COLLINS-CORLISS WEDDING.
Brilliant Nuptial Event at St. Mary's Church This Morning.

A wedding of unusual brilliancy was performed at St. Mary's church this morning at 9 o'clock, when Miss Mary J. Corliss of 33 Summer street became the bride of Postmaster Thomas H. Collins of Farmington, before a large assemblage of relatives and guests. Rev. John T. Winters performed the ceremony.

A nuptial high mass was celebrated with Father Winters as celebrant. Rev. William D. Corliss, S. J., of Boston college, was deacon. Rev. John E. Fay, sub-deacon and Rev. George J. Donahue was master of ceremonies. The bride made a charming appearance in a suit of navy blue with a lace hat. She carried a shower bouquet of roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Anna E. Corliss, who wore a brown broadcloth suit and a lace hat. Kenneth Mannin of New York was best man.

A reception following the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Bridget Corliss, was attended by a large number of guests. The couple left on a wedding trip south, after which they will make their home in Farmington.

The bride is one of the most popular young ladies in the city, and has been employed as a milliner with the Bowen company for a number of years. The groom has resided in Farmington the greater part of his life and enjoys the acquaintance of most of his townspeople. He was recently appointed postmaster by ex-Congressman Augustine Lonergan and the selection met with the approval of Farmington's residents.

Street Department Foreman's Case Is Now Being Considered.

City Engineer William H. Hall has under consideration the discharge of Foreman Thomas French, who has been employed on the Elm street subway job.

French is much larger than Mordecai and is said to have backed his opponent up against the office building of the Stanley Rule and Level company and while holding him by the throat with one hand to have beaten him in the face with the other. It is probable that French will be discharged from the street department. He has been employed since last May.

NEW BRITAIN MEN FIGHT IN MERIDEN

James Smith, Frank E. Brown and Walter Mack Given Light Fines This Morning.

James Smith, Walter Mack and Frank E. Brown, all of this city, were arraigned in the Meriden police court this morning on a charge of assaulting James (Paddy) Carter, a well known over City bruiser. The New Britainites contended that their actions were justified and the court let them off lightly. Smith was fined $5 and costs, Mack was fined $5 and costs and the same penalty was meted out to Brown.

According to the story told by the New Britain men, they had been to the Red Swan Inn Saturday night in an automobile and Carter was there with a team. Going out they claim to have found Smith's coat in Carter's wagon and took it away from him, whereupon he hit one of the party and drove away.

Undaunted, Smith, Mack and Brown jumped into an automobile and chased Carter. At the corner of Grove and Fanover streets they caught him. The trio pulled him from his wagon and administered a decisive pummeling. Carter did not receive much sympathy from his home town people for he is said to be a bully, but sufficiently strong to make it a hard job for less than three ordinary men to take him in charge.

ACCIDENT AT BELVIDERE.

In an automobile accident in the Belvidere section late Sunday afternoon, Max Berkowitz ditched his car and smashed the front wheels. It is claimed by Berkowitz that he ditched his machine to avoid a collision with a car owned and driven by Axel Johnson of Roxbury Road. The accident occurred on Stanley street near Roxbury Road, and Berkowitz claims that Johnson did not signal his intention to turn into Roxbury Road. Johnson claims he gave the signal but that Berkowitz was too close behind when he made the turn, and in consequence was forced to ditch his machine to avoid the collision.
