Burial of Rev. F. J. Tewes.

The funerai of the Rev. Francis J. Tewes, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, this city, who died in Baltimore Monday, took place yesterday morning from his mother's residence, Baltimore, thence to St. Michael's Church, where a solemn mass of requiem was celebrated. Twelve priests, with cross and censor-bearers, acelytes and a guard of honor from the Knights of St. Michael, preceded the remains to the church, the clergy charting the Miserere. Forty-six priests were inside the sanctuary rail, among whom were Rev. Messrs. Walter, Mackin, Schmidt and Willard of Washington. Over one hundred members of societies attached to St. Mary's in Washington, with altar boys, attended. The funeral proceeded to St. Alphonsus' Cemetery, where Rev. Peter Bausch read the last service at the interment. One hundred and sixty carriages were in the procession. Burial of Rev. F. J. Tewes. carriages were in the procession the American turf.

Yesterday will long be remembered by the men who took part in the college races at New London. It was one of the most exciting contests in the history of boating. It was well rowed from the beginning and the day was an ideal one for the postponed races. The Columbia Harvard freshmen race was the first of the afternoon. The start was a good one, Harvard catching the water first, pulling a thirty-four stroke. Columbia started at thirty-four stroke. Columbia started at thirty-eight, but splashed badly, and it was immediately seen that they were out-matched. But they were game. At the quarter Harvard was in perfect form and leading Columbia by a length. Here the former dropped her stroke to thirty-two and Columbia to thirty-five. At the mile she was two lengths ahead and this lead was kept until the finish. Time: Harvard, 12.21; Columbia, 12.28.

The much-talked-of three-cornered

The much-talked-of three-cornered The much-talked-of three-cornered race came off an hour and a half later. Cornell, Pennsylvania and Columbia were the entries. Pennsylvania took the lead by a half, but not for long, and Cornell shot past them to the front and got a lead of a full length, leaving Pennsylvania and Columbia fighting for second place. Cornell pulled 42, Pennsylvania 36, and Columbia 35. At the quarter Columbia spurted, passed her rival, and reduced Cornell's lead to a quarter of a length. From this time on the race was a splendid one. The two crews strained every nerve. At the mile Columbia forged abead of Cornell by another spurt, but it was an unwise effort; she could not hold the stroke, and Cornell got her place again almost immediately, crossing the line two lengths ahead. The Columbia crew was completely exhausted, and six of the men fainted. Five regained consciousness in a few moments, however, but Meckleham is in a critical condition. Cornell rowed back to their quarters, a distance of four miles, and were in good form. Time, 16:94. race came off an hour and a half later Time, 16:04.

The Oakland Handicap was run yes-terday at Washington Park. It was won by Kaloolah, with Bridgelight second. Time, 1:542.

At Sheepshead Bay yesterday the racing was only fair. The Spendrift stakes were won easily by Sluggard in The game at Capitol Park yesterday between the compositors of the Post and Stor was won by the former by a score of 36 to 32. President Brush of Indianapolis tele-graphed Hewitt yesterday offering the release of Denny. The matter will be taken under advisement and decided at an early day.

W. L. I. Excursion.

Select moonlight excursion will be given by the Washington Light Infantry Corps to Marshall Hall July 2. Steamer Corcoran will leave her wharf at 6:30 p.m. This will be a pleasant and enjoyable affair, and all parties desiring a sail down the river with this excellent organization will avail themselves of this opportunity. Music will be discoursed by the National Guard band.

John Gilbert's Wonderful Memory

John Gilbert's Wonderful Memory.

I bave heard an anecdote of John Gilbert which illustrates alike his own powers of memory and the characteristics of an old time Washington street dealer in dry goods on a very limited scale. Mr. Gilbert had a coat in which he intended to enact a certaiu part; it was a suitable garment for this purpose, with the exception, as a friend suggested, of the buttons which were of cloth of the same color. The friend's suggestion, with which Mr. Gilbert agreed, was that a button of a brighter hue should be used, and of a different material. The comedian then remembered that some twenty years before he had seen a button of this kind in the shop of Mr. Quincy Tufts, that quaint old-fashioned dealer, who was never known to be "out" of any article which had ever been in his stock. So Mr. Gilbert went to Mr. Tuft's shop—and a queer little place it was, as every old-time Bostonian knows—and instead of asking his friend, the proprietor, for what he wanted, trusted to his memory to locate it. Putting his hand on a upper shelf in the baud-hox to his memory to locate it. Putting his hand on an upper shelf in the band-box of the shop, he took from under a pile of cloths a package which actually contained the very buttons he was in want of.—[Boston Post.
