First Baptists May Set $25,000 Goal For Fund

A goal of $25,000 toward the moving of Wake Forest college to Winston-Salem will be recommended to the congregation of the First Baptist church in Wilmington, the pastor, the Rev. Charles A. Madry has announced.

The announcement came after a meeting Wednesday night of a special committee, composed of J. G. Middleton, Howard A. Hanby, M. Eugene Bullard, and Herman Moore, at which the amount was settled on by the committee.

The fund is only for the First Baptist church, the Rev. Mr. Madry, chairman of the Wilmington district committee pointed out. Other churches in the area have not decided on the part they will play in the program, he said, however he plans soon to finish organization among the churches of his district, and appoint various committees to handle the business of raising, their quotas, he said.

The Rev. Mr. Madry said that the procedure for making the collections will be left up to the finance committee, headed by Hanby. The money will be raised over a period of three years, he said.

Earlier this week it had been announced by Horace Eason of Charlotte, director of the drive, that $144,000 of a $1,500,000 goal for the fund's $6,000,000 total has been raised by state Baptists.

One-tenth of the amount requested of Baptist churches has been pledged by congregations at Shelby, Asheville, Charlotte, Lumberton, Hendersonville, Angier and Fayetteville, Eason said.

He told the officials that there had never been a greater opportunity for a Christian education program than the one they have under terms of the contract with the Smith Reynolds Foundation. Income from the $10,500,000 foundation will go to Wake Forest if it is moved here within the next five years.

Community Church At Carolina Beach Plans Third Homecoming Celebration

By CARLTON RHODES Staff Writer

With its sphere pointing toward God, the Community church at Carolina Beach, stands as a shrine of worship for fun-seeking tourists, and of year-round worship for residents of the resort town.

Today the modest structure shines from the spic-and-span going over it has just had in preparation for the third annual homecoming at which thousands of persons, some of them former members, some of them just friends, are expected, according to the pastor, the Rev. James B. McQuere.

The homecoming has been scheduled for next Sunday, and elaborate arrangements are being made for the visits of several hundred former members who will gather from all parts of the state, South Carolina, Virginia, and elsewhere, the Rev. Mr. McQuere said.

The little church is not a member of a national organization and is entirely self-supporting. The congregation has supplied all the funds for its building.

From the little Sunday school chapel first begun by the small congregation has come the nucleus for the organization of all the other churches at the beach.

Last July 13, the church held its second homecoming of its members and 23 towns and cities and three states were represented.

It is anticipated that even a greater number of members will participate in this year's homecoming to be held next Sunday.

For the event the congregation is installing an air cooling system. The members have also added a new vestibule, gone over the staid a complete new lighting system in the auditorium and erected a pulpit.

Soon an outdoor fireplace to be used for fish fries, and other church functions will be built in the rear of the church grounds. The fireplace will be covered with a shelter to keep out the rain and will be furnished with electricity and running water.

The Rev. Mr. McQuere took over the rectorship in 1944 and is the first pastor of the house of worship.

Dr. William Harlee Beadeaux, general secretary of the American Council of Christian churches, will be the speaker in the morning services during the homecoming program next Sunday. Dr. Beadeaux also offered the dedicatory prayer when the church was dedicated.

A picnic lunch will follow at 1 o'clock and afternoon church services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock. Singing will be offered by special groups as well as the whole congregation.

The straw poll began as an intermittent practice of United States journalism in 1824. In that year the Harrisburg Pennsylvania sent out reporters to inquire among citizens whether they were going to vote for Henry Clay, Andrew Jackson, John Quincy Adams or William H. Crawford for president.

State Heads Nation In Overseas Relief

DURHAM, July 5.—During the first six months of 1947 North Carolina contributed more material aid for overseas relief than any other state in the nation, it was announced at the Church World Service center, New Windsor, Maryland, this week. New Windsor warehouse is the largest of nine such shipping centers operated by the Protestant churches of America for aiding the distressed peoples of the world, it was said.

Pennsylvania rating second largest in poundage collection, shipped 1.3 pounds per person the amount shipped by North Carolinians.

Each of the nine regional collection centers located throughout the nation serve five or more states. The North Carolina collection of clothing, shoes, and bedding alone sent to New Windsor amounted to more than the total amount received at any one of the other eight collection centers.

The collection under the sponsorship of the North Carolina council of Churches was organized by county and community groups. During the two months of April and May a concerted effort, directed by Rev. Henry Ruark, of Chapel Hill and 15 regional directors, was made at which time church groups were joined by civic clubs, public school groups, Boy and Girl Scout clubs, and numerous other groups.

In addition to all the materials collectively gathered and sent through the New Windsor shipping center, thousands of pounds of clothing and food were shipped through other relief agencies operated by individual church groups, YWCA's, and private organizations.

In expressing appreciation to the thousands of leaders throughout the State for their efforts on behalf of the distressed peoples of the world, Rev. Ernest J. Arnold, Executive Secretary of the N. C. council of Churches, made particular acknowledgment of the cooperation of the trucking concerns which aided so greatly in moving the hundreds of thousands of pounds of goods to New Windsor, Maryland. Many of these concerns, said Mr. Arnold, moved the goods without any expense to the religious forces charged with the collection of them.

The goods collected in North Carolina were of an unusually high quality, so said the officials at the New Windsor center. Many garments were new and the used ones were clean and repaired. A conservative estimate of the value of the North Carolina materials has been placed at one and one half million dollars.

The collection of material aid such as clothes, shoes, and bedding is a part of the total program of the Protestant churches in aiding people of the war devastated areas. Cash contributions are raised by the individual denominational groups, but the collection of the material aid has been done on a cooperative basis with church groups participating. As a result of the successful efforts of North Carolina, representatives of councils of Churches of the Atlantic states and officials of the Church World Service headquarters in New York met in Baltimore this week to map plans for the enlargement of relief efforts throughout the entire nation. It was expected that the plan used in North Carolina will be followed in the other states.

The North Carolina collection continues, according to the Rev. Mr. Arnold, and the need made it imperative that our efforts be doubled within the next few months. Individual churches are urged to send boxes every week and individuals who wish to make direct shipments to New Windsor may secure shipping bags without cost from the North Carolina Council of Churches, College Station, Durham, North Carolina.
