LAND POOR.

I've had another offer, wife—a twenty-acre tract of high and dry prairie land, as level as a floor...

And when this lot is paid for, and we have got the deed...

There is no use of talking, Charles—you buy that twenty-acre tract...

For thirty years we've logged and cleared, deeded and sold...

While all we have to show for it is tax receipts and deeds...

I'd sell the land if it were mine, and have a better home...

With broad, light rooms to front the street, and take life as it comes...

It we could live as others live, and have what others do...

We'd live through sight-pleaser, and have a plenty, too...

While others have amusements and luxury and books...

Just think how stingy we have lived, and how this old place looks...

That other farm you bought of Wells, that took so many years...

Of clearing up and tending it, has cost me many years...

Yes, Charles, I've thought of it a hundred times or more...

And wondered if it really paid to always be land-poor...

That had we built a cozy house, took pleasure as it came...

Just ten more days must elapse and then the country will see the great remedy applied.

Mr. Cleveland's 'called session' of Congress will undertake to inaugurate the golden era of prosperity that they have promised us.

This will give renewed confidence to business, provided business men can muster up confidence in a democratic congress.

In defending honest dollars the republicans will render an incalculable service to the nation.

When congress gets together, and takes a careful and broad survey of the whole financial situation, it is likely to drop some of its crude and cranky notions on monetary questions.

In calling congress together August 7 the president has but yielded to a popular demand, and it is probable that congress will yield to that popular demand.

There will be the usual effort of demagogues to shape legislation to suit selfish interests; but it is devoutly to be hoped that in the present grave financial situation enough good men and true may be found to do just what is needed to be done.

Upon the democratic party is now placed the burden of the greatest responsibility that has confronted parties for many sessions of congress.

The call of President Cleveland for an extra session is not as satisfactory as it might be. It is intensely partisan.

The Washington Post, in joining in the criticism which assailed the Louisville speech of Gen. Clark, ridiculed the idea that the republican party should accept any new issues.

There is no reason why the republican party should not accept new issues. In new issues shall come to the front.
