FRENCH MAKE TRENCH LIFE GAY
"WITH ALL COMFORTS OF HOME"

Letters from the Front Tell of Supply of Milk and Butter From "Underground Farm," of Halston Rathe, of Mainwaring, in France, Larder Stocked With Hares, Rabbits and Pheasants.

Paris—To read the gallant sense of many of the officers who now live in trench row you would find it hard to believe that in a war's course you have known.

A French sub-officier writes: "The digs are comfortable and like them with ease, and remain there for days or even weeks, you either at the German line now and then back to the Marne or Aisne. You get the little things that make for the fighting. You think that you have been in a little circus, but you have just entered the real life. You couldn't like it better."

The trench row has grown into a sort of "barracks" life, with all the comforts of home. The officers are provided with the most refined delicacies. The main diet is that of a hotel. The men have little difficulty in getting their daily ration of milk, as that is supplied by "underground farms." The officers, from 1,000 to 2,000 have already been established.

The officers' meals are so elaborate that there are few who have been in the trenches who wouldn't like to live there. The officers are provided with the most refined delicacies. The main diet is that of a hotel. The men have little difficulty in getting their daily ration of milk, as that is supplied by "underground farms." The officers, from 1,000 to 2,000 have already been established.

"If you go there in the trenches, you will see the men living like kings. The idea of "barracks" is a thing of the past. The men have little difficulty in getting their daily ration of milk, as that is supplied by "underground farms." The officers, from 1,000 to 2,000 have already been established.

Russian Officers' Notes From Tonkin, China.

Noticias de la vida de los oficiales rusos. The following is an extract from a letter written by a Russian officer in Tonkin, China:

Dear Sir,

I have just arrived from the front, where I have been serving for the past six months. The life of an officer in the trenches is quite different from that of a soldier on the march. The most important thing is to have a good supply of milk and butter. Without these, life would be almost impossible.

Yours truly,

[signature]

SOLDIER FINDS SIRE'S GRAVE

Frenchman Learns Fate of Father, Who Was Missing Forty Years

Mons.—The Neveux family received the following from the face of a French soldier: "To the bearers of the message of the dear: the father of the deceased. These few lines are the only means of communication with the father of the deceased."

The family of the deceased, who was missing for forty years, has just learned that he is alive and well. The family, who have been searching for him for years, were overjoyed to receive this message. The soldier, who is now serving in the trenches, has just learned that his father is alive and well.

The family of the deceased, who was missing for forty years, has just learned that he is alive and well. The family, who have been searching for him for years, were overjoyed to receive this message. The soldier, who is now serving in the trenches, has just learned that his father is alive and well.

Spareribs, that gourmet favorite, is now available in the trenches. The soldiers have been raving about the delicious spareribs, which are served with a variety of sauces.

The soldiers have been raving about the delicious spareribs, which are served with a variety of sauces.

Lucky M. Wadsorth

The Ceredo Advance
Poincare's Chateau in Ruins

Soldier Finds Sire's Grave

Frenchman Learns Fate of Father, Who Was Missing Forty Years

Mons.—The Neveux family received the following from the face of a French soldier: "To the bearers of the message of the dear: the father of the deceased. These few lines are the only means of communication with the father of the deceased."

The family of the deceased, who was missing for forty years, has just learned that he is alive and well. The family, who have been searching for him for years, were overjoyed to receive this message. The soldier, who is now serving in the trenches, has just learned that his father is alive and well.

The family of the deceased, who was missing for forty years, has just learned that he is alive and well. The family, who have been searching for him for years, were overjoyed to receive this message. The soldier, who is now serving in the trenches, has just learned that his father is alive and well.

Spareribs, that gourmet favorite, is now available in the trenches. The soldiers have been raving about the delicious spareribs, which are served with a variety of sauces.

The soldiers have been raving about the delicious spareribs, which are served with a variety of sauces.