

JUDGE LOWE WAS ANGRY

GAVE EDWARD BEAULAC A SEVERE TONGUE LASHING.

Says There Is Not a Straight Hair in His Head and Secures the Acquittal of His Client—The End Not Yet.

There was only one case in the city court to-day and that brought to light a strange state of affairs. Telliphor Phoenix was charged with injury to the property of Edward Beaulac at 250 Charles street. Beaulac said that he rented a tenement to Phoenix last August. Later he had Constable Rigney store the furniture in one of the rooms of the tenement and locked it up. The reason was that Phoenix was working out of town and owed over one month's rent. Phoenix, he said, went over there yesterday, broke open the door and took the furniture away.

Judge Lowe appeared for Phoenix, and before he got through with Beaulac the latter was sorry he brought the case. Beaulac admitted that he failed a short time ago, but that his property had all been decided to him again.

"Your case is in the probate court now," said Judge Lowe, "and that is the way you cheated your creditors. There isn't a straight hair in your head, and I'll have you in jail before I get through with you."

Phoenix and his witness, Louis Lapoint, testified that no notice had been served on Phoenix to quit; that he tendered Beaulac $10.35 for the rent, in his saloon; that Beaulac refused to take it; that he went to Sheriff Rigney and tendered the amount of the rent, and Rigney wanted $6 costs, also; that he refused to give it and then went to the house, found the door open and took out his furniture. He has a wife and three children and is now working in Yalesville.

Judge Cowell wanted to know if Phoenix would pay the rent now.

"I guess not," said Judge Lowe. "We tendered Beaulac his money twice and we are through. Don't pay him one cent," he said, turning to Phoenix. "I sent him to Beaulac's myself and told him to break open the door with an ax and get his furniture."

"We ought to have Judge Lowe on this complaint," said Attorney Webster. He added, however, that no crime had been proven and nolleed the case.

Judge Lowe at once said he would bring suit for trespass against Beaulac.

A very small newsboy, who had just sold his last paper, leaned against his iron lamp-post and shouted with all his lung power: "Pa-i-i-per! Twelvy-clack pa-i-i-per! Extry twelvy-clack!"

The boy was working overtime, either from force of habit or because of his natural exuberance. It is not uncommon in Calhoun place for a boy to stop short and yell several times, merely to relieve himself.

It happened that a pedestrian was attracted by the shouts of the boy against the lamp-post. He smiled as he looked at the youngster and then said, "All right, give me one of your papers."

"That startled the boy. He looked sheepishly at the man, rubbed his hand into his pocket and said, "I ain't got any."

"Didn't I hear you calling a 12 o'clock paper?" "Yes, but I didn't mean"— It was too much of an explanation. A professor of psychology who had studied the laws of unconscious cerebration might have told why the boy stood on the corner shouting papers when he had no papers to sell, but the boy adopted a less difficult course and ran away.—Chicago Record.

Taking Exercise.

Poor Harry Shelman, the long haired poet who dressed his entire person to resemble Buffalo Bill, and who was, in fact, startlingly like the greatest of scouts, used to tell me of a literary friend of his who had a novel method of taking exercise. His workshop was on the top floor of his house, far from the noise of the street, and he used to write about 15 hours a day. He was not a Howells or a Bronson Howard, whose working hours never exceed four in any one day. He worked, he labored, he toiled. He had no time for a bicycle and could not afford a horse. He hated walking. Run he could not. Swimming was out of the question. Still he must have exercise. He kept his dictionary in the basement and his thesaurus in the kitchen. As he used both very often it was necessary to make many trips down stairs and up again, and in that way he kept himself in splendid physical condition. A visitor once saw him dashing down stairs like a madman and soaring up again like a kite and was distressed till informed by John's wife that John was simply hunting for a word and had found it.—New York Press.

A Philadelphia Mustache.

"I've seen some peculiar whiskers in my day," remarked a Ninth street barber yesterday, "but there was a fellow in here the other day who simply beat the deck for mustaches. They were of the long, flowing kind, and when in repose hung gracefully down over his shirt front. After I had finished shaving him he asked me to dress his mustache, giving me my instructions how to do it. First, I gave it a brilliantine bath and combed it out. Then I waxed it until the points stood out on each side of his face like bayonets. He seemed very proud of it and didn't object when I asked him if I might measure it. In fact, he seemed rather pleased. I took a tape-line and found that from tip to tip that marvelous mustache measured a trifle over 23 inches. He next asked me to curl it. This was a difficult operation, but after exhausting several curling irons I succeeded in heating a section of gas pipe to the proper temperature and finished the job."—Philadelphia Record.

Winkers Succeeded.

Binkers—Has Winkers succeeded in teaching his daughter to ride her new bicycle yet?

Minkers—Yes, she is out riding now. "Is Winkers with her?"

"No, he's in a hospital."—New York Weekly.

CITY NEWS.

The executors on the estate of Henry L. Welch filed their administration account in the probate court to-day.

Miss Kittie Duncan has returned from a six months' visit with her brother, James F. Duncan, clerk in the patent office at Washington.

The anatomical museum of wax figures at 63 East Main street, will positively close Saturday evening. The last day for ladies is Thursday. Those who have not seen it should do so at once. It is time and money well invested.

The committee on public lands and buildings met last night and recommended an appropriation of $1,500 for the care and maintenance of parks and repair of sidewalks for next year and $2,500 for City hall purposes.

Joseph T. Smith, formerly in the office of his brother, Architect A. J. Smith, recently finished his studies at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and having successfully passed the civil service examination, has been appointed on the department of buildings in New York city.

The funeral of John Bahan took place from his late residence, 78 Mill street, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, to the church of the Immaculate Conception, where a mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. Father Kennedy. The pallbearers were Theodore Knapp, James Whynns, Peter Thompson, John Watts, Joseph Conroy and John White.

Leo J. Curley and Frank Guilfoile are making quite a record for themselves in college, both as students, actors and athletes. Curley played the part of Eily O'Connor in the drama, "Colleen Bawn" recently, the cast being all males. He is the editor-in-chief of the Mountaineer, the college paper, and delivered the address of welcome to the Alumni association, at a banquet at which Cardinal Gibbons was present. He has also been elected captain of the football team.

Friends of P. J. McMahon of Maple street will be pleased to learn that he has passed a successful examination before the examining board of the Yale law school and has been admitted to the senior class and is expected to return to Waterbury a full fledged lawyer in one year. Mr. McMahon has been in Attorney Lowe's office for the past three years and is one of the brightest young men that has aimed to be a member of the bar from this city in a number of years. He has been connected with the Catholic Literary association for almost twenty years and was unquestionably the best debater the organization ever had. He promises to be one of the leading lights of the local bar within a few years.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Thomas G. Sashbrooke has a new comedy entitled "Baby Mine."

Miss Maggie Chino will star next season in a play which is being specially written for her.

"The Gay Parisians" has been produced in Germany, and London managers want the farce.

Howard Kyle's work with Modjeska's company has been highly praised by competent critics.

Sir Henry Irving's opening at Abbey's theater has been postponed. He will present "Macbeth" first.

"In Sight of St. Paul's" will follow "The Great Diamond Robbery" at the American theater, New York.

Sydney Booth and Junius Brutus Booth have been engaged for John Stetson's production of "The Bachelor's Baby."

Ether Lyon is credited with a big bit as Hetty Drason in "The Cotton King" as she made in either "Men and Women" or "Shenandoah."

"The Newest Woman" was produced by Miss Dorothy Chestie, the English actress who is said to have set the fashion of ladies riding horseback man fashion.

Tim Murphy will appear as Maverick Brander in "A Texas Steer" throughout the season. He has thrown away his reputation of new plays, as he does not need it.

Jessie Bartlett Davis, the famous contralto of the Bostonians, is paying for the musical education of a young woman in Denver in whom Miss Davis detects talent.

Aubrey Bonclenault, who has abandoned his starring tour in "Other People's Money," has been engaged to play the part of Angelo in "Leonardo," T. Pearsall Thorne's new opera.

Stuart Robson will produce at the Garrick theater, New York, on Jan. 6 the adaptation of "Mme. Mongodon" which Charles Wyndham will present at the Avenue theater in London shortly.

A Smart Reply.

The burgomaster of A— was invited to attend a centenary celebration. He declined with thanks, adding that it was impossible for him to take part in the proceedings on this occasion, but that he would be most happy to come next time.—Zondagblad.

In the folklore of almost every country the magpie figures very largely. In popular superstitions to see one magpie is unlucky; to see two denotes merriment or a marriage; to see three, a successful journey; four, good news; five, company.

BROOKLYN BRIEFS.

John Dodds, 308 Washington avenue, had two fingers of his right hand smashed while at work at Holmes, Booth & Haydens', yesterday. Dr. Graves amputated them at the second joint.

The question as to whom belongs the credit of inventing the new fire alarm box key seems to be causing considerable discussion in the south end of the city. In justice to the residents of Simon and Riverside streets we think it but fair to state that the honor belongs to a gentleman on Riverside street, so that the Simon street people need not try to claim any of the credit of the achievement.

A Practical Husband.

Surely the Monmouthshire man who caused his wife's wedding ring to be inscribed, "If thee doesn't work, thee shasn't eat," was determined that there should be no mistake in what he required in a wife. The only wonder is how any woman could be induced to marry him with such a threat before her eyes. The exact date of this ring is not known, but it is previous to the eighteenth century.—Chambers' Journal.
