The first northern put the shirt waist man in a state of "innocuous desecration."

T. D. O'Brien, member of the National Democratic committee, from Minnesota, says that that state will go Republican.

It is said that roller skating is to become popular again. It is to be hoped that we will not be attacked by the bubonic plague at the same time.

The Daily Enterprise is devoting its efforts to the upbuilding of the city and county. We haven't time or the inclination to try to manage local politics.

Prof. B. Tyler of Chicago has discovered that cooked food is humanity's greatest curse. Where is the man who said, "Money is the root of all evil."

Eugene V. Debs says that he believes that the Populist party will be swallowed up by the Socialist party. Such a thing may happen, but there are a lot of folks who won't stay swallowed.

The Daily Enterprise does not think Mark Hanna half as bad as he is painted, but we do feel that Mr. McKinley would be better off if Mark were afflicted with acute Laryngitis, so that he could not talk.

It is pleasing to note that the strike in the Pennsylvania coal region has been settled as was stated in our press dispatches last night. The demands of the miners were just and the operators sensibly met their demands.

Mr. Bryan told the people of Canton, O., the other day that they ought to be satisfied with an ex-president. It can be relied on that Canton has one distinguished citizen who does not approve of that sentiment.

An actress in New York fell a victim to "joyous paralysis," while reading a newspaper account of her act. The doctors cannot diagnose her case, but it is said to be nothing compared to the feeling an editor experiences when he puts in a new press.

It is learned that the chief armament of the first class armored cruiser, USS Oregon, is now being built will consist of 9.2-inch guns, having an effective range of fifteen miles. New hydraulic mountings will permit of rapid firing from any angle.

President Roach of one of the Chicago street car companies says that politeness pays and that he frequently lectures his 10,000 employees on the subject. President Roach does not claim credit for being the first to discover that politeness pays, but it would pay some people to make the discovery.

Richard Croker indignantly denied that the Bryan dinner in New York was to cost $50 per plate. The cost per plate was only $5, according to Croker. No doubt some of the working men Mr. Croker is so solicitous about will wonder that Mr. Bryan and his associates could eat $5 worth at one time, after having established a precedent for dollar dinners.

Jefferson M. Levy, who owns the home of Thomas Jefferson at Monticello, Va., has just returned to New York from Virginia. Mr. Levy is now a member of congress. He will not be after the 4th of March. He wanted to be re-nominated, but Croker said nay, unless Mr. Levy would contribute $25,000 to the campaign fund, and Mr. Levy refused. Then Perry Belmont was nominated. Now Mr. Levy says that McKinley may carry Virginia, which indicates that Mr. Levy wasn't much of a Democrat anyway.

Down in Guatemala the favorite weapon of the native bandits and desperadoes is a sawed-off muzzle loading shot gun of the blunderbuss pattern, and when they run short of buckshot they fall out to the railroad and steal a few dozen seals, which are simply disks of soft lead about the size of quarters. Pounded into rough balls, they make projectiles by the side of which a dum dum is an angel of mercy, and when one of their blunderbusses goes off it generally kills everything in sight except the man directly behind it.

Industrial training in the public schools from the lowest to the highest, with a state industrial school where the young people of Texas might get an advanced technical education—this would do more to build up the state than any other measure. The man who works with his hands is king nowadays. He commands the best wages, and is the most independent. The working man of today is master of the situation. It is the duty of the state to provide such an education for the children and youth as will fit them to make the most of themselves in the world. The Herald would not for an instant discredit the importance of a thorough English education, and the facilities for classical education for those that desire it. But nothing should stand in the way of affording young Texans the greatest opportunity possible for utilizing the man power within him. Technical education, from child to man, ought to be within the reach of the poorest child in Texas.

WARNED OF GALVESTON FLOOD.

Clairvoyant Caused Texas Man to Change His Mind About Moving. Cheyenne, Wyo., October 18.—Professor Francis Carlin, a former citizen of Fort Worth, Texas, tells the following story of clairvoyant prophecy concerning the Galveston horror:

In June, two years ago, the professor was contemplating a removal to Galveston, and, in fact, had perfected all arrangements for his proposed change of residence. One day on the streets of Fort Worth, he met an old friend, to whom he mentioned his intention of going to Galveston. The friend said:

"Before going be sure and consult Meiner Ryan, the clairvoyant. She has told me some wonderful things and given me warnings which have protected me from danger, if not from death itself."

Impressed by his friend's earnestness, Professor Carlin paid a visit to Meiner Ryan. The door of the woman's apartment stood ajar, and as Carlin walked up the steps he heard a voice say:

"Come in, Professor Carlin. One of the voices has just whispered to me of your coming, and I was expecting you. Do not go to Galveston. That city, within the next two years, will be submerged by the sea, and thousands will perish. The voice whispering this to me has an icy breath, and you must go north, instead of south, for danger now threatens yourself and family in a city where the frost king reigneth now."

PROTECTING GALVESTON.

Raising the City Ten Feet Would Cost $1,000,000 a Square Mile.

The most promising proposal that has been made for their protection of Galveston appears to be the suggestion that the general level of the city or some part of it, should be raised to a level above that attained by the waters in the recent storm. Such a work need be by no means prohibitory in expense provided it were done on a new sight as yet unbuilt upon.

To illustrate this: An acre of land contains 4,840 square yards. To raise sand from water of moderate depth and discharge it through a pipe line delivering on shore, can be accomplished for from 3 cents to 15 cents per cubic yard. Taking 10 cents as a fair figure, we find the expenditure to deposit a depth of ten feet of sand on an acre as only $1,512. The water was from four to ten feet in Galveston when the storm was at its height.

If the general level of the city were raised ten feet, therefore, all that part raised would be secure against the dangers of the high tide which accompanies these great gulf storms. At this rate, the expenditure to deposit ten feet depths of fill over a square mile would be only a little over $1,000,000.

MR. BRYAN'S CHANCES.

It is barely possible that women may decide who will be the next president. It is estimated that there are 150,000 women in Colorado, Idaho, Utah and Wyoming who can vote for president. Concerning the probabilities, the New York Herald says: Both sides claim New York, Indiana, Maryland, Montana and Nevada, but, to get an estimate on the possible strength of the woman vote, all five states might be classed as doubtful. There are 148 votes in the electoral college of which Bryan is sure, and which are conceded to him by the Republicans. If Mr. Bryan, in addition to these 148 electoral votes should capture all five of the so-called doubtful states, he would have a total of only 213 electoral votes, eleven less than the number necessary to elect.

In that contingency, the thirteen electoral votes of the states where women hold the balance of power, if they should support Bryan would elect him president. McKinley, on the other hand, is reasonably certain of 198 electoral votes outside of the so-called doubtful states. If he should carry Kansas, which is claimed for him by the Republican managers, and North Dakota, which they also expect to carry, he would have only 211 electoral votes, thirteen less than the necessary number. In that event, the thirteen votes of the woman suffrage states, if cast for him, would insure his reelection.

HOW THE POLITICAL BATTLE IS GOING.

Since politicians of all parties agree that William Jennings Bryan, to be elected president, must carry the state of New York, and since Mr. Bryan and his managers have decided that a desperate effort shall be made to win New York away from McKinley in the last three weeks of the campaign, all eyes are now scanning the registration of this state. The first day of registration in Greater New York, according to the revised figures broke the record of 1896 by nearly 3,000. The boroughs of Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn exceed those of the first day in 1896 by 7,151. On the second day the registration in New York City and in other cities of the state was as heavy as the first day. The politicians of each of the big parties assert that this means an advantage for their own candidate. The one thing absolutely certain is that it means that the great voting public is much more alive to the issues of the campaign and the needs of the country.

than any one had supposed. Unquestionably the heavy registration which extends all through the state of New York means a strong vote in the rural districts. Such a vote in those districts, unless the tide there is against the republican party, means a large republican plurality north of the Bronx.

The republican leaders are now counting on at least 140,000 plurality for McKinley outside of New York City, and this Bryan must beat in these five boroughs if he is to win.

ALARM IN NEBRASKA.

While Mr. Edgerton, secretary of the populist national committee, was giving out a table in Lincoln, Neb., last night claiming 153 electoral votes as certain for Bryan, and that he was liable to get making 237, other members of the populist party in Nebraska were practically confessing defeat in the country, and laying plans to concentrate all efforts of the fusionists to the capture of the Nebraska legislature, so that Mr. Bryan may be elected to the United States senate in case he is beaten again for president.

Governor Roosevelt spent the day in Kentucky, and his tour yesterday was not a success. He had crowds of fair proportions, and was accompanied by General Buckner, who was a candidate for vice president on the gold democratic ticket four years ago. At Elizabethtown efforts were made to break up Roosevelt's meeting, and armed men tried to drive wagons through the crowd. No shots were fired, but the meeting was cut short. Roosevelt last night addressed a meeting of 5,000 at Louisville at the same time that Bryan was speaking to audiences of 20,000 and 40,000 at Akron and Mansfield, Ohio. The democrats have practically ceased to make any claims for Ohio, and Roosevelt's reception in Kentucky would indicate that the republicans will be laughed at later on should they place Kentucky now on the sure McKinley column.

MONEY ISSUE TO THE FRONT

Gold democrats in the east who are supporting Mr. Bryan for party reasons have become alarmed at the crystallization of the money issue in this state. The republican campaign managers have at last succeeded in bringing it forward in the east as the most important issue.

cans and British that the Chinese were unable to serve the guns which would have battered down the walls around us.

"The Chinese seemed to be turned to demons, and resorted to everything to kill us. Just north of the British legation was the Imperial library, the greatest the world has had since the Alexandrian. This was saturated with kerosene and set on fire. The whole thing burned, including all the books. They attempted several times to burn us out in this manner. Every building in the city belonging to a foreigner or a Christian Chinaman was burned.

"Before we fled to Pekin the Boxers broke loose in a village twelve miles away. They killed every Christian but one. The prisoners were piled on top of each other and long spears stuck through several bodies at once. One man captured was thrown on the ground and two other men piled on him. The spear point did not reach his vitals. The boxers then piled straw over the bodies and set it on fire. The fire revived the man at the bottom and he crawled miles to warn the missionaries.

"The Chinese are worth saving. There is no better convert in the world. Thousands of them have suffered death rather than to adjure their faith and return to the worship of the Chinese gods."

DEADLY SHOT AT WOMAN'S HAT. A special dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean says: A shot fired at a stuffer bird which the hunters supposed to be alive instantly killed Arthur W. Green of Denver. The bird was on a woman's hat, which Green was wearing while out with his sweetheart, Miss Katie Mockridge, for a day in the foot hills near Golden.

Green and Miss Mockridge started early in the morning for Golden. They had a kodak and were taking pictures of each other with in interesting bits of scenery for backgrounds. In a spirit of frolic Green put on his sweetheart's hat, took a position in a bunch of shrubbery, and posed for a snap shot.

The girl was standing a few steps away with the camera, and was just pressing the lever to catch the laughing face before her when the shot was fired that ended her lover's life. The ball entered Green's temple, and he fell to the ground dead. C. W. Johnson, who was hunting for rabbits, fired the shot. Screaming in terror, the girl rushed forward and sank faint on Green's body, and there she stayed until the coroner arrived. Then she was taken home, too dazed fully to realize what had happened. The body is at the morgue at Denver in charge of the coroner. Green was prominent in insurance circles.

MOVED AN AUDIENCE TO TEARS.

There was a remarkable scene this afternoon at the Christian Missionary convention when the Rev. J. B. Haston told the pitiful experience of his little congregation in the Galveston disaster. There were few dry eyes in the audience when he had finished. In response to his appeal for assistance a collection was taken at once and the echoes of his voice had scarcely died away before $500 was raised to help restore the church.

"Our membership was 140 before the storm," he said, "but when, by dint of personal search and advertising in the newspapers, I got the survivors together for meeting a week later, there were just seven of us who assembled in the damaged church building and prayed and sought comfort in the scripture by the light of tallow dips. That little meeting where those desolated hearts poured out their sorrows to God will ever live in my memory. The most awful thing to me in the catastrophe was the feeling—so many gave way to it—that God had forsaken them, and it is only through your beloved administration and charity that their faith can be restored. My congregation now numbers twenty; nearly all of the original 140 have gone to their eternal rest."

"It is a sweet consolation to know where your loved ones lie buried," said the Rev. Mr. Haston, "and you can feel for the Galveston mother who has no mound to weep by as marking the resting place of her child."

Mr. Harter said Galveston will be rebuilt larger and better than ever. It is proposed to build a great sea wall to protect the city. The great need at present is for winter clothing for which the people are in danger of suffering. Mr. Haston's family escaped in the storm.—Kansas City Star.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.

Although the present fashion of christening children with family surnames is much to be commended for many reasons, it carries with it some awful possibilities unknown in the days of Mary Ann's and John Henry's. A glance at the following list, each name of which is genuine, will illustrate sufficiently well the possibilities of nomenclature resting with parents in their choice of names for the men and women of tomorrow: Edna Brooker Mothershead, Marian English Earle, Sawyer Turner Somerset, Will W.
