THE CONFEDERATE ARCHIVES.

Colonel John T. Pickets formerly Stafes Diplomatic Agent for the Gulf of Mexico, publishes a statement showing his azenov in the sele of the Confederate as chives to this Government, the price obtained being $75,000 They were stored in four trucks and only delivered at the Executive Mansion on the 3t of this month. The documents consist of the archives of the State Department of the Confederate States, without the abstraction of a single plees. The Secret Service vonchers, by which many persons of little note on this side of the line might have been compromised did not leave Richmond with these more public papers, but were falthfully and honorably destroyed by Benjamin Day on the execution. There is, says Colonel Pickett, but one paper the perusal of which gave me any pain, the report of Hon-Jecob Thompson on the operations on the frontiers, the existe co of which was unknown to me until the Government officer with whom I lately went to Canada for the documents found it. The publication of his report. Pickett adds, will doubless cause him, with Jeferson Davis and J. P. Benjamin, to feel uncomfortable for a little while, but as I expect to go with neither of them when I die, my simpathy shall not be of a heart-rending character, especially as they have all treated me badly enough in my lims. And her in must be enfirred, as one still faithful to the Lost Cause, to ear that I wholly repudiate the policy of attempting to burn Northern oities during the war, especially Democratic cities, and that I always indignantly denied the allegation until I saw Thompson's report. So let those three worthies win. not the noble people whose cause they burchered. These now famous archives have no political significance whatever. Historically and finanou "Death to Yankees" during the war, and now come up here with their craims, and perjure their souls by swearing they were always "truly loyal." I have no sympathy with ench. The conqueror stripped me of every dollar, reducing my children to the verge of want and degradation, and consigning me to insignificance and endless toil; but if the mere appression for regret at the part I took could insure a return of the last cent with compound interest, I would scorn, with scorn unspeakable, to accept on those terms. I do not pretend to have been truly loyal, but as I labor under the impression that the war is over at last, I am willing to take a fresh departure, and endeavor, by the arts of peace, to relieve the party now in power from the care of administering the common Government any longer.

GREEN LAKE Co., Wis., July 12.
To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune: Sin: We have had here, and throughout Central Wisconsin, wheat-scorching corn weather since the middle of June, excepting only a couple of days, with too little rain to sustain the severe rate of evaporation going on in the wheat fields; and the general result must be a light crop of spring wheat, sult must be a light crop of spring wheat. As you will remember, nearly half the ground allotted for spring wheat was not fall-plowed, by reason of the long and severe drouth, which suspended plowing generally in the Northwest, early last fall. Bisides other ground, one-third the soil under spring wheat was not plewed till somewhat late in April. On this ground the wheat is very short in the straw, so that it will be difficult binding. It is also short in the head, and the heads are not filled out well. In fact, there are many fields where the heads are partially or wholly dying to a considerable extent. And, on all but deep, moist soils, spring wheat is drying up,—the straw not growing atail,—rather than ripening. In fact, it is drying while in bloom, or instanced the proposed of the straw of the straw of growing atail,—rather than ripening. This proportion is even seeded in some localities northwest from Waupun, and southwest of Ripon. It is generally admitted that full one-third of all the prairie soils in Central Wisconein is seeded to some variety of grass. But the pregnant and immediate fact of interest is this: There is generally one-fourth, or 25 per cent. less land under wheat, on prair But the pregram and influence fact of interest is this: There is generally one-fourth, or 25 per cent, less land under wheat, on prairie farms, this year than last; and to this must be added a reduced acreage of 20 per cent, or one-fifth, on opening soils, where there is more group? under corn and clover together, to that extent. I have been over Puch of three counties, Columbia, Dodge, and Green Lake, and you may rely upon it there is a generally reduced acreage under wheat of over 20 per cent this year as compared with last, and the yield per acre of wheat will be only about three-fourths of an average crop.

P. S.—Making a special examination since writing the above, I find the chintz-bug has already killed one half of some fields, one-fourth of others, etc., and is spreading with the greatest rapidity, and this on high northern slopes. The Woman's Home-A Note From Some of the Inmates. ! Woman's Home, July 17.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:
We noticed an article in Tuesday's Times, and a response in Wednesday's Tribune, in relation to transactions at the Woman's Home, and we wish to add our testimony. being members of the same. We are regular boarders, and do not wish to hear the Home spoken of in so light's manner. The Times speaks of the ladies appearing before the windows en deshabille. None but the lower classes of humanity would make such reports. We poor, defenceless, hard-working girls are obliged to submit to such abuse from the thoughtless tongues of reporters! Let us hope that the man who wrote the article in the Times will never, by chance, get into a worse place than our Home (which we fear he may, if Le continues to puzzle his brains with such items). The Home is not a "nuisance," but a noble institution, built expressly for those who are obliged to support themselves by their own unaided efforts. boarders, and do not wish to hear the Home expressly the three was the are own unaided efforts.

They say there are those of us who come home intoxicated. This we deny, believing it to be utterly false. We, being regular boarders, have seen nothing of the kind; and, aside from that, the Home is too well conducted to allow anything so scandalous. We can go into our streets at any hour, and find many of the opposite sex in an intoxicated condition, which would not be worth our notice. No, we would not soll our pen for the mere purpose of bringing such into notice. They speak of us as wending our way homeward between the hours of 10 and 11 p.m. This shows a decided disposition to observe reasonable hours, as we have known even the "Lords of Creation" to remain in the gutter all night.

The Exiled Priests.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune: Sir: I am aware that your correspondents are accustomed to indulge in a pretty wide latitude of criticism in commenting on matters and things in general, for which it would hardly be fair to held THE TRIBUNE responsible; hence I am unwilling to believe that you indorse the eneers and snarls with which your San Francisco correspondent, "Altamente," treats the reception in that city of the forty-odd priests recently excled from Gustemala. According to the accounts given in the public prints. these gentlemen were arrested without warrant of law, by an arbitrary ret of an usurping Executive; disposessed of their property, without compensation; and, without notice, to embark on a vessel which was to convey them to a foreign, but happily, hospitable land. The barbarons inhumanity of the act is shown in the fact that "One of the Fathers, upwards of 75 vears of age, died directly after landing in San Francisco, while others of the band are ill from change of climate, etc."

The comments of your correspondent are equally unmanly and un-imerican.

The fact that these unfortunate exiles are priests does not place them beyond the pale of public sympathy,—at least with cultivated and liberal Americans.

They were the victims of tyranuy. No law had condemned them: no judicial edict had sentenced them to banishment. They arrived on cur alteres, poor, sick, and foresker; and they were welcomed and that you indorse the sneers and snarks with cared for by those of their own "household of the faith,"—nay, doubtless by all classes; and, for this, your correspondent indulges in a sneer at their supposed lack of "intellectual development," and a snarl at "the thousands of monastic idlers and drones" who infest his imagination with ridiculous terrors.

thousands or monasciation with ridiculous who infest his imagination with ridiculous terrors.

Bad it been a corresponding number of revolutionists or banditti, instead of simple priests, who had been thus brutally driven from their native land without trial and without notice, how eloquently would not "Altamonte" have denounced the cruelty and the wick-dness of the act, and how touchingly appeal for sympathy on behalf of the suff-rer-!

How feelingly would he not have dwelt upon the foreway and the agony of that old man, "some 75 years of age, who died directly after landing in San Francisco;" and the hard-hips and sufferings of the rest of the band, "ill from chauge of climate, etc."

What is it to your correspondent that these men had devoted the labor of their lives to the service of the people of Guatemala; that to most, if not to all, of them, that country was their native land, in which they had both perfonal and proprietary affections and interests; and that any power which would thus artitrarily exile them, and drive them to foreign shores, friendless and without incomes, is deserving only of the severest reprobation.

Turkish versus Russinn Baths, To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune: Sin: In your issue of the 14th appears an article headed, "An Awful Experience—A Woman in a Turkish Bath," wherein she relates her experience in what is known as the Russian bath. Having no interest whatever in any Turkish bath establishment, save what pertains to everything of great public benefit, I to everything of great public benefit, I desire to enter my protest against anything so well calculated to prejudice the public mind against what is known as the Turkish bath. Having familiarized myself with its modus operandi and practical benefits as administered in legit hate establishments, both in this country and Great Britain, I can say that it is now recognized by leading medical men, in this country and Europe, as one of the greatest remedial agents known in science. And, furthermore, that its modus operandi, in properly conducted establishments, is one of positive luxury, as can be attested by thousands in our own midst. our own midst.

In our own midst.

It is time that public writers were able to discriminate between Turkish and Russian baths, institutions so entirely distinct in their methods and results,—the Russian being a steam bath, while the Turkish is a dry, hotair bath, where Nature comes to the relief of the body thus subjected to a high temperature, by opening the pores and throwing out moisture,—thus accomplishing, simply and effectually, the end desired, namely: prefuse perspiration, together with the hygiene effects of high temperatures upon the whole exposed surface of the body, to say nothing of the complete flushing of the sewers of the system of the accumulation of effets matter,—the whole process, including the rubbing, washing, and cooling off being tonic, and in no respect weakening. On the other hand, the steam, vapor, and hot water baths do not produce any great amount of perspiration, as Natur; does no works of supererogation, the surface of the body being already moistened by steam, vapor, or hot water; consequently there is no demand upon the system for moisture to relieve the body from this beat to which it is subjected, and the result is a weakening and debilitating effect.

The Slaughter-Houses.
To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:
SIR: The authorities seem to be aroused now on the subject of nuisances within the city limits, and I have no doubt they require all the information they can get in order to ferret out these offensive places, which there seems to be so much complaint about. The rendering establishments and slaughterhouses are charged with producing the offensive smell that is carried over the city. There is no doubt they are the cause, but it is from the offal that is taken from them and deposited around in different localities in the southwest, and, when the wind is in that direction, there comes with it this terrible stench. It is well known to the Board of Health that all the offal and animal matter from the slaughter-houses has been drawn out and left on vacant lots and lands in the southwest portion of the city. There was drawn out, last winter and spring, enough to spread over twenty acres, which was only partially covered with the plow, and they have been drawing there all summer, pretending to cover it, but the hot weather has caused these places to produce more offensive and sickening smells than all other places. It is a fearful place to approach; but, if the Board of Health will fit out an exploring party, and call on the writer, at the corner of B-ers and Columbia streets, and insure his life, he will endeavor to pilot them to the ground. The poem seems to a brief biography of the poetess, showing the influence of the singing heart in shaping her destiny. It is school-girly and gushing to a mawkish degree, and the editor of the Picaqune (who is the husband of the poetess) should, in justice to his readers and his wife's reputation, have given it a prominent insertion in the waste-basket.

—Among the inventions shown in the International Exhibition in London is an ordinary sewing machine from France, the peculiarity of which is that it is driven by a clock-work arrangement, which is wound up in the usual way. Fixed on the apparatus, which is inclosed in a case beneath the machine itself, is a set of vases, which can be adjusted at any angle, so that the machine is regulated by the greater or lesser resistance with which they offer to the air. They form, in fact, the governor of the machine. They are represented to be expensive.

machine. They are represented to be expensive.

—The Awful Squids are again swarming at the watering places, and writing bushels of letters to the newspapers about the movements and clothes of the Money bags family. Nor do Mr. and Mrs. Moneybags eeem to object to having greatness thus thrust upon them. On the contrary, Mr. and Mrs. M. order large numbers of the papers containing the Squid's letter, and send them marked to all the other papers in the country. The other papers do up in bundles these marked papers and sell them for wrapping paper. The paying readers of the paper containing the Squid's letter are the only sufferers.

The Impeachment Trial of Judge Bar-BARATOGA, July 19—In the Court of Impeachment to day, Beach, counsel for Barnard, denied the statement that one of his counsel had advised Barnard to resign. He then read a pies denying that the articles of impeachment were adopted by the Assembly. Johnson, Cierk of the Assembly.

ed by the Assembly. Johnson, Clerk of the Assembly, was sworn, and said that if the articles of impeachment were adopted, he should have had a copy.

After further testimony and arguments by both sides, the Court went into private consultation and denied the plea of the defence; then took a recess.
