EAGLETS ABROAD

The last time that I wrote I promised to tell the readers of the Mail Tribune something of what I saw in Portland, Fairview and at the Multnomah county fair. I arrived in Portland on the morning of the 1st of October, and to my surprise found that it was not raining, although it rained that day, and as I was met by my daughter, Mrs. J. H. Shaw, about a. m. and we had a little shopping to do that afforded me a good opportunity to see the city. I had not been in Portland before since the 1st of July, 1910, and about the first thing that attracted my attention was the wonderful falling off of that there was in business, for I was in several stores where I am in the habit of visiting; for instance, Powers wholesale and retail household furnishing establishment, Meyers & Frank's department store, and several others, and I could not but help but notice the marked falling off of the crowds of people that are generally there and I remarked to one of the clerks that I am acquainted with what a change there was in their business. I also noticed that the thoroughfare along Third and Washington streets was comparatively empty, for when I was here last I happened to be with Perry McGee and he remarked that he saw more umbrellas there at once sight than he ever saw in all his life before. I also noticed that there was a larger number of closing out sales than usual, and there seemed to be but very little improvements going on. But enough of this. About 4 o'clock we took the electric car and started for Fairview, noting all along the route that there had been but very little improvements made, although there had been some changes for the better in the line of clearing land and a few new buildings along the route. We arrived in Fairview about 5 p. m. and I was tired enough to rest without taking in the town. The next morning I started out for the post-office for my mail and there found the Medford Mail Tribune for I had taken the precaution to hand in a subscription for my daughter before I left the Mail Tribune office, and it was like receiving a letter from home.

PHOENIX

Fred Moore of Beagle returned home Tuesday after spending a week with mother, Mrs. Rose Moore. Mrs. Rice, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. F. Pratt of this place returned to her home in Applegate Wednesday. The young people have organized a literary club with Miss Davis as president. Mrs. Owens is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. H. Mayfield. Mr. and Mrs. William Beardsley and Miss Lee made a trip to Ashland Thursday. Mrs. E. Wilder has been seriously ill for several days. Mr. and Mrs. J. Cope made a trip to Jacksonville Thursday. John Calhoun of Baker City arrived here a few days ago and will spend the winter with his sister, Mrs. S. Shipp, west of town. Messrs. Saltzman, Boyer and Sheets of North Phoenix spent a few days this week fishing at Applegate. Mr. Frazee has rented the Roberts cottage and will soon move his family to this city. The W. C. T. U. and suffrage club will hold a joint meeting at the home of Mrs. John Cope Thursday afternoon October 17. The meeting is open to all. The body of Frank Norris the young man who met his death a few days ago in a saw mill at Weed, Cal., by being smothered in sawdust, was brought here Wednesday for burial. The funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church and the services at the grave were conducted by the local W. O. W. lodge. He leaves a widow and one child. Mr. Norris was well and favorably known in this community. Robert Pulaski of Medford and Miss Blanche Acree of this city were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Acree, last Sunday afternoon by Rev. Boyle of Medford. Mr. and Mrs. Pulaski will make their home in Medford. The Reames homestead south of town has been purchased by the Houston brothers and Mrs. Horton. Mrs. Horton came to the valley a short time ago from Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Reames and her son have not yet formed any definite plans but it is hoped that they will decide to locate in Phoenix. Dr. Malgren has purchased Walter Croy's stock of drugs and will remove it to his office. Mr. Croy has been obliged to return to California on account of his wife's health. This leaves Phoenix without a regular drug store. There is a good opening here for a young, enterprising pharmacist who would not only keep the regular line of drugs but a soda fountain and ice cream parlor which would be not only well patronized by the town but also by the automobile tourists.
