Last Day of the Races.

The last day of the races was characteristically fine, both in respect to attendance and the running. There were six races, and all were excellent. The first three races were published in yesterday's Critic. The time made by Startle in the third race, a one mile dash, was the swiftest ever run in the District...

The fourth race, a handicap of one and one-eighth miles, was very interesting on account of the contest of the horses contesting it. The winner was Checkmate, with Little Butternut second and Valparaiso third time, 1:57.

The most exciting race, by reason of the close equality of the horses entered, was the fifth, one and a quarter mile heats between Compensation, Wildmorn, Brambleta and Sweet Home. In the first heat Brambleta won in 2:07. Compensation won the two following heats, getting the race. Wildmorn carried the heaviest weight, being at 131 pounds, whereas the other horses carried but 92.

The steeple-chase, two and a quarter miles, completed the races. It was hotly contested by seven runners, and won by Agogram for the late Lord George second and Kenny third.

The managers of the association deserve the greatest praise for the energy and enterprise they have displayed in giving the public such a splendid series of races, and the only regret is that they were not more liberally patronized.

The minutes of the sixty-first convention of the Tennessee Synod of the Lutheran Church, held in New Market, Va., September 10-11, 1881, show that there are 23 ministers, 21 congregations and 6,735 communicants in connection with that synod...

The number of white Baptist associations reported in Alabama is 55, with 1,435 churches and a membership of 70,000. The colored membership is estimated at 90,000, making the total number of Baptist church members in the State 160,000.

Why Dr. Ball was Discharged from the Pension Office. The discharge of Dr. O. M. Ball from the Pension Office, which took place a few days since, was given on the ground that his discharging the roll of the stand, and his officers of the Eleventh Illinois Regiment, the alleged truth of the matter has just leaked out. The offense for which George W. Black is now awaiting trial is that of discharging a man from a pension office mode of operation was the entry on the above roll, originally written by him when clerk of the regiment, of the particulars of the alleged injury for which he claimed the award of a pension. It is true that the roll was revised in a fight which took place in a disreputable house, long after he had left the service...

Dr. H. L. Boyce takes pleasure in informing his friends and the public that he has removed to his new bath parlors (excelsior) at 1417 G street, opposite Riggs House.

The question as to whether the employees of the Government Printing Office are entitled to compensation for the time lost by the enforced closure of that office for five days a week, by order of Superintendent Yeates, on account of the death and funeral of President Garfield, appears to be the theme of discussion among parties not connected with that establishment. While quietly enjoying my evening cigar last night at the billiard-room of the National Hotel, my attention was attracted to a couple who were engaged in a very earnest discussion as to what rights the Government Printing Office were entitled to allow by the Government, when it was informed, held a prominent position under the Government, concluded that the parties were forced to lose their time, without any compensation, so they were entitled to compensation the same as if they had worked. "I cannot see it in that light," replied his friend, "as I understand the law provides how the employees are to be compensated, and so much per hour when at work. So far as you are correct, but there are circumstances outside of the law in this matter to be considered, in which the principles of equity and justice are to be taken into consideration. Men in authority often cause a great deal of distress and suffering to afflict those under their control by being too strict constructors of the law. If I rightly understand the facts in the case in point, the Government Printing Office were forced to suspend work for five or six days by order of the Public Printer, and at the same time ordered to report for duty at the expiration of that time. Under that order they were held in obedience to the public printer, and the consequences of the fact that he was doing great injustice to his employees in forcing them to lose so much unnecessary time, more in truth than was lost by any of the other departments. If he had not done this he would have incurred no liability. He would ask Congress to appropriate money to pay them for time lost. The law provides for the legal holidays the printer shall be paid for. This being true, what right has the Government in suspending the office for a number of days not specified by law unless the appropriation has been exhausted or there was no work for the men? I am not surprised to hear that there is a great deal of feeling manifested on the part of the Government Printing Office, especially when we consider the fact that other employees of the Government were paid for the time lost during the funeral ceremonies. If the Comptroller allows, as I think he will, without the consent of the law, the men will receive pay for the suspension of work." The looker-on responded, "You're right, there."

The Review of the state of religion in the Baptist churches in Maine brought out the fact, says the report, that while we have a debt-paying parsonage building, church edifices-rearing, repairing, we have had a year of dearth of spiritual results.
