DOMESTIC NEWS.

The President's Executive Order. Washington, October 30th.—The executive order of the President, giving notice that he will hereafter decline to see all persons seeking official appointments, or their advocates, and limiting to certain hours on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays the time when he will grant interviews on other public matters, does not mean that appointments are to be lessened, but is intended to direct those who desire personal interviews with the appointing power to the proper heads of Departments, whose recommendations guide the President in his appointments. These recommendations, it is said, have in the past been invariably observed, and the interviews with applicants and their friends have consumed almost the entire time of the President, Washington, October 30th .- The execuand been of no use to him or them.

WASHINGTON, October 30th .- The Star to-night says: It is probable, in the reorganization of the Civil Service Commission, the chief place will be given to Judge May-nard, the present Second Comptroller of the Treasury. It is said at the White House that the vacancies on the Civil Service Commission will not be filled until after the President's return from Buffalo, on Wednesday or Thursday next, and that no appointments as Commissioners have yet been determined upon. Second Comptrol- one of the ex-officials debarred from pracler Maynard says no place on the Commission has been offered him, and he has no aspirations whatever in that direction.

Operations of the Labor Bureau. WASHINGTON, October 30th.—In his first annual report to the Secretary of the Interior, upon operations of the Labor Bureau annual report to the Secretary of the Interior, upon operations of the Labor Bureau since its establishment, Commissioner Carroll D. Wright begins with a statement of the organization of the Bureau and a review of the line of policy outlined for the conduct of its investigations. The principal features of that policy were the refusal to recognize parties; that the Bureau should be disconnected with politics, and from a dependence on organizations, whether of workingmen or of employes, and from the support of economic theories, individual to the same and to-day appointed the following fourth-class Postmasters: Arizona—Nogales, S. The Yellowstone National Park. Washington, October 30th.—The Secretary of the Interior has received the report of Superintendent Wear, of the Yellowstone National Park, upon his conduct of affairs since taking charge of the park in July last. He says he found a lack of discipline among the employes, and that hunters were killing game. These things have been remedied, and the park is now full of game of all kinds, including about 200 bison, large numbers of elk and several bands of antelope. About sixteen miles of good road to the leading attractions has been built. The Superintendent says the hotel accommodations are not what they should be for the prices charged, and he recommends that some one be authorized to see that there is something like an equivalent given the patrons. The police affairs also need regulating, and the establishment of a special Court to try park cases is recommended. He asks an appropriation of $150,000 for next year.

STANFORD'S MUNIFICENCE.

Vina, Gridley and Pale Alto Ranches to be Given in Trust.

Under the above heading the San Franisco Post of October 30th has the follow-

There comes from Tehama county, by way of the local papers, the following story: "At the last session of the Board of Sapervisors of Tehama county, Creed Haymond made some interesting statements in record to the disposition of Sentence of Sentenc ments in regard to the disposition of Sen-ator Stanford's property in that county. He declared that all the Senator's lands in He declared that all the Senator's lands in Tehama county, and especially the vine-yard, will be divided into 40-acre tracts and rented, the proceeds going to the university and schools at Palo Alto. When the Vina ranch and vineyard are donated to the State, which will be in December, forty feet on the northern line of the ranch will be deeded to the county of Tehama for a road. Mr. Haymond said also that the twenty-five Trustees who are to have charge twenty-five Trustees who are to have charge of the property of the university will be selected and installed in office by March

Though not quite a correct report of what lid take place at that meeting, the above contains this much of truth: Creed Haymond did appear and suggest that the run-ning of a road through the best part of the Vina vineyard would injuriously affect property soon to be deeded in trust for Stanford's great educational endowment, and he also suggested that, as the Trustees who would soon be appointed might have some plans for subdividing the grant, it would be only proper to consult with them about the road-building or any changes affecting the property. feeting the property of the trust. To all inquirers Senator Stanford uniformly replies that he is not yet ready to make his plans public, but the Post feels certain that next month, or by December at the latest, there will be put on record the first portion of the most magnificent act of self-abnegation the world has ever witnessed. Surveyors and engineers are busy preparing the boundaries and descriptions of three magnificants.

Senator Stanford has determined to set apart for the perpetual use of the Palo Alto University the Vina ranch, the Gridley ranch and the Palo Alto ranch. The Vina ranch is the largest of the three, and consists of about 53,000 acres of the choicest arable land in the northern part of the State. More than 3,000 acres are planted in the choicest varieties of vines, and more are being planted. There are thousands of acres of alfalfa land so choice that five and six crops can be cut each season. The land is supplied with water from an irrigating ditch some 54 miles in length, and the buildings are all of the most substantial character. The Gridley ranch contains about 25,000 acres of fine land, much of it unequaled for wheat and alfalfa. The Palo German Commission to South America.

unequaled for wheat and alfalfa. The Palo Alto ranch contains more than 7,000 acres, and the quality of the land can be estimated from the fact that a considerable part of it was purchased by Senator Stanford at a cost of from $400 to $500 per acre. The bare land in the Vina ranch is worth close on $1,000,000, and the three ranches together than 1,000 acres, and the quality of the land can be estimated from the fact that a considerable part of it was purchased by Senator Stanford at a cost of from $400 to $500 per acre. A GRAND SCHEME.

It is plain that Senator Stanford's plans do not stop at the erection and endowment of an ordinary college, and their scope and breadth can partially be gathered from the "Endowment Act" which was passed at the last session of the Legislature. This would seem to look towards the establish-St. Thomas, October 30th.—Advices from ment of an institution which will rob all other colleges of their ablest professors, and will rank California first in the world as the home of art, science and learning. During his life Senator Stanford will not only give all his wealth, except a fair pro-vision for his relatives, to this and other works of a benevolent character, but will give his own valuable time. He will be an active, vigorous trustee himself, and will, if he lives, see his own estate administered in trust for the realn trust for the people of California. His magnificent scheme awakens almost Uto-pian visions for the future of this State and her people, and the mind becomes dazzled at the contemplation of the vast good that will be done. Through all, Senator Stanford's chief aim is to enable the future generations of the State which has so lavishly endowed him with the material things of life to earn their own living by their own efforts. His aim is to furnish that instruction which is the most serviceable in fighting the battle of life. He deplores the state of dependence in which so many men live, and he seeks to furnish convertinities for the archival with the convertinities. him to live on a higher plane of freedom.
