

CURTAIN DROPPED ON FLIGHTS HERE

Southeast Airlines Discontinued Service Yesterday

The curtain was dropped on all scheduled flight operations of Southeast Airlines to and from Wilmington at 6:15 yesterday afternoon when the last plane left Blue-thenthal airport with one lone passenger aboard.

On the last craft, but not in the status of paying passengers, were two Southeast officials who spent part of yesterday afternoon closing out the affairs of the company here.

Although scheduled flights have been cancelled pending the outcome of a petition for re-issuance of the controversial Civil Aeronautics board action in awarding certificates to operate feeder lines in five southeastern states to Piedmont Aviation, Inc., of Winston-Salem, W. C. Teague, Southeast president, has announced that his firm will continue to operate a charter service and flying school.

Teague has threatened to carry the fight to the courts if necessary, charging that the CAB, in awarding the certificate to Piedmont, was attempting to put the latter firm in business and Southeast out of business.

One of the effects of the Southeast decision to drop scheduled operations was to increase the prospects of charter service from Wilmington to the west, inasmuch as Piedmont officials have indicated that it will be at least six begin operations on the routes months before the company would be awarded by the CAB.

NEGRO OBJECT OF POLICE SEARCH

Third House In Five Days Entered Last Night By Unknown Man

A Negro referred to as "The Cat Man" was the object of an intensive search by city police last night as the third house in five days was burglarized.

The first case occurred last Friday night when the home of John D. Taylor at 509 Orange Street was entered, with a Negro being discovered in a room by Taylor. The burglar hit Taylor in the left eye after the latter had grabbed him in an attempt to prevent an escape.

The home of Mac L. Wilson at 107 North 7th street was entered Monday night, with a Negro being found in an upstairs room of the house bearing the same description as the man found in the Taylor home.

Last night witnessed the third burglary case, with a house at 408 South Fifth street being entered and a pocketbook containing about $40 stolen.

Mrs. J. L. Smith, who saw the Negro shortly before he ran, described to investigating officers, who said he description fitted perfectly with the descriptions of the man believed to be responsible for the other two burglaries.

STILL OCCUPIED — "Captain Harper was a member of the Boney and Harper Milling company and a brother of Capt. John W. Harper of the famous steamers, Passport and Wilmington.

"The house was next occupied by Captain Harper's son, Dr. Charles T. Harper, and the present occupant is Dr. Harper's daughter, Mrs. J. M. Newbold," he said.

The home is located at No. 1 Church street and between its walls is more lore of the Cape Fear than we could bring you in many a year.

COMMUNISM

For Democracy has headquarters in New York City — formerly located at 13 Astor place — the same building with a number of other Communist-controlled organizations — and claims 60 chapters in colleges in 14 states and a total membership of 16,194.

It is "neither American nor democratic in its origin or purposes," the committee said.

In some states, the committee said, "the Young Communists have even penetrated the Young Democrats."

LADY NEARLY CHOKED WHILE LYING IN BED— DUE TO STOMACH GAS

One lady said a few days ago that she used to be afraid to go to bed at night. She was swollen with stomach gas, which always got worse when she went to bed, and the gas would rise up in her throat after she lay down and would nearly choke her. She couldn't lie flat. Had to prop herself up on pillows. Recently this lady got INNER-AID and now says gas is gone, stomach feels fine, bowels are regular and she can go to bed and sleep soundly.

INNER-AID contains 12 Great Herbs: they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get INNER-AID.

man of the House Rules committee, told his colleagues in a speech that the House measure "is a bill of rights for the laboring man, to protect him from exploitation by employers and from encroachments on his individual rights by labor unions."

Allen said the bill, product of many weeks of work by the House Labor committee, fulfills a Republican party pledge to meet the problem of industrial strife.

A Democratic minority on the House Labor committee called it "A union busting" measure. It was approved by a bipartisan majority.

A number of Democrats conceded the Republicans had plenty of votes to pass it overwhelmingly. Approval by Friday is expected. Main Democratic strategy is expected to be devoted to an attempt to substitute a bill carrying out President Truman's proposal for a commission to study the whole labor field and propose new laws.

Republican leaders are claiming more than a 2 to 1 majority, which would be sufficient to overthrow a Presidential veto.

In the main, the House bill would ban many kinds of strikes; provide a formula to combat those affecting national welfare; prohibit most cases of industry-wide bargaining; outlaw the closed shop in which only union members can be hired, and restrict many union practices.

The new development on the coast of the Maritima was disclosed by Prof. Roger Adams and associates of the University of Illinois. They reported at the 11th annual meeting of the American Chemical Society that a series of drugs — all chemically similar to an active ingredient in natural Maritima — have been synthesized.

The new drugs have been tested on dogs which were temporarily paralyzed. The drugs, estimated to be 70 times more powerful than natural Maritima, may have some practical application, Prof. Adams said.

Better soaps and more efficient washing machines were promised by a new "vaidistic" technique for measuring the effectiveness of cleaning agents in a paper by Osborn C. Bason and J. Edward Smith of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

The method employs a miniature washing machine in which the amount of power and soap consumed to achieve a given degree of dirt removal can be determined accurately.

The housewife may never herself use the method directly, it was reported, but it is expected to bring better soaps and washing machines of greater efficiency.

Major Question

Consideration of the agency's demands would inject into the special session a major question of principle, which was not anticipated either in Britain's request for the extraordinary meeting or in Secretary-General Trygve Lie's formal call to the 55 nations to be held here by April 28.

The Jewish agency, in calling for action to lift immigration restrictions, said this would "serve as an immediate test of the significance of the forthcoming session."

The agency also raised the question of what kind of representation the Jews will have during assembly consideration of the Palestine problem.

Talks On Radio

Craig, for A. T. & T., expressed approval of "the general basis" for Schwelienbach's proposal but said the bargaining so far as long distance workers' over and "the long lines strike should be terminated at once."

He also summed up the views of affiliated companies on the arbitration question.

"All those companies," Craig wrote, "express the view that it is entirely impracticable to place all the cases before one board."

"They emphasize the large number of cases (45 disputes), as well as the wide range of the work operations, the geographical spread of these companies over the entire country and the great differences in rural, town and city conditions."

Beirne, for the workers' federation, wrote Schwelienbach that "the proposal is not acceptable in its present form and has therefore been unanimously rejected" by the union policy committee.

Beirne told reporters, however, "a solution to the entire problem will be found—the telephone strike will end. It will be much better for the telephone industry if a satisfactory compromise is reached."

maining 50 passengers sighed their relief while the airliner continued its east bound flight from Los Angeles.

Barrett and Murphy were slapping each other on the back and radiating good fellowship when they boarded the plane at Los Angeles. Their loud laughter resounded through the ship and drew the attention of other passengers.

One spirited a bottle of whisky aboard and it passed from one to the other frequently, in violation of both airline and government regulations.

Stewardess Martha Rundahl and Capt. Fred Wahl, the pilot, ordered Barrett and Murphy to render their bottle when attention was called to it by their boisterous conduct. They gave up the bottle and quieted down for a short while. But when the plane was less than 15 minutes from the airport here, they broke out into a violent quarrel.

Police Sergeant E. A. Duarte of Los Angeles, flying here on personal business on his day off, went into action.

"These planes have three seats on one side, and there was a guy in a seat between these two fellows who didn't have anything to do with the fight," the policeman said. "They were fighting over him and he was trying to keep out of it."

"Half the passengers were running up toward the front of the plane to see the fight and the other half were running back to get away from it. Some of them got down the plane's fire extinguishers just in case these guys started coming back toward the rest of the passengers."

Sgt. Duarte indicated he had little trouble quelling the brawl, although by that time Barrett wielded a dinner knife and had nicked Murphy's nose.

"As soon as I got there," the veteran policeman said, "I stepped in, although it was my day off and I wasn't officially working. I got it under control in a few minutes and sat between the guys the rest of the way."

"Murphy's nose was nicked by the knife, but it didn't hurt him much."

Capt. Wahl had radioed ahead to the field here requesting help and when the plane landed Deputy Sheriff Bob Owens and William Honrath were waiting. They took Murphy and Barrett off to jail for the rest of the night.
