BROOKLYN BRIEFS.

—William Rawley of Bank street has commenced excavating for the foundation of a ten room house on Avon avenue, Ben-Mohr.

The St. Thomas Cadets Athletic association will hold a meeting this evening when the value of mind culture compared with physical training will be discussed. All members of the association are requested to be present.

—Several of the young ladies in this part of the town are cutting a big dash with diamond rings, gold watches and other valuable articles received from their best fellows for Christmas. One girl told a reporter of the "Democrat" that her beau called at the house last night and gave her $100 worth of presents, and these did not include a very handsome article which he gave her mother. That's the kind of a fellow to have.

—While on his way to the bakery last night little Curtis Henshaw, of 912 Bank street, says a girl met him on the street and took what money he had in his pocketbook out of it, returning him the empty purse. The boy is not over five or six years old and does not know the name of the juvenile robber, who he says was not much older than himself, though she could run a lot faster.

—The item published herein yesterday regarding the need of increasing the number of fire alarm boxes, struck a popular chord and, judging by what we have heard on the subject to-day, Railroad Hill is not the only place in the district where boxes are needed. If some of our members of the board of public safety would take a little more interest in these affairs and not be quite so taken up in what pertains to the success of their own personal friends, we could have all these safeguards and the board would not have to hold half as many adjourned meetings as it has been having the past few months.

POLICE COURT DOINGS.

A Wayward Woman Sent to Jail By Judge Bradstreet.

Daniel Griffin and Martin Garvey were engaged in a scuffle on Baldwin street last night, when Officer McCarthy arrested them. This morning Griffin showed that he was acting in self defense and judgment was suspended in his case. Garvey was fined $5 and costs.

James Mahoney said he hailed from New Britain and would like to get back there. Mahoney or Doyle, which is his correct name, was told to reach Lawlor street, New Britain, as early as possible.

Harvey Van Wagner, who was with a crowd of disturbers at the corner of Cherry and East Main streets, at midnight last night, was arrested by Officer Hayes. Being his first offense he was let off.

At 8 o'clock last night Officer Noonan took a woman out of a tailor shop, in Ward's flats. She was under the influence of liquor, and her name could not be learned until this morning. Officer Noonan said this morning that she was with a crowd of bummers, ex-clothes and jail birds. She has been sleeping in bars around Brooklyn for two weeks. The woman said that she came from Ansonia two weeks ago. She tried to laugh off the story that she was drunk, but Judge Bradstreet sent her to jail for thirty days with costs.
