtually abandoned Holt and Bryan and is now concentrating all its efforts on the legislature. The party is badly demoralized.

Because a wholly discredited and partial court has convicted Howard of the murder of William Goebel, it is no sign that he is guilty of the crime charged.

Bryan's shifting from his paramount issue of "imperialism" to trusts shows that he realizes the desperate character of the situation.

Next month, and it is only a few days off, will see considerable awakening in campaign matters in this section.

It has now reached that point with the Republicans of West Virginia when it is only a matter of majority.

The joint debates between Judge Holt and Hon. A. B. White begin next week, when the fur will fly.

"Blackberry Dumpling" Holt is meeting with a frost in many sections of the state.

STATE PRESS GLEANINGS.

It is again reported that Mr. Grover Cleveland is going to flop. Look out for the splash.—Bluefield Telegraph.

The real object of the "Kanawha Ballot" is not the defeat of the county ticket so much as the defeat of a Republican senator. The cry about a fraudulent primary and this false cry in favor of a new primary, which they never asked for and don't want, is all a subterfuge.—Charleston Mail-Tribune.

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee expressed the opinion in Richmond that the troops cannot be withdrawn from the Philippines and other newly acquired possessions until peace has been finally established. The general was disposed to combat the suggestion that in the event of Mr. Bryan's election his policy would be to withdraw the troops in the Philippines. Virginia Free Press.

A. B. White, Republican nominee for governor, is making a clean manly canvass of the state in his interests. He is an honest, upright gentleman and no one will ever have cause to be ashamed of the act if he votes for White. Holt is the corporation candidate, and the Democrats need not deny it. White is the candidate of the common people, the farmer and the laboring man.—Mountain Messenger.

Hon. M. D. Post, the author-ordinator of Wheeling, spoke to a small and listless audience at Democratic headquarters, the Olston opera house, last night. The speech was virtually a repetition of the unsound doctrine with which Democracy is aiming, with little hope of success, to deceive the prospering people of the McKinley regime. West Virginia is not a receptive state for Democratic balderdash, and of this fact the Hon. Mr. Post was given evidence last night in the apathy of his auditors.—Tyler County Republican.

How He Got to Heaven.

Sistersville Oil Review: Park's fine doggie is dead. He had loafed around a restaurant so long he had acquired that sort of tired feeling movement so prevalent around restaurants, and so was too slow to get out of the way of a train, but now he is an angel in dog heaven.

Dying of Inanition.

Baltimore American: At this moment anti-imperialism is dying of inanition. By election day it will be unable to summon a decent burial party, and the election will be decided upon the issue of free silver, the only one in this campaign about which men may honestly differ.

"My Country"—Bryan Version.

Poor country, 'tis of thee, So full of misery, Of thee I sing! Land where the best is bad, Land where we're all so sad, Let me relax, and be glad, Thou poor old thing!

O luckless land, today, 'Neath hateful plenty's sway, I weep for thee! How can men care for what They're promised or they've got As long as things are not All run by me?

Poor birthplace of our sires, They're all infernal liars Who dare to say Thy doom is not at hand! Room spreads for the land— You hear me shouting, and I'm here to stay! —Chicago Times-Herald.

"I can truthfully say, Dr. Pierce's medicines did me more good than all I had ever taken before."

These are the words of Mr. O. S. Copenhaver, of Mount Union, Huntingdon Co., Pa. He says further: "About twelve years ago I was suddenly taken with a pain in the pit of the stomach which was so violent I could not walk straight. I consulted a physician and he told me I had a form of dyspepsia, and treated me six months with but little benefit. I then tried another physician and he told me my liver was out of order and that I had indigestion, but he didn't cure me. I then tried another one who said I had chronic indigestion, and the lining of the stomach, liver and kidney affected. He treated me for more than a year, I then took several bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicines, using his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and in two months I was feeling better than I had for years before."

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the most effective blood purifier and germicide that modern medical science has produced. It at once neutralizes the poisonous, fermented matter in the stomach, liver and bowels, and as soon as this is removed by the action of the "Pellets" it soothes the inflamed membranes of these organs, putting them into healthy condition to absorb the nutritive elements of the food. It aids and stimulates the action of the digestive fluids of the body and is absorbed into the blood along with the food. It enriches the blood, filling it with vitalizing, strength-giving properties. It produces sound, healthy flesh—muscle you can work with. It is a safe medicine. It contains no whisky, alcohol, sugar or syrup. It does not create a craving for liquor.

McKINLEYISMS. The malver must find a taker. Good will precede good trade. Blessed is that country whose defenders are patriots. Nothing wins in this world like industry supplemented by character. Industry and character win in every contest and triumph in every field. There is no use in making a product if you cannot find somebody to take it. Commerce is a teacher and pacificator. It gives mankind knowledge of one another. God bless every undertaking which raises patriotism and rebukes the indifferent and lawless. You will not employ labor to make a product unless you can find a buyer for that product after you have made it. After home, our first concern is country and our country, with its splendid institutions and its great possibilities, is safe so long as its virtue resides in the home and patriotism abides in the hearts of the people. God bless the school children of America, and guide them to intelligence and virtue and morality and patriotism; and with these elements dominating our citizenship, our institutions are safe and our republic will be glorious forever. We cannot exalt patriotism too high; we cannot too much encourage love of country; for, my fellow citizens, as long as patriotism exists in the hearts of the American people, so long will our matchless institutions be secure and permanent.
