seemor Young's assailants have alco charged that he is quatained by a mili-tary force in opposition to the federal au thority. Thirty thousand men in arms, says one writer, and seven thousand disciplined troops, another, support Govern-or Young in his contumacy. That there are arms in Utah to keep the Indians in check no one will deny. What frontier settlement has them not? That there may be volunteer companies of militia is also true, and in this respect Utah is not unlike every village in the land. But Governor Young is like the Governor of every State and Territory in the Union in his means of defence. He has no military power that is not possessed by all men in his station. An army is not necessary in Utah. Of the people of that Territory, Gen. John Wilson, of whom Mr. Smith writes as a citizen of the first respectability. and officer of the Federal Government in California, has said in a letter to of the Senate of the United States:
