Mrs. Dr. Taggart, formerly Miss Kate Tennant of Lowndesville, now of New Orleans, with her interesting little daughter, Catherine, have been on a weeks visit to Mrs. Therow Allen. They return to their city home in October.

Miss Annie Bell of Lowndesville has been visiting Mrs. Therow Allen for several days.

Miss Anna Watson is now at Roanoke College, Danville, Va., for the session of 1915 and 1916.

Miss Estie Bussey of North Anderson is planning her work of teaching at "White Lown," Edgefield, S. C., the 1st of October.

"I do hope," exclaimed Mrs. Twickenbury, "that that queer-acting dog hasn't got hydrostatics."—Christian Register.

Expensive Platinum Roubles.
(From The Wall Street Journal.)
With an embargo placed on the exportation of platinum by the allies, the price of the "noble" metal, as it is termed by metallurgical experts has advanced to the phenomenal price of $40 an ounce. It is not likely that there are many holders of platinum roubles in this country which are fairly commonly used in some parts of Russia, but the lucky ones here, if there are any, may find that their coins will triple in value if the war lasts another year and should hostilities continue longer, the coins may obtain the value of some of the rarest antiques known to numismatists.

Mr. Bason—He's very inconsistent man.

Mrs. Egbert—Indeed?
Mrs. Bacon—Why, he tried to break his boy of being left handed, and he could only punish the little fellow with his left hand.—Yonkers Statesman.

For Thursday Afternoon.
Mrs. Joseph D. Hant has issued invitations to an "At Home," "Resteate" on Thursday afternoon, September 30th, 1915, 4:30 to 6:30. Mrs. John Rast. Cards.

Mrs. Howard to Entertain for Miss Tribble.
Another charming little affair for next week will be given on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. T. E. Howard in honor of Miss Anna Tribble.

Catechee Chapter, D. A. R.
Catechee Chapter, D. A. R., will meet on Wednesday afternoon, at four o'clock with Mrs. J. D. East at her home on River street.

Mrs. J. R. Vandiver has returned from Boston where she went with Miss Rhoda Vandiver who will study music there this winter. Mrs. Vandiver spent two weeks there.

Miss Sara Hayes who has been with the intelligencer for the past two years leaves this morning for her former home at Madisville, Ky., where she has accepted a position with the Water, Light and Power company. Miss Hayes possesses a charming personality and is a young woman of rare mental endowment. She has many friends here who wish her the greatest success.

Mrs. James A. Page of Clover, N. C., is here for a ten days visit to her sister, Mrs. Horace McGee of Greenville street.

Mrs. Taylor Entertains.
Mrs. E. W. Taylor charmingly entertained a few friends on Friday afternoon at an auction bridge party, at her home on Franklin street. As the guests arrived they were served to delightful nectar by Mrs. John Frank, and after several interesting games the cards were laid aside and a dainty menu was served. This was the first of a series planned by Mrs. Taylor, and her entertainments are always a source of great pleasure to her friends.

Dixie Chapter.
The Dixie Chapter U. D. C., will meet on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Jas. E. Barton on Calhoun street. Mrs. Barton and Mrs. Lottie Estes, and Miss Nellie Barton will be hostesses.

At the Anderson Monday.
The faculty and student body of Anderson college will be entertained on Monday evening at the Anderson theatre by the management. They secured for that day the great military picture, "The Tangle," and it promises to be one of the greatest and most interesting pictures ever shown here. It will doubtless draw large crowds.

For Miss Tribble.

Mrs. Frank Cunningham of Greenville was here this week the guest of relatives.

Mrs. J. D. Maxwell, Sr., who has been spending some time in Chicago with her sister, Mrs. William Coleman, is here on a visit to relatives.

Miss Genevieve West of Greenville is the guest of Mrs. J. P. Trowbridge for the week-end.

Lander Club Meeting.
"In rapt reunion blest"—Those present at the first meeting of the Lander club on Friday afternoon September 24th felt that this quotation was especially applicable to them when they were so cordially welcomed to the home of Miss Maggie Garlington on Elver Heights. Miss Garlington, her mother and sister, Miss Annie greeted the members and seated them on the wide stony porch. At four o'clock the president, Mrs. G. E. Prince, rapped for order and caused much merriment in her opening address by announcing the slogan for this year, "Do not be a scold!" After finding out what a scold she really is every one emphatically agreed not to be one.

The Year Book were distributed and the program discussed. The club will study the two Americas. Since the Panama canal is of so much interest to both, Miss Eddie Davis read a most instructive paper on the "Canal Zone Then and Now."
The Panama-Pacific exposition being the biggest thing for North America this year, and Misses Eris Lewis and Jean Harris having spent many weeks at the exposition this summer they were invited to meet with the club and tell something of this great fair. Their talks were simply delightful and so much enjoyed.

While post cards and kodak pictures were being passed and commented upon the hostess served most delicious wafers and ices. Besides attending to a considerable amount of business two new members were welcomed to the club. Mrs. Lizzie Garlington and Miss Clara Osborne.
Miss Fraser of Wintrop college who needs no introduction to Anderson people and Miss Finley, who is now in charge of the welfare work at Riverdale, Torrawa mills were present and Miss Fraser favored the club with a few words about her work. The whole of the 6:50 car and the bank bank from some impatient chauffeurs brought this pleasant meeting to a close.

Just think of it, a "mere man" yesterday was ushered back into the "sanctum sanctorum" of the fine dress department of the Ready-to-wear section of Moore-Wilson's and shown some evening gowns, and without a moment's notice, was asked to express his opinion.

Ralph Wilson has played many a trick upon his unsuspecting friends, but this last practical joke was too much. To say that this man was "flabbergasted" is mildly expressing his mental condition when he saw those beautiful gowns. His innate love for the beautiful prompted him to exclaim: "They are perfectly lovely," and then to feel like a sheep killing dog, for that expression while approaching the superlative, doesn't in any manner describe or give any idea whatsoever about the beauty of design, colors or fabrics of these dainty evening gowns.

As they are on exhibition there tomorrow afternoon and you belong to the feminine portion of the population of Anderson or its adjacent territory, it would be well for you to hasten hither.

Major-Daly.
Of the early autumn weddings one of the loveliest was at Neal's Creek church, September 21st, when Miss Allie M. Major became the bride of Mr. J. Astor Daly of Atlanta, Ga., Rev. D. W. Hiott of Easley performing the ceremony.

The large number of friends present attested to the popularity of this young couple. The church was beautifully and artistically decorated for the occasion with ferns, smilax and lilies, the color scheme being white and green. Near the middle of either aisle was an arch of white and green with lilies, the letter M. being suspended from one, D. from the other while suspended from large arch at altar were two hearts bordered in tiny green Scotch ivy, which were tied with white satin ribbon.

On either side of altar was the pretty banister effect, back of the altar were banks of ferns and smilax. Before the arrival of wedding party, Miss Irene Geer sang "I Love You," and "Dawning."

At the appointed hour as the notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march sounded the doors were thrown open and the four ushers, Messrs. Joe Major and Ted Daly, followed by Misses Varina McDaniel and Claudia Martin entered, taking their places on either side of steps at the altar. Next came the little flower boy and girl, Little Frank Major in a lovely embroidered suit of white linen and Margaret Elgin in pure white dress of silk net and shirred ribbon carrying baskets of ferns and roses. Following these came the bridesmaids and groomsmen, Mr. M. F. McGee with Mr. Frank R. Elgin, both of Anderson, Miss Sue Daly of Seneca, prettily gowned in yellow crepe de chine and carrying yellow asters with Miss Aylee G. Byrd, of Anderson, who was lovely in her dress of silk lace flounces and bodice of pink taffeta and seed pearls, carrying pink asters; Mr. Charlie M. Byrd of Seneca with Mr. Foster F. McConnel of Anderson; Miss Saline Geer of Anderson beautifully gowned in silk net and green satin carrying white asters with Miss Nellie Martin of Belton, who was charming in her dress of cream lace and blue crepe de chine also carrying a bouquet of white asters. Then came the maid of honor, Miss Ouida Major, sister of the bride, who was charming in her beautiful gown of lavender taffeta and real lace.

As she took her place at the left of the altar the bride came in with her father and was met at the altar by the groom with his best man, Mr. Charles B. Key of Columbia. The suit light from the white and green canopies lent their soft rays to this beautiful tableau scene. The bride looked lovely in her dark blue suit with fur trimmings, with hat, gloves and shoes to match, she carried a bouquet of brides' roses.

As Miss Major, the bride was a social favorite. The groom is a successful newspaper reporter of Atlanta.

Monday night from 8:30 to 11:30 the hospitable home of bride's father, Mr. John A. Major was thrown open to the friends of the happy couple.

Receiving at the door was Miss Allie K. Major and Mrs. H. P. McDaniel, from there Miss Bessie Major carried guests to receiving line where the bride's mother and entire bridal party greeted them.
The dining room, hall, and parlor were prettily decorated with ferns and flowers. An elegant salad course was served by Mrs. W. Clarence Chickacates, Misses Lizzie Kay and Mildred Wright. Souvenirs were pinned on by little Ida Major. Numerous presents of silver, cut-glass, china and linen were received from their many friends.

With the Church Women

State Mission Day.
The Woman's Missionary society of the First Baptist church will observe State Mission day on next Thursday, by an all day meeting at the church. The services will begin at 11:30 o'clock and the address for the morning will be delivered by Dr. White. Lunch will be served at one o'clock and in the afternoon the exercises will be in charge of the different organizations of the church. All the ladies of the church are cordially invited to attend.
