His wife was Angelia Furbush Perry, of Revolutionary ancestry, the official commission of her grandfather John Perry of Vinalhaven, as commander of the boat Fly in 1781 having been signed by John Hancock. Capt. French's ancestry through the Drinkwaters has been established also through six distinct lines direct to the Mayflower Pilgrims-George Soule; James Chilton, whose daughter Mary is said to have been first to make a landing on Plymouth Rock; William Bradford, who was second governor of Plymouth Registered at the Waquoit for a lobster Colony serving as such for 31 years: Rias Elder Brewster, who drew up the May-flower compact; and William Mullins, whose daughter Priscilla married John

Capt. French is survived by his brother, California, Hotel Courier-Gazette.
