Frightful Case of a Colored Man

I contracted a fearful case of blood polson in 1888. I was treated by some of the best physicians in Atlanta. They used the old remeiles of Mercury and Potash, which brought on rheumatism and impaired my digestive organs. Every foint in me was swollen and full of pain. When I was given up to die, my physicians thought it would be a good time to test the virtue of Swift's Specific. When I commenced taking S. S. the physician said I could not live two weeks under the ordinary treatment. He commenced to give me the medicine strictly according to directions, which I continued for several months. I took nothing else, and commenced to improve from the very first. Soon the rheumatism left me, my appetite became all right, and the ulcers, which the doctor said were the most frightful he had ever seen, began to heni, and by the 1st of October, 1884. I was a well man again. I am stronger now than I ever was before, and weigh more. S. S. has saved me from an early grave.

LEM McCLENDON.

Lem McClendon has been in the employ of the Chess-Carley Company for some years, and I know the above statements to be true. At the time he began taking Swift's Specific he was in a herrible condition. I regard his cure almost miraculous.

CESIDE DOWN.

If all the world were upside down.
Our lilles would be stars so gay.
Our brooks would make the milky way.
And reses of the richest dye
Would be the pretty sunset sky;
Instead of bite, the sky be brown—
If all the world were upside down.

If all the world were upside down,
The moon would take the ocean's place.
And stars the fields and gardens grace;
The ground, of course, would be sky blue:
Another change would be quite new—
We'd wear our shoes upon our crown
If all the world were upside down.

JOHN SHERMAN'S STAGE RIDE. The Warming-Up a Western Jehu Favored Him With.

Senator Sherman enjoyed a break-neck ride down Siskiyous Mountain on his stage ide down Siskiyous Mountain on his stage journey between Redding and Roseberg. Ore. The Ohio statesman had pre-empted a seat with the driver to get a better view of the splendid scenery on that elevated divide. The pace from the summit was a tearing one, and the steep, narrow grade made the ride appear particularly hazardous. The Senator suggested that he could view things better at a slower gait.

"Got to make time," replied Jehu, brusquely.

"Got to make time," replied Jehu, brusquely,
"I assure you that I am in no hurry at all," exclaimed John, casting his eyes down the precipitous, crooked roadway,
"But I am," retorted the reckless whip as he let the nags out another notch.
Sherman was scared. He had reason to be. Others had been scared before him, and more are sure to find themselves in the same fix. A second later: "Driver.

the same fix. A second later: "Driver, pull up. I just as leave—in fact, I prefer to walk down this place."
"No you don't, Senator. I've got three minutes to reach the valley, and I'm going to make it or break a leg."

The lively six bronco team sped reck-lessly ahead, Sherman holding on with night and main.

Turning a sharp curve, the swing pole suddenly snapped. For a few moments things looked squally. A single lurch might send the coach over a 300-foot

"Keep your seat," cried the Jehu, who, with brake and reins, quickly brought his team to a standstill.

with bride and rems, quickly brought his team to a standstill.

A little later Sherman was holding the lines, his foot braced on the "holdback," while the driver was down among the cattle splicing the broken swing bar.

All was in order again presently, and the Senator, reassured as to the entire safety of the twelve-mile-an-hour canter down a forty-five pitch grade, kept his place to the bottom without a quiver.

Thinking it over now, Sherman says it was the most exhibitanting stage ride he ever experienced, and he wouldn't mind making the trip overland from California a second time, just to take in that interesting piece of Star route expediting down the Siskiyous.—[Helena Herald.

The most noted dog in Colorado is an English deerhound, the property of ex-Congressman James B. Belford. He is known throughout the State as Spot, having been the companion of Judge Belford in most of his Congressional campaigns. Judge Field added that 'the voice that assails our common school system touches the most formidable passion in this country next patriotism itself. The denunciation by Mr. Montgomery of common schools as nurseries of immorality is likely to provoke irritating discussion. In regard to Chinese immigration, Justice Field said he thought precise reciprocity was no hardship to the Chinese. GOING FOR THE COLONEL

The following communication from Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox of Meriden. Conn., appears in the last issue of the National Tribane. The lady is evidently on the war-

Tehene. The lady is evidently on the warpath:

'In your issue of May 28 I understand you published my poem Solitade and gave credit to that roleur hard. Colonel Joyce. As my claim to the poem has been fully substantiated, and Colonel Joyce has falled to bring one proof to uphold his assertion of having written it twenty years ago, it seems somewhat unfair for it to be published to the world as his production.

'Nearly a year ago, when he first claimed it, I challenged him to bring a well-authenticated copy of the poem, written or published, prior to February 10, 1883, when I wrote it. He has never produced one proof, nor can he do so. The New York Son, in an article of a column's written or published, prior to February 10, 1883, when I wrote it. He has never produced one proof, nor can he do so. The New York Sen, in an article of a column's length, fully set forth my claims to the poem, and Judge A. B. Braley, of Madison, Wis., in two lengthy letters, which have been widely copied, has reiterated in detail the circumstances under which I wrote the poem in his house. To all this Colonel Joyce remains guiltly silent; yet his "emotional insanity" occurs periodically and causes him to send the poem out under his name. I beg yon to do me the justice to publish this letter.

"The poem appears in my volume, 'Poems of Passion,' and was never seen by the eyes nor heard by the ears of man until published by me in the New York Sun, February, 1883. I believe Colonel Joyce first asserted his claim to it, not imagining that the author was living, and now feels that he must stand by his assertion, although he has no proof of his words. But he must stand by his assertion, although he has no proof of his words. But he must stand by his assertion, although he has no proof of his words. But he must stand by his assertion, although the judge of the public.

"I am aware that it is not a matter of hat only in majoritance, but since the poem "I am aware that it is not a matter of mational importance, but since the poem has sufficient merit to cause it to be so widely copied, and since Colonel Joyce's claim reflects upon my literary reputation. I feel that I am justified in asking for space in which to defend myself. Were I a man I should quickly settle the matter by thoroughly caping Colonel matter by thoroughly caning Colone Joyce until he retracted his foolish false-hood. But being a woman my only de-fense is my pen.
