Horses are Killed by State Veterinarian

A veterinary from Watertown was here last week and ordered four horses killed belonging to Frank Wopat which he said were afflicted with the glanders. He was down again this week and killed nine more, which leaves Frank pretty well strapped for teams to commence spring's work with. We understand the state pays fifty dollars apiece for horses killed in cases of this kind providing the appropriation is enough to cover all the losses.—Vienna Standard.

Judge Gives Sound Advice to Young Men

In his talk to Clarence Middleton and Harry Cambern, Thursday of last week, before sentencing them to the penitentiary, Judge Seward gave them some good advice, which if followed, upon their leaving the institution, will make better citizens of them, and they were also told that they had been very ably defended by their attorney, Arthur Sherin, of this city. Mr. Sherin is a member of the law firm of Sherin & Sherin, and is already enjoying an excellent practice. He is also a candidate for states attorney.
