gendering in the churches a spirit of malevolence-a hatred of brother for brother ;-it is turning the current of men's thoughts from a World contemplation of the beautiful and enchanting principles of religion, to the consideration of the claims of rival parties, and of rival candidates-it is crushing out the life-blood of the church and sapping the very foundations of so. Similar privileges will be claimed from pellants.

We do hope to see the church take a decided and firm stand against these political incubuses upon her prosperity and usefulness. We hope to see her vindicating those ministers who have kept their garments unspotted from the world - setting her face like flint against all who would make merchandize of the holy office of the priesthood-who prostitute their sacred calling to the basest uses. If the Church refuse to take this position, certain decay will fall upon it. A return to the tain decay will fail upon it.
