The Texan and Kerr of Iowa Exchange Epithets-The House in a Tumult of Disorder and the Sergeaut-at-Arms Called Upon to Quell the Tumult.

In the Senate this morning, on motion of Mr. Spooner, the vote agreeing (some days since) to the conference report on the bill for a public building in Mankato, Minn., was reconsidered, and the report Minn., was reconsidered, and the report was withdrawn on account of the duplication of a clause in the bill. A correct report was substituted and agreed to. The dimit of cost is $90,000, but no appropriation is made in the bill, that being left (and a cther such bills) to the Committee of Appropriations; and that fact was commented upon by Mr. Cockrell, who assumed that the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds was avoiding its share of responsibility. This was repelled by his colleague, Mr. Vest, who intimated that the tendency of the Committee on Appropriations was to increase its powers. The chairman of that committee, Mr. Allison, contradicted that intimation and stated that the trouble about appropriations for public buildings came from the other house.

ations for public buildings came from the other house.

In the further course of the colloquy Mr. Vest stated that appropriations had got to be made for many of the buildings authorized in the bills of the last and present sessions, and that his estimate of the amount that would be required for such bills was about $2,225,000.

He also referred to the great necessity of additional Government buildings in Washington, and stated that the rent for private buildings occupied by the Government in this city was about $182,000, the owners receiving from 15 to 20 per cent. Interest on their value of the property.

Mr. Butler expressed his inability to understand why (with the number of public buildings completed wishin the last ten years) the rent account should be so large.

Mr. Vest stated some of the items of public buildings completed within the last ten years) the rent account should be so large.

Mr. Vest stated some of the items of rent paid by the Government, showing that for the Census Burcau alone it amounted to $34,000. He spoke of the purchase by the Government some years since of the Freedmen's Bank Building and adjacent lot—a property which was now worth double the amount paid for it—and he regretted that there was not bought at the same time the house now occupied by Secretary Blaine, which could have been got for $7.5000, but could not be got now for less than $150,000. He mentioned these facts to show that, while the city of Washington was in its infancy and the Government was only commencing its phenomenal career, Congress was refusing to conduct the business of the Government as business men would conduct theirs and was allowing property to go up year by year, without availing itself of the opportunity to save money to the people. He mentioned the fact that the Maltby building had been offered to the Government for $125,000—a splendid investment—as the structure had cost $100,000, and that, by obtaining that building and expending some $25,000 in changes, rents to the amount of some $40,000 a year (now paid for the accommodation of various boards and burcaus), could be saved.

There ought to be, he said, no hesitation about such an investment. The Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds would, at an early day, ask the Senuate to consider a bill to purchase that property, and he hoped that it would meet with no serious opposition and that that would be the initiatory step toward inaugurating a new policy in regard to public buildings in the Discretary and he hoped that it would for the grant to public buildings in the Discretary and he hoped that it would seed columbic Afor further.

Mr. Mitchell assented and asked unanimous consent that it should come up tomorrow as unfinished business. Agreed to.
All morning business being disposed of Mr. Aldrich, at 1:50, moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the resolution to change the rules submitted by him on the 29th of December last. The motion was agreed to without contest on the Democratic side.

Mr. Harris rose to a question of order and quoted rule 40, which provides that no motion to modify, amend or suspend a rule or part thereof shall be in order except on one day's notice in writing, specifying precisely the rule or part proposed to be suspended, modified or amended and the parts thereof.

The notice given did not, he said, call attention to the part of any rule proposed to be modified, but simply left the chair and each Senator to find it out for himself. He therefore argued that the notice was not sufficiently specific.

The discussion was progressing when, at 2 p. m., the Vice-President laid before the Senate as the unfinished business the Elections bill, and Mr. George took the floor to continue his speech against it.

The point of order was made by Mr. Edmunds that the question of a change of rules was a privileged question, which superseded all other business.

compared with the whiriwing this afternoon.

It was I o'clock when the clerk finished the reading of the journal. Instantly Major McKinley jumped to his feet and moved the approval of the journal, and the Speaker put the question.

At this Mr. Mills arose and said that the previous question on the approval of the journal should first have been demanded and therefore made a motion to that end, and demanded a right to be heard. The Speaker paid no attention whatever to Mr. Mills and ordered the roll called on Mr. McKinley's motion.

The Clerk began to call the roll and Mr. Mills walked down the able toward the Speaker's deek. Looking Mr. Reed square in the face the Texan should at the top of his voice:

After the row in the House, the consideration of the District Appropriation bill was resumed. The item to pay the Register of Wills $150 for preparing papers in connection with the appointment of guardians to enable indigent boys to callst in the U. S. Navy was the first matter taken up. The Democrats, by way of fillbustering away the time, loaded the item in question down with amendments.

At the rate the House is now proceeding a vote may possibly be reached on the District bill some time before the 4th of March.

DISTRICT MEASURES.

Reports Agreed Upon Regarding Two Bills by the House Committee. The House District Committee met to-day and decision was reached to report favorably two bills—one with amendment, and the other without amendment.

The first is the measure of Mr. Hemphill of South Carolina to amend the actentifled "An act to amend the general incorporation laws of the District of Columbia," approved March 17, 1882. This bill has heretofore been outlined in The Centre.

The second is the Senate bill to authorize the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company of Virginia to extend its line into and within the District of Columbia. The amendments are practically imma-terial, except the one that says that the construction of the road shall begin within three years instead of two, as is prescribed in the Senate.

HOLDING CLEVELAND RESPONSIBLE For the Passage of the Elections Bill, if

It Pass.
That Grover Cleveland is losing easte mong his party friends in Congress is known to almost every one about the Capitol. He is cursed by the Western silverites on account of his silence on the free coinage question, and by the Southern men because in all his recent notable after-dinner speeches he has never lifted his voice against the passage of the Elections bill.

discussion. Presently a Southern Senator said:

"Gentlemen, if the Force bill is passed, I will blame Grover Cleveland, and no one else, for it."

This remark caused a friend of the expresident to ask angrily what Mr. Cleveland had to do with the measure now under discussion in the Senate.

To this the Senator warmly replied:
"If Cleveland had done his whole duty as President of the United States and had obeyed, as he had a right to do, the platform upon which he was elected in '81, I repeat, that the force bill would not now be a possibility. To make myself be better understood, I will say that if Cleveland had given the Territorial offices to bone fide citizens of the Territories, as he was instructed to do in the platform, the Democratis would have four, and perhaps six, more Senators in the United States Senate, as lisho and Montana are both naturally Democratie.

"These Territories broke away from the Democratic party on account of Cleveland's attitude.

"These Territories broke away from the Democratic party on account of Cleveland's attitude, and when they became States elected Republican Senators. The Republican majority in the Senate now is fourteen. If the Democrats had elected Senators from Montana and Idaho the Republican majority would be only six. With only six majority it would be impossible to pass the force bill, as at least three or four Republicans will vote with the Democrats against the final passage of the bill."

Rev. Uysses Grant Glick, who is said to have victimized a number of persons in all sections of the country, is behind the bars of the Sixth Precinct station. He was arrested last night at 7 o'clock in a fashionable boarding-house at the corner of Four-and-a-half and C streets by Detectives Carter and Raff. Glick has been wanted by the authorities in various cities, and has evaded arrest for nearly a year. In March last the prisoner obtained a considerable sum from residents of New Orleans and Hay St. Louis by means of bogus checks.

About the middle of December Inspector Swindells was informed that Glick was in Washington. He disappeared, however, and was afterward seen in both Richmond and Philadelphia. It is not positively known to what extent the prisoner has swindled the residents of this city, but the police believe that his operations have been considerable. His photograph was taken this morning. Personally he is attractive in address and affable in speech. Glick will be retained in custedy, while the police will endeavor to discover here some evidence against him of the work he is supposed to have dene.

CONCERNING CLOTURE.

THE SHREWD PLAN THE REPUBLI CAN LEADERS HAVE FORMULATED.

To Crowd Cloture Through in Order to Pass the Elections Bill-The Meaning of Morton's Ruling that an Appeal is Not Debatable.

Mr. Aldrich called up in the Senate at 2 o'clock to-day his cloture resolution, which has been reposing quistly and in-nocuously upon the calendar since its stroduction on the 23d of December last, but it went over until to-morrow as un The Cloture Resolution.

The Clotare Resolution.

Resolved, That for the remainder of this session the rules of the Senate be amended by adding thereto the following:

When any bill, resolution or other question shall have been under consideration for a reasonable time it shall be in order for any Senator to demand that debate thereon be closed. On such demand no debate shall be in order, and pending such demand no other motion except one motion to adjourn shall be made. If such demand be seconded by a majority of the Senators present, the question shall forthwith be taken thereon without debate. If the Senate shall decide to close debate on any bill, resolution or other question, the measure shall take precedence of all other business whatever, and the question shall be put upon the amendments, if any then pending, and upon the measure in its successive stages according to the rules of the Senate, but without further debate, except that every Senator who may desire shall be permitted to speak upon the measure, including all amendments, not more than once and not exceeding thirty minutes.

After the Senate shall have decided to close debate as herein provided, no motion shall be in order but a motion to adjourn or to take a recess, when such motions shall be seconded by a majority of the Senate. When either of said motions shall have been lost or shall have failed of a second, it shall not be in order to renew the same until one Senator shall have spoken upon the pending measure, or one vote upon the same shall have intervened.

Pending proceedings under the foregoing rule no proceeding in respect of a quorum shall be in order until it shall have appeared on a division or on the taking of the year and nays that a quorum is not present and voting.

Pending proceedings under the foregoing rule all questions of order, whether upon appeal or otherwise, shall be decided without debate, and no obstructive or dilatory motion or proceedings of any kind shall be in order.

For the foregoing stated purposes the For the foregoing stated purposes the following rules, namely: VII, VIII, IX, X, XII, XXVII, XXVIII, XXXV and XL are modified.

The Debate May Last Indefinitely unless some way be found to shut it off. The brigade of Democratic orators can exercise their talent as well on that resolution as on the Elections bill. That the friends of that measure and some other Republican Senators, especially those from the new States, are in earnest in wanting the cloture adopted is well known. Just how it is to be brought about has been a matter of much speculation and sore tribulation to the newspaper parliamentarians. They have pretty generally settled down to the conclusion that it will be done by some arbitrary act on the part of the presiding officer. But the acknowledged fact that the Vice-President is averse to any arbitrary proceeding has been a stumper. The Debate May Last Indefinitely

Now, says the gentleman referred to, the plan of the cloture Repulicans is to the plan of the cloture Repulicans is to allow the debate to proceed for three or four days, then some Republican Senator, presumably Mr. Aldrich, will make the point of order that the resolution is not debatable. The theory on which this rests being that it is a resolution to close debate, and stands in the same relation as a motion to adjourn or to take a recess. There will be a chorous of protests from the Democratic side. The Vice-President will look surprised and will overrule the point of order will appeal from the decision of the Chair. This appeal, under the ruling referred to, will be held to be not debatable. The vote on the appeal will overrule the decision of the Chair. That will mean that the cloture resolution is not debatable. That proposition established, there would be nothing left to do but to take a vote.

The Republicans have a Senatorial quorum of their own in the city. Mr. Hearst is too sick to be present. This will probably cost the Democrats a vote, as it is understood that pairs will be declared off.

Some one has again brought up the familiar subject of discussion, "How Young Men Propose." It is the testimony of many unfortunate past-masters in the art and of several novels written by married men that the young men—don't. In so so far as a blurry and confused recollection of the event will inform them, the proposal was a mutual and spontaneous occurrence, or, to put it suggestively, it proposed of itself—as popeorn pops, by simply being warmed up to the occasion. One thing is certain, however, the young man who endeavors to be too polite about making his proposal is lost, it is undoubtedly the right thing to be mannerly and conventional in many times and places. "Will you please?" "May I trouble you?" "I beg pardon" and "Thank you" are part of the small change of the currency of manners. He who does not rely upon some similar expressions occasionally stands in danger of being called a boor.

But the young man who would say to his sweetheart, "Will you please have me?" or "May I trouble you to get married?" just as he would say "Will you kindly step aside?" or "Please pass me the salt?" is a hopeless case. He will be refused and deserves to be.

He may, if he likes, quote poetry or he may injure his trousers by kneeling too long before the adored, but he must be something other than communiplace. This is certainly how not to propose, and is a much more essential bit of information than any direct and explicit advice would be.

A Spanking for Rudyard Kipling.

Evere Field in Chicago Nava.

The truth would seem to be that Mr' Kipling is an unusually bright fellow who enjoys a somewhat exagerated opinion of his own brightness; it is quite natural that he should be somewhat swellen in vanity, for he has been flattered to an amazing degree since he woke up one morning and found himself famous. We certainly should expect to find youth susceptible to the charms of compliment, and we are free to confess that we recognize a distinct loveliness in that freedom and confidence with which youth gives expression to those views which it invariably has upon all human things.

Mr. Kipling's literary work is faulty, but it is brilliant and strong. There may be, as Mr. Carlton avers, twenty newspaper reporters in New York city capable of doing as good work as Mr. Kipling has done. At the same time they have not done it, and Mr. Kipling has.

The error into which Mr. Kipling appears to have fallen is an o'c-weening greed to profit at once by the reputation made by his earlier publications. He is builling his own market. The trade instinct is big within him. Mr. Kipling's business methods are not those of a literary man; he is a hustler, and we fear that he is also a paranciae. He believes in haying in sunny weather, no matter whether there is any grass or not, and lie is working his boom for all there is in it.

Nobody should take to heart what this young man has to say of this country and its people; much that he says is true. We are very different from other countries, and in that difference should we find continual reason for devoutly returning thanks to the Almighty. If there be aught of praiseworthiness in the progress of civilization, should we not be grateful when our own civilization stands forth as the conspicuous illustration of that progress?

We hope that Mr. Kipling will go ahead with cracking his whip he ls young, lusty as the conspicuous illustration of that progress?

We hope that Mr. Kipling will go ahead with cracking his whip; he is young, lusty and full of fight, and these things help to keep other things moving. We have much more respect for the sauciness of youth than we have for the hypocrisy of age; in other words, when we think of the absurd flatteries and lying arts which certain foreigners have employed to mulcius of our money and good opinion, we are disposed to regard Mr. Kipling's combative pertness as refreshing and praiseworthy to a degree.
