RUSSIANS HOPE TO ESCAPE FROM GERMAN GORDON

MILITARY EXPERTS MAINTAIN MUSCOVITES' POSITION STILL CRITICAL

BATTLE RAGING SOUTH OF VILNA

Von Hindenburg Making Determined Effort to Destroy Army That Defended Vilna.

London, Sept. 20.—While Petrograd expresses confidence in the ability of the Russians to extricate themselves, and the German official report says merely that "the attack against the enemy is proceeding," military experts maintain that the position of the Russian armies retreating from Vilna is dangerous. In a battle, perhaps the most important of the eastern campaign, now under way south of Vilna, von Hindenburg is attempting to destroy the army that defended that city.

Prince Leopold of Bavaria is approaching the railroad south of Lida near the Pripet Marshes. South of the marshes the Russians still harass the Austro-Germans in Volhynia and Galicia.

The Germans report that their guns are aiding the Austrians in the bombardment of Serbian cities across the Danube.

The bombardment continues in the west and the British fleet is still shelling the Belgian coast.

Attempts are being made in Bulgaria to induce the king to join the entente but it is believed that the railway agreement with Turkey binds Bulgaria to neutrality.

London, Sept. 20.—The Russian army, menaced by the German encircling movement, since Vilna fell is established at from 250,000 to 500,000. The conditions under which the Russians are attempting to escape are strikingly similar to those at Warsaw and may precipitate one of the greatest battles on the eastern front.

The British press accepts the German claim that Vilna has fallen, although Petrograd has not officially confirmed the report.

Concern is expressed for the retreating army. As far as can be judged, Field Marshal von Hindenburg's troops have hung a loon about the Russians over a front of some two hundred miles, and they are not only in the Russian rear, but are seriously menacing the single railway line and the few available wagon roads stretching to the southward.

As to Warsaw the number of Russian prisoners left behind is small. Apparently the only way the retreating forces can lighten the seemingly bad situation is by a counter attack.

Entente Finances.

Raleigh, Sept. 20.—Facts about the high interest rates charged by national banks throughout the country and particularly in the south, were disclosed by W. P. C. Harding, federal reserve head, in a speech tonight before the Raleigh chamber of commerce.

In explaining the reserve board's regulations granting preferential rediscount rates to notes secured by staple commodity warehouse receipts provided the maker had been charged not more than six per cent interest. In concluding his appeal Bryce said: "Only Germany can stop the massacres. Would not an expression of American public opinion, voicing the conscience of neutral nations lead Germany to check the Turkish government?"

SOUTH'S PROSPERITY DEPENDS UPON BANKS

President Through Secretary Gives Opinion on Cotton Situation—Answers McLaurin.

Columbia, Sept. 20.—"The present state of the cotton situation depends directly and immediately upon the Southern bankers and they have themselves to blame if it does not come out satisfactorily," says J. P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, in a letter to John L. McLaurin, state warehouse commissioner.

"The president," says the letter, "has received your letter of September 15 and has been greatly interested in reading it. He asks me to suggest that you emphasize the letter that he wrote to Mr. Harding, and which Mr. Harding read in his speech at Birmingham, Ala."

Mr. McLaurin left yesterday for Atlanta, where he will this week deliver an address on the cotton warehouse system to a gathering of Georgia farmers and business men, which has been called by G. B. Barrett, president of the National Farmers' Union.

On September 15 Mr. McLaurin sent the following letter to President Wilson:

"You are so generous in the letter read by Mr. Harding in his Birmingham speech that I feel that you should be promptly advised of a situation now pending.

To maintain prices—The quick advance in cotton is due primarily more to that yetter and the statements of Messrs. McAfee and Harding than to the admitted short crop. This will later sustain prices, if there is no combination of moneyed interests to force cotton on the market.

Last spring the New York banks freshly loaned 7 cents per pound when the market price was much lower than now. The same banks are refusing to loan 7 cents. This is a very short crop, and at 10 cents a pound will not bring what the last crop did to the producers.

He said that going as war correspondent, he sought letters of recommendation. Secret service men who interviewed him, he said, had asked him if he had been given a gold headed cane to deliver.

New York, Sept. 19.—James F. J. Archibald, the American correspondent, intercepted by the British while carrying a message for the Austro-Hungarian ambassador Dumba, to Vienna, arrived on the liner Rotterdam.

Secret service men boarded the vessel and questioned him.
