Dixie A Little Sister of Everybody

ONE of the most notable productions of the year in the movie world is the eight reel production "Pershing's Crusaders" to be seen at the Dixie the first three days of next week. Of course the war is the all-absorbing topic, and the Pershing picture is a big feature because the biggest man in the war from the United States is "Black Jack" Pershing. These pictures are official in their character, having been taken under the direction of George Creel, notable as head of the department of publicity, and the cameras were in charge of the government's official photographers. The idea throughout has been to show not so much of the terrible side of war, but to bring more of the actual life of the soldier home to us. The scope of the picture is broader than the title indicates, as it comprehends much of the preparation that is being made at some in the way of training at the cantonments, and the building of ships, the manufacturing of war appliances, etc. In this respect it has more of an educational value than most of the big war pictures the war has inspired. In many cities the price of admission is being boosted on account of the high cost of the production, 50 cents being the usual figure, and packed houses show after show have been the rule even at the figures. We imagine you will have record breaking crowds the first three days of next week.

California Star at Dixie

The career of Bessie Love who is the star in the story, "A Little Sister of Everybody" at the Dixie today is a wonderful example of how common unknown folk jump into national fame almost overnight as a result of suddenly developed ability to act before the camera. She is a native of California, and being thrown close to picture making centers, naturally wished she might be a star, but she had no real ambitions until she got a part in a production in the Fine Arts studio at Hollywood. It was only a small part, but, mindful of the old adage that he who would do big things must do the small things well, she put her best into her work. The impression she made upon the director by her earnestness and adaptability resulted in her being placed upon the list of permanent and preferred extras. Director Jack O'Brien happened to be looking for a good type to play a Swedish servant girl who figured in an important part in a play in which John Emerson was to be the star. He saw Miss Love playing an extra part in a picture being done by another director and decided that she was the type he wanted. The picture, "The Flying Torpedo" from then on she was a factor to be considered. It was her work in this picture that resulted in her being given a part opposite William S. Hart in "The Arjan." She scored again when Douglas Fairbanks came to Los Angeles he determined that Miss Love be his leading woman. In consequence she has had star parts in big productions ever since.

Nelson Has Big Western Star

Popular western star, William S. Hart in "The Lone Trail" is camping at the Nelson this afternoon and evening, and friends of Hart and the type of picture he is most at home in will have a treat, as this story is one of the best he has appeared in.

No Change at Princess

The Princess is repeating the bill yesterday in which Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bane, the later being a co-star, and recently a co-respondent. The settings are good, and the picture up to the usual standard of Bushman and Bane attractions.

"CLOSE-UPS"

William S. Hart knows and understands Indians as well as he does his own race. He was brought up among the Indians when he was a boy, taught by them, lived with them and learnt to know and love them.

He was born in Newburgh, N. Y., of English parents, but shortly after his birth the family moved to North Dakota, and from that time he was old enough to walk until he was seventeen he practically lived with the Indians, learning everything there was to know about them all.

DEAT. HUMPHREYS FALLS IN FRANCE

Was Wounded Fourteen Times By German Machine Guns.

Covered with fourteen machine gun wounds, Bert Humphreys, former constable of New Faw district, living at Grant Town, has fallen a hero for his country on a battlefield "somewhere" in France, according to a letter received from a Fairmont boy at the front. It required fourteen wounds to stop the fearless countian who kept right after the Germans in an engagement several weeks ago.

When Humphreys left Fairmont he said that he wanted to fight for his country and prove to the community that he could make good on the battlefield. In this he has demonstrated his worth. Several weeks ago Humphreys' name appeared on the serious wounded list with his home address Bluefield, W. Va., from which place he came to Marion county. This letter is the first intimation that the wounds have proved fatal. He was the first of his regiment composed of local boys to fall.

A CONSTRUCTIVE CRITIC.

He Bligains a constructive critic. He might be called one. A lot of his complaints he makes up as he goes along.—Washington Star.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science and common sense have shown that catarrh is not a local disease, but a constitutional one, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally and acts on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollar guarantee if it fails to cure. Send for circulars and address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

August Sale of Furniture

Come Home makers and housekeepers of marion county and let us reason together
Now, more than ever, the American home is the backbone of the nation. "Keep the Home Fires Burning" has become the battle-cry of America. First of all, get it out of your mind that because of war conditions you cannot afford to buy good, sound and durable furniture. YOU CAN. Indeed, you can't afford to do otherwise, for only in good furniture is real economy.
True, furniture has advanced in price. But it is still advancing, and it is better to buy now than to wait until prices are higher and there is a real scarcity of good furniture.

You know the merits of Hartley furniture—it is the best that money can buy, yet by comparison of quality and individuality you will find our prices very modest.
Practically everything is reduced in Price—some 10 Per Cent.—some 20 Per Cent—a few pieces as much as 30, 40 and even 50 Per Cent.

The Unseen Army

PEERING through his trench periscope, across the shell-scarred waste of No Man's Land, the German soldier catches an occasional glimpse of the new enemy that he has already learned to dread. Deep forebodings of evil begin to take form in his mind.

America's millions of boys in Khaki are flowing in a steady stream to the fields of France. Soon more ships will be carrying more fighters and more food that they will need to "carry on" to Berlin.

The Hun can see this army. But he fears even more the bigger army that is making possible the presence of millions of our boys in the trenches.

It takes 6 to 8 men to back up one soldier on the firing line. It is the Unseen Army that will make possible the steady, resistless fighting force that will roll back the Hun hordes.

Realize this, men! These men rely on YOU to fill the gaps in this great agricultural army.
