MARVEL OF AIR PHOTOGRAPHY

Austrian Engineer Has Overcome Obstacles Which Have Proved Puzzle to the Scientists.

By the novel process known as "aero-photography" with the new apparatus due to the Austrian engineer Scheimpflug, some wonderful results in this field have been secured. It has long been desired to use the camera to take bird's-eye views of the ground when sailing at some height in a balloon, but up to the present this has not been of much practical use in making photographic maps.

The problem is solved in a most ingenious way by the inventor, who uses a number of separate cameras pointing all around the ground.

But as the photographs are all on the usual square plates, it is impossible to match them for the map, and, besides, all but one of the views are taken obliquely to the ground—only the central view is a straight down view, and the rest are unsuitable for a map.

However, by the use of another instrument known as "perspectograph," he takes the usual plate and makes from it a corrected plate, and this enables all the plates to be matched into a single large map.

SHORTENED TO PET NAME

Pickaninny Had Been Given Peculiar Christian Nomenclature in Honor of Rockefeller.

The train stopped at the little Georgia town and the tourist sauntered out to the observation platform.

"Rather likely pickaninny you have there, uncle," remarked the traveler, good humoredly. "Named George Washington?"

"No, sah," laughed the colored man on the baggage truck. "Dat child's name am Petro."

"Petro? Why, that's a queer sounding name for a pickaninny."

"Might seem a little queer to you, sah, but Massa Rockefeller was down heah some time ago an gib me a quahtha for totin' his grip. Ah named de pickaninny in his honah, sah."

"But Rockefeller's first name is John."

"Yeas, sah, but yo' see dis chile's full name am Petroleum, en we calls him Petro for short."

PRACTICAL HELP.

General Superintendent DeBernardi of the Missouri Pacific, who rose to that position from a job as section boss, looked out of a window of his private car at Osage City during a conference with a delegation of business men and saw three ragged children playing along the track and munching dry bread. Taking a handful of apples and bananas from the buffet, he beckoned to them, "Can I take it to mamma? She's sick," asked a boy in the group. He ran toward a house where the blinds were drawn. "George," said the general superintendent to the chef, "is there any chicken in the ice box?" "Yes, sah," answered George. "Just take it to the house across the way. There's a woman sick there," he ordered.

LOOK OUT EDGAR, TOM, GEORGE!

Prisoner (arrested for drunkenness)—I may be weak, your honor; but I'm not such a soak as Poe, such a dogg fiend as De Quincy, such a rake as Byron—

Judge (sharply)—That will do. Thirty days! And, officer, take a list of those names and run 'em in. We must clean out those bums and loafers. — Boston Evening Transcript.

UP-TO-DATE.

Diner—Waiter, there's sand on this bread.

Waiter—That's to keep the butter from slipping off, sir.—Judge.

TOUCH ONE CAN'T AVOID.

"Can I touch you for a fender, old chap?"

"No. I'm saving up for an overcoat against the touch of winter."

THE TOUCHSTONE.

Frost—What makes him so successful a theatrical manager?

Snow—He knows a bad thing when he sees it.—Judge.

PRACTICAL GIRL.

He (ardently)—I would lay down ten thousand lives for you.

She—You'd please me better if you'd lay up $10,000.
