THE WORLD and everything that has life is moving, growing, getting better, larger and more useful. The thing that is not moving, is not active, and not prospering, is the man who either wants to buy or sell something, does not know how, and is froth with fear, jealousy, unwilling to help himself or let others help him.

It is Not Necessary to Pay a High Price

in order to obtain a good piano. Although we sell the world's costliest makes, yet a good dependable instrument may be had here at a price to suit the most moderate income.

Pianos of fine musical qualities, well made, dependable in every way, finished in rich mahogany, fancy walnut or the various shades of oak. We offer at $275. In every respect it meets the demand for a worthy piano at a moderate price. The tone is rich and mellow, the action easy and responsive. It looks like a much higher priced piano, and we have seen many pianos at $350 that were not nearly as good.

A Remington Piano

Every Blank piano carries an ironclad guarantee. A small cash payment sends one home.

Smaller Monthly Sums Pay for It

Obituary.

Ruth Hardwick Marcum, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Hardwick, was born Aug. 24, 1898, died Sept. 8, at 5:30 p. m., at her home in Ceredo, W. Va., aged 16 years and 14 days.

She was united in marriage to Homer Burgess Marcum, son of Judge W. W. Marcum, July 29, 1913. She was converted and united with the Christian church May 18, 1913. During the short period of her Christian career, she endeavored to live a quiet, beautiful life. She was a great favorite among the young people, all of whom loved her and those who knew her best loved her most. She was a very faithful young wife; took great pride in her home; did all she could to make her home cheerful and happy. She was very patient during her last illness, was never heard to murmur or complain in her greatest hour of pain.

She leaves a husband, mother, four sisters, two brothers and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss, which is her eternal gain. She is not dead, but just across the narrow stream called death.

Oh, beyond this shadowy land
 Where all is bright and fair,
 We know quite well those dear,
 loving hands
 Will palms of victory bear.
 A FRIEND.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"I advised the 'boys' when they enlisted for the Spanish war to take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with them, and have received many thanks for the advice given," writes J. H. Houghland, Eldon, Iowa. "No person whether traveling or at home should be without this great remedy." For sale by all dealers. adv.

Every man, every woman, every child has some talent, some power, some opportunity of getting good and doing good. Each day offers some occasion for using this talent. As we use it, it gradually increases, improves and becomes native to the character. As we neglect it, it dwindles, withers and disappears. This is the stern but benign law by which we live. This makes character real and enduring; this makes progress possible; this turns men into angels and virtue into goodness.
